FIND SHANAHAN ESTATE WORTH OVER A MILLION

Court Battle on Will Bares Fortune.

The estate of State Representative David E. Shanahan, over which his widow and other relatives are waging a court battle, is valued at more than $1,000,000.

This disclosure was made yesterday in the Circuit court before Judge Joseph Burke, who will hear Mrs. Shanahan's suit to restrain her husband's cousin, Miss Mary Flynn, and two other relatives fro mdisposing of assets of the estate which the widow alleges they are holding.

$943,000 Assets Listed.

The new estimate was supplied by Miss Flynn's attorney, William McGah, and other lawyers in the case, who informed the court that cash and securities in the estate total about $943,000. This figure does not include the value of twenty buildings owned by the estate. McGah also charged that Mrs. Shanahan is concealing other property owned by her late husband.

Miss Flynn appeared in court yesterday on a motion to require her to turn over to Mrs. Shanahan, executrix and sole heir of the estate, $80,000 and other assets which Miss Flynn has admitted removing from a safe deposit box. In her answer filed last week Miss Flynn asserts that Shanahan gave her the money in May, 1935, directing that she keep $64,000 and turn the other $16,000 over to Miss Helen Troesch, Shanahan's secretary, whom he married secretly on Oct. 5, thirteen days before his death.

Admits Holding Securities.

Miss Flynn admitted in court yesterday that, in addition to the $80,000, she is also holding $656,000 in securities belonging to the Shanahan estate. Upon her agreement to turn these securities over to Mrs. Shanahan, Judge Burke issued an injunction to restrain the widow from disposing of them pending the outcome of the court fight.

Of the $656,000 in securities in Miss Flynn's possession, $220,000 is in good mortgages, $100,000 in defaulted mortgages, $300,000 in stocks and bonds, and $36,000 in government securities. The other assets include $180,000 in cash held by Mrs. Shanahan, $20,432 in cash and $24,282 in mortgages held by Attorney William Gordon, a real estate man who is a defendant in the injunction suit, and 20 residences and apartment buildings.

Gordon, in his answer filed yesterday, said he manages the buildings owned by the estate. He admitted holding the mortgages which were given to him by Miss Flynn to sell, as well as $17,225 from the sale of other mortgages and $3,207 in cash from other sources.

Seek to Void Marriage.

During yesterday's hearing Attorney McGah told Judge Burke that he is planning to file, perhaps today, a cross bill to the widow's injunction suit in which he will ask that his deathbed marriage to his former secretary be pronounced void. McGah said his cross suit will allege that Shanahan was mentally incompetent to make a will or enter into a marriage.

Judge Burke suggested early in the hearing that all assets of the Shanahan estate be turned over to the court for safekeeping. An objection was entered by Mrs. Shanahan's attorney, James G. Sheridan, who contended that his client, as executrix of the estate, needs actual custody of all the assets in order to make inventories and tax estimates.

The third defendant in the suit is Francis L. Brinkman, Mr. Shanahan's attorney. Brinkman has declared in court previously that while he handled many financial transactions for Mr. Shanahan, he turned over all the assets he held to Mr. Shanahan before the latter's death.

Source of the Fortune.

During his service in the state legislature, which began in 1894, Mr. Shanahan preserved a reputation of scrupulous honesty. It is believed that he amassed his fortune largely through his operations in real estate, which began before he entered political life. He also was a director of the Terminal National bank, the E. L. Essley Machinery company, and the Construction Materials corporation.

Despite his fortune, Mr. Shanahan was known as a man of abstemious habits and simple tastes. A bachelor until two weeks before his death, he lived quietly in a modest dwelling at 2722 Throop street.

BONUS AND HUGE WAGE INCREASE BY GEN. MOTORS

Company Also Pays Extra Dividend.

New York, Nov. 9.—(AP)—A wage boost of 5 cents an hour and a Christmas disbursement of $10,000,000 for employés was announced today by General Motors corporation along with a "year-end" dividend of $1.50 a share on the common stock.

The pay increase, affecting more than 200,000 employés in the United States is effective immediately, the company announced. Hereafter it will displace the "appreciation fund" under which the extra payment of $10,000,000 will be made to workers this year.

[An estimate of the cost of the 5 cent raise is 21 million dollars a year on a forty hour a week basis.]

The "year-end" dividend of $1.50 a share, consisting of $1 extra and 50 cents regular, will aggregate approximately $65,200,000, the largest single payment in the company's history. It is payable Dec. 12 to stock of record Nov. 19.

Explains Wage Adjustment.

Of the wage adjustment, a statement by Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president, said:

"In view of the fact it is likely the current trend of business activity will continue, so far as can now be seen—at least to 1937—and further, rather than to recognize that possibility in the form of an 'appreciation fund' at the end of 1937, it is believed it will be more satisfactory to the organization to anticipate such payment as might be made at the end of the year and distribute it through the year from week to week.

"At the end of last year, in appreciation of the efforts put forth by the organization in contributing to a better business year, there was disbursed an 'appreciation fund.'

Broaden Bonus Payments.

"In view of the fact that the year 1936 has likewise been a good year, similar action will be taken at the same time, except in somewhat different form, as to conditions of service. The amount disbursed per individual will be a minimum of $35 and a maximum of $60, dependent upon the employés rate of pay. The amount so distributed will be approximately $10,000,000.

"While the bonus fund will remain the same, in total, the eligibility list will be importantly enlarged in scope. Going into effect as of 1936, those members of the organization who have contributed outstandingly to the corporation's progress, and who receive annual remuneration at the rate of $2,400, or in excess, will be eligible. This will widen the participation to approximately 8,000 individuals."

Directors' View on Dividends.

Concerning the year-end dividend, Mr. Sloan said:

"This year-end dividend represents the best judgment of the directors as to the balance of estimated earnings of 1936 that may be prudently distributed at this time."

The year-end dividend will bring total payment to stockholders this year to $4.50 a share, or $195,750,000. Previously this year the directors declared two extra payments of 75 cents a share, making the total in extras $2.50 for 1936. The regular quarterly dividends of 50 cents a share give a total of $2, making the grand total $4.50 a share for 1936.

In addition to the thousands of stockholders benefiting from the dividend declaration E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. stand to receive $15,000,000, as the company owns 10,000,000 shares of General Motors common stock.

Other Wage Boosts Expected.

The wage increase announced by General Motors is expected to be followed by action by other large automobile companies within a few days. It is estimated approximately 450,000 workers in the auto plants will receive increases, swelling to more than 1,000,000 the number of employés who have received wage raises in the last week. On Friday the steel industry announced an average increase of 10 per cent for its 500,000 wage earners; the Chrysler corporation granted a bonus of $4,000,000 to its employés, and the Standard Oil Company of Indiana gave one of $4,500,000.

These wage increases have placed the hourly earnings of workers in the steel and automobile industries at a substantially higher level than in 1929. At the same time bonuses have been awarded on a more generous scale than in pre-depression days.

Lone Survivor Tells How 39 on Ship Died

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Fritz Roethke, 17 years old, cabin boy and sole survivor of the forty hands who were aboard the Hamburg-American motorship Isis which foundered and sank some 200 miles off Land's End, England, tonight related the grim story of the vessel's loss.

The youth, who spent twelve hours in an open boat in which he crouched in terror in the darkness before he was picked up by the steamer Westernland, told his story haltingly to the commander of the rescue ship who relayed it here.

Tells What Happened.

"At 6 p. m. Sunday we were all mustered on the boat deck when No. 1 hatch was smashed in and the sea entered," the cabin boy said. "The captain shouted above the storm and said if bulkhead No. 2 would hold out we could keep afloat until morning.

"At 8 p. m. a big breaker came over the ship and apparently bulkhead No. 2 gave way, causing a heavy list to port with the boat deck one foot above water.

"We all held on for our lives. The captain shouted to the chief officer to launch boat No. 2. Some shipmates and I went into the boat when—bang—another breaker struck, smashing the boat completely.

Stern Straight Up in Air.

"I found myself in the water, and struggling, I saw the fore of the ship completely submerged. The stern of the Isis was almost straight up in the air when next I saw her. Down it went, slowly.

"I was awfully scared. I saw my mates spill off into the water. I heard their calls for help, which gradually died away until only the gale roared. Then all was black and lonely.

"Then, atop a big wave, I saw an upturned boat and made for it as best I could. Upon reaching it I found another mate clinging to it. Another breaker turned the boat right side up and I was able to scramble into it.

"I saw the other's hold loosen and he was swept away out of my sight. I jammed myself in the bottom of the boat, which was full of water and continually awash.

"Hours and hours, it seemed, I held on. Up and down the waves tossed me.

"Then I saw a ship. I waved a hand and the next thing I remember I found myself in the Westernland's hospital."

Passengers on the Queen Mary, whose course was altered in answer to the Isis' first SOS, spent an uncomfortable night in the heavy seas. At least 18 were reported injured.

PHILA. MAYOR STOPS SHOW POKING FUN AT WIFE OF PRESIDENT

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Mayor S. Davis Wilson halted a musical revue in its first local performance tonight because, he said, "It's an outrage to poke fun at the President's wife."

Arising from his seat in the audience during the Girl Scout skit in "New Faces," the mayor shouted: "Put a stop to this at once. Take that skit out—or I'll stop the whole show."

The mayor said the characters portraying Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Herbert Hoover reflected discreditably upon them.

Lawrence Shubert Lawrence, manager of the theater, followed the mayor as he strode up the aile. Lawrence protested. Martin Jones, the producer, and Leonard Sinn, the author, came up to protest too, and said Mrs. Roosevelt's three sons had laughed heartily at the skit.

The revue ran seven months in New York "without a murmur," they told the mayor.

"Never mind," Wilson replied, "that skit can't happen here."

"Both President Roosevelt and Mrs. Roosevelt know all about the skit and think it's funny," Producer Jones declared. "Jim Farley liked it. Look, we have quotes from him on our advertising."

The mayor was adamant—"Never mind. Either the skit goes—or the show does."

In the end the management capitulated. It said the skit would not be in the show tomorrow night. Then the show went on.

Roosevelt Asks Wide Program to Help Labor

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Interpreting the election as an "unmistakable mandate," President Roosevelt today recommended a broad program of labor legislation by the states and pledged federal reinforcement "when problems assume an interstate or a national character."

In a letter read to the third national conference on labor legislation he enumerated "reasonably short working hours" and "adequate annual incomes" among desired objectives. No mention of the Supreme court was made, but the court's action on legislation like NRA, the Guffey act, and the New York wage law—aimed at similar objectives—entered into the discussions among the delegates.

Discuss Constitution Change.

Should the projected federal and state efforts fall athwart the Supreme court, it was generally assumed, in view of the Democratic platform, that a constitutional amendment would be sought. The desirability of recommending one at once received some consideration in the private discussions.

Under the guidance of Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, who called the conference, committees set about studying wage and hour and other problems. Elmer F. Andrews, state industrial commissioner for New York and head of the committee on hours, was one who believed some sort of federal hour regulation imperative.

"In a state with advanced social legislation like New York," he said, "the manufacturers feel the stress of competition from states with lower standards.

"The problem has certainly to be attacked from the national viewpoint. Those of us working for these purposes in New York have been holding up for a while to be guided by what the federal government does."

President's Message.

The President's message to the conference said:

"I wish to send you my hearty greetings and to welcome to Washington this large and representative

Barrymore, on Wedding Day, Drops to Sleep

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 9.—(AP)—John Barrymore passed the first day of his fourth marriage in deep, sound sleep.

Attired in tennis shoes and an overcoat, the actor dashed to Yuma, Ariz., by airplane for a midnight marriage to Elaine Barrie Jacobs, 21, who was the disconsolate heroine of last year's "Ariel and Caliban" romance.

The bridal party returned to Hollywood by rail in the cold of today's dawn.

"I'm so thrillingly happy," beamed Miss Barrie.

Said the 54 year old Barrymore:

Bride Goes with Mother.

The lissome, dark eyed bride then went with her mother to a Beverly Hills hotel. Barrymore reported at the film studio where he is under contract.

"I'm going back to the hotel and go to sleep," he said. "And I don't want to be disturbed until 5 o'clock this afternoon. I'm all worn out."

Only recently Barrymore left the sickbed. He was in a Santa Barbara sanitarium and a Silver City rest home during the last six months because of illness, settled two law suits for the same reason, and, so his friends said, has been living the simple life, with early hours and plain food ever since.

Tempestous Romance.

Last year Barrymore fled his "Ariel." Later it required the services of an attorney to arbitrate the dispute over a diamond ring he had given Miss Barrie. Finally, Barrymore was quoted as saying he would not marry her and adding, "how could any man get along with a woman like that?"

Miss Barrie kicked the dust of Hollywood from her feet and went eastward. She takes up the story from there

"He telephoned me in Long Island," she said, "and we set the date. I was appearing in a play in Jackson Heights, and couldn't leave before 10:20 Saturday night and the plane left the Newark airport at 11:35. I ran out of the theater with all my makeup on.

"I'm so thrillingly happy. I've loved Jack since the first time I saw him."

Her Parents at Wedding.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Jacobs, and an attorney, Aaron Sapiro, accompanied them to Yuma last night. Justice of the Peace Earl A. Freeman, "the marrying justice," performed the ceremony.

"I didn't know my marriage was so important. It seems I chased the king off the front page today," Barrymore said.

The three Mrs. Barrymores who preceded Elaine and all eventually separated by divorce from the aging lover were, successively, Katherine Corri, Michael Strange, the writer, and Miss Costello, the film star. Miss Costello's divorce became final a month ago.

FASCISTS FAIL IN FIERCE FIGHT TO CROSS RIVER

Dead Fill Trenches After Attack.

BULLETIN.

WITH SPANISH REBEL ARMIES ON THE MADRID FRONT, Nov. 9.—It was reported at nightfall that bridges to Toledo and Segovia over the Manzanares river have been blown up by the loyalists, who retreated, and that the rebels crossed to the Madrid side.

BY ALEX SMALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH SPANISH REBEL ARMIES ON THE MADRID FRONT, Nov. 9.—After hours of fighting today in which machine gun fire from both sides played the chief rôle, the rebel columns attacking Madrid from the west were prevented by government militia from crossing the Manzanares river. However, on the southwest insurgents drove to within 500 yards of the Angel gate and Toledo bridge.

Either because they were forced to fight by file closers, or in desperation, the government troops in their well prepared trenches on Casa de Campo, west of the Manzanares, facing the former royal palace, poured heavy rifle and machine gun fire on the attacking Tercio [foreign legion].

Trenches Filled with Dead.

The insurgents were forced to halt to wait for artillery support, which cleared the trenches in front of the big military hospital to the west of Madrid. The loyalist survivors raised the white flag and surrendered. The trenches were found filled with dead, among them boys no more than 14 years old.

The foreign legion then occupied the hospital, which was one clearly authenticated conquest in what has become house to house warfare. In the afternoon the rebels in Casa de Campo, the former private park of kings, renewed their terrific attack.

Farther to the north of the hospital hot action also took place in which loyalist trenches were defended by militia women, large numbers of whom were killed.

Smoke Obscures Buildings.

It is reported the government has withdrawn its artillery and troops from the Guadarrama front because during the day Col. Castejon and his rebel troops attacking on a line between Casa de Campo and Puerta Dehierro were shelled from a point north of Las Rozas on the Madrid-Guadarrama road.

Another big action today took place farther east, in a spot north of Getafe where the rebels rained bombs from planes on the outskirts of the capital in the most terrific air bombardment which has taken place in this war. The artillery joined in the attack and despite the crystal clear atmosphere, clouds of smoke from exploding bombs and fires caused by them completely obscured Madrid's tall buildings. Some loyalist artillery replied, but feebly.

Locate Loyalist Batteries.

It is now possible to get some fairly accurate notions of what is taking place on the other side. For instance, a wild jam of trucks, taxis and vehicles of every description was seen along the Valencia highway loaded with people and their possessions. The inhabitants were fleeing to the southeast from Madrid.

The rebels have learned the position of loyalist batteries set up within the city itself. One is believed to be in the gardens of the former royal palace facing Casa de Campo, and another in the Paseo de la Castellana, Madrid's fashionable residence avenue. Rebel air raids have been directed to silence these batteries, it was asserted.

Offer Place of Refuge.

To reassure Madrid citizens, the rebels have proclaimed their intention not to bomb the northwest section of the city from the air unless forced by military necessity. Citizens were urged by radio and leaflets dropped from planes to take refuge in that section.

Gen. Francisco Franco, rebel commander, in an official proclamation, also said that only those will be punished who have misled the people.

In certainty of their victory, the rebels already have prepared an organization for bringing Madrid back to normal. They intend to prevent an influx into Madrid of people seeking news of relatives until they have assured a food supply. Cars of their special police service already are running about the streets of Toledo ready to proceed to the capital.

The civil administration also is organized and ready to be installed as well as a corps of expert telegraph and telephone operators ready to take over offices and begin work as soon as the conquest is complete.

SURPRISE RAID FAILS

BY HENRY BUCKLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Nov. 9.—Madrid held its own despite two wing attacks today. Around 7 a. m. Madrid woke up to a terrific fusillade. A small party of Gen. Francisco Franco's rebel forces had stolen down through ex-King Alfonso's former private park [now a fonso's former private park, Casa de Campo [now a popular picnic ground].

Under cover of darkness they took up positions under the trees. Perhaps it was just an attempt to test the strength of government forces in this sector.

The militia opened fire and after an hour's interchange the rebels withdrew. Some had made an attempt to ford the Manzanares.

Shell Valencia Road.

Another attack hooked around the south from the rebel position at Villaverde Bajo. Tanks, followed by Moors and other troops, headed along the small road leading to the Vallecas bridge, which is a strategic point, for here the main road to Valencia crosses the Manzanares river.

Government artillery threw down a barrage on this open country where there is not the slightest shelter. Loyal forces held their ground, and after a brisk exchange of shots, the insurgent advance was halted. All morning long loyal forces could be seen shelling that road.

This war is now easy to cover. With field glasses, from the top of one of Madrid's baby skyscrapers, one can follow the whole operation. This afternoon, after the lunch time lull, there was a sudden outburst of activity in the open country west of Carabanchal Alto. There was heavy shelling of the government lines by the rebels.

Sees Positions Shift.

I could see groups of men shifting positions. It looked as if the rebels were launching an evening attack again in the Casa de Campo sector. Guns were booming.

While these movements on the flanks proceeded Madrid was subjected to a shelling. The Café Oriental, picturesque old Spanish café such as inspired Ernest Hemingway, and situated at the corner of the Puerta del Sol, was half wrecked by a shell which skimmed over the roof of the now vacant ministry of interior and exploded among the tables and chairs.

It was at an early hour of the morning and there were no patrons. Another shell smashed through a window of the building in which the British-American club is situated.

Bombers Renew Raids.

To add to Madrid's troubles bombers came over several times. I watched them flying. First came three and then four, closely escorted by pursuit ships.

Columns of smoke went up. One house collapsed and thirty-seven persons were hurt.

The answer appears to be that they were busy elsewhere. It was claimed that thirteen rebel bombers were brought down near the fighting lines in three days by government planes.

Two shells landed in the Calle del Barquillo, which runs alongside the war ministry in the center of town. Three sharp explosions followed. Casualty figures are difficult to get. The morgue says thirty dead were taken in there before noon..

Drive Near Toledo Bridge.

MADRID, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Spanish insurgents drove to within 500 yards of Madrid proper tonight.

Their powerful assault was checked by government defenders within 500 yards of the Angel gate and Toledo bridge leading into the streets of the capital.

The attack came down the highroad through Carabanchel Bajo after deadly artillery fire and four air raids had driven the government forces back two miles.

The swiftly advancing insurgents also attacked the exhausted troops of the government forces in Moncloa and the university area in the northwest section of Madrid.

Nervous government militia and street guards in Madrid kept up a day-long rain of slugs on every building where Fascist snipers were thought to be hiding. The government announced twenty-five persons had been executed by loyalist firing squads last night.

Insurgent bombing and pursuit planes shook the city in four separate raids, diving unscathed through the popping bursts of futile anti-aircraft fire.

At 8:30 a. m. the planes roared down upon the city. They came twice in the afternoon and the fourth time in the evening.

In the morning air raid and almost incessant artillery bombardment, two bombs exploded near the French embassy—almost struck by a bomb on Sunday.

Another shattered a house near the Puerta del Sol, called Madrid's "Times Square."

Three shells struck in the heart of the theatrical district; others hit apartment houses near the war ministry.

Explosions were heard near the ministries of war, communications, and navy. Three other shells ripped holes in the pavements of the Gran Via—main business thoroughfare—causing crowds of strolling shop girls to throw themselves face down on the street. The Madrid Electric company's offices in Gran Via were wrecked.

MADRID BRACES DEFENSE AT RIVER

In a fierce engagement yesterday Madrid militiamen prevented Spanish rebels concentrated in the Casa de Campo (1) from crossing the Manzanares river into the main portion of the capital. On the rebel right flank, troops, supported by artillery fire and bombing planes, attempted to move northeast from Villaverde (2). Greatest rebel advance of the day was a drive which took them within 500 yards of the Toledo bridge (3). Fascists claim to have entered the northwest section of Madrid in the Moncloa and university districts.

COOK DIES IN UNION OFFICE.

Fred Brennan, 61 years old, 4027 Sheridan road, a cook, died of heart disease yesterday while in the office of the Pastry and Cooks' union at 414 South State street.

53 AMERICANS TAKE REFUGE IN MADRID EMBASSY

Doors Reopened as Peril Grows in Streets.

MADRID, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Fifty-three Americans tonight were sheltered in the United States embassy, the doors of which were again opened for American citizens as the Spanish civil conflict raged around the capital. Thirty-one of these were from the United States, eight from Porto Rico, and fourteen from the Philippine Islands.

One hundred and twelve American citizens, including Filipinos and Porto Ricans still remained outside of the embassy, but many of these were expected to seek its shelter shortly.

Sixty Americans, employés of the International Telephone company, still lived in the telephone building. In addition to the Americans refuged in the embassy there were seventy-seven employés—servants and their families—on guard at the embassy. Emergency quarters were again established in the embassy apartments. The main salon has been turned into a women's dormitory, as it was during the first days of the civil war. Among those in the embassy are William Krieger, Evanston, Ill., an embassy clerk, and several representatives of American newspapers.

France Investigates "Leak."

PARIS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The Quai d'Orsay tonight ordered an immediate investigation into the publication of a secret official circular to French generals in Morocco asking for a list of tribal leaders in Spanish Morocco.

Officials who confirmed the existence of the document said it had not been released for publication, but was printed in a royalist newspaper. An official under Marcel Peyrouton, French resident general in Morocco, officials stated, prepared the circular to be sent to generals in the regions of Fez, Taza, and Oudjda. They said the circular was dated June 31. The Quai d'Orsay said that as a result of publication of the document "agents of foreign countries might have knowledge of it."

Seeks Information on Chiefs.

The circular as published asked the generals in Morocco to state "the nature and value" of the sentiments of native chieftains "concerning us and the sultan."

"It would be useful if our native chieftains had friendly relations, usable on occasions, with their Spanish colleagues across the border," the published document continued. "But this, needles to say, must be prudent and discreet; no written document should be used."

SALOONIST FINED FOR RESISTING.

ENVOY HOISTS FLAG OF SPANISH REBELS OVER BERLIN EMBASSY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 9.—Hymns of Germany and Phalanxist [Fascist] Spain echoed through a narrow, classy street of the Berlin diplomatic district today when Francisco Agramonte y Cortijo, former Spanish ambassador in Berlin, took over the upper floors and roof of the Spanish embassy. He hoisted the flag of his friend, Gen. Francisco Franco, Spanish rebel leader, in the presence of many Berlin Phalanxists.

The Madrid government's chargé d'affaires, José Ruviera, was nowhere to be seen. The German press asserted he had "fled" to Paris. Ruviera left the German capital Saturday after informing the foreign office he was leaving because he feared a repetition of the attack made against him last week.

PRISONER DIES IN CELL.

Edward Sullivan, 26 years old, 5531 Princeton avenue, who was arrested Friday for disorderly conduct, was found dead yesterday in a cell at the detective bureau. He was to have been arraigned in court today.

WOMAN, 81, SLAYS HUSBAND, 91, AS A GADDING ROMEO

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Because her 91 year old husband had been "chasing around with other women for the last 40 years," Mrs. Anna Johnson, 81 years old, slew him with a razor today and then hanged herself.

The woman left a note for police in which she said she and her mate, Charles, had been married 60 years and that for four decades "he has been chasing out every chance he got with other women."

Neighbors said that whatever philandering Johnson might have undertaken was well concealed. They said he was somewhat lame and apparently had difficulty even in shaving himself.

Detectives believed that his habit of having his wife shave him daily accounted for the manner of his death. They termed the case murder and suicide.

Friends of the couple told detectives that Mrs. Johnson had been acting strangely of late.

MacDONALD ILL; FAINTS AT LORD MAYOR'S DINNER

Baldwin Pleads to World to Unite Against War.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 9.—J. Ramsay MacDonald, former prime minister, collapsed at a banquet in honor of Sir George Broadbridge, London's new lord mayor, in the Guildhall tonight. The 70 year old president of the council fainted just as Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin was finishing a plea to the world to unite against war. Unnoticed by most of the guests, MacDonald tried to rise from his seat and fell across the top of the table. His daughter, Ishbel, sat beside him.

Attendants carried the minister behind a screen, where he was treated by Lord Dawson of Penn, physician to King Edward VIII.

After twenty minutes MacDonald recovered sufficiently to leave the banquet. He leaned heavily on the arm of a police officer. Ishbel followed, carrying his coat and sword. Lord Dawson assisted him into a car and he was driven to his Hampstead home, where he retired to bed.

Called Acute Indigestion.

"MacDonald had an attack of acute indigestion," said Lord Dawson. "It was not serious. I think he will soon be well."

"The atmosphere and the heaviness of his uniform made my father faint," Ishbel said.

Prime Minister Baldwin in his speech warned that Fascism and communism erected into frantic religions, are the bane of Europe and threaten to wreck it as religious wars of another kind did in the middle ages.

He laid particular stress on Great Britain's determination to push the rearmament program rapidly to completion so it need no longer submit to threats of dictatorial powers. At the same time he warned that nations are moving toward a new war which would result in a "world revolution, anarchy, and untold misery beside which the misery of the last war is happiness."

Denounces Reds and Fascists.

Denouncing Fascism and communism as the gravest menace to peace, Baldwin said:

"We never sit in judgment here on what may happen in foreign countries but I am resolved that in this country neither of those forces ever shall triumph."

Although Britain is strengthening its fighting forces to the limit, the prime minister spoke of the "inconceivable folly" of wholesale rearmament and urged the nations to get together to save Europe.

"The British government," he pledged, "is ready and anxious to embrace every opportunity to stop the growth of armament, effect a reduction of armament and enter into agreements which will make for peace and remove from Europe the fear that broods over her today."

Praises Relations with U. S.

Baldwin also spoke about the common political and economic interests of the United States and Britain.

"Relations with the United States always have been excellent and the British government is looking forward to a further period of friendly coöperation with the government of President Roosevelt in all matters of common concern," he said. "It is particularly gratifying to his majesty's government to know the main objective of economic policies is the same, namely the liberation of the world from shackles unduly impeding the free development of international trade. A further bond between the two countries is the similarity of interests in the political world and the desire for world peace."

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Three casks rolled out of an overturned motor truck near Chisinau today, breaking open and disclosing three human bodies. DECLARES KING PLANS TO REVEAL TROTH TO WALLY

[Special Cable to the New York News.]

LONDON, Nov. 9.—King Edward VIII. of England has decided to announce his engagement to Mrs. Wallis [Wally] Simpson before his coronation in May, the New York News learned today.

His plan—carefully arranged with regard to the sensibilities of his millions of subjects—is said to include a careful checkback on the reactions both of peers and commoners. If the public raises a hue and cry at the prospect of a Baltimore queen-consort on the throne of England, they will have plenty of time in which to formulate their disapproval before Edward is formally crowned sovereign.

Whether the king would repudiate Mrs. Simpson if the public roared a protest, or whether he would cling to her and abdicate is a question which is agitating many in court circles.

Mrs. Simpson's divorce from Ernest A. Simpson, a shipping broker, will become final on April 27. She obtained her decree nisi on Oct. 27. It is expected that King Edward will await the expiration of the six months' interval required to make the divorce absolute before he officially announces his engagement. That will give the house of commons, the house of lords, and the clergy of the Church of England a good two weeks in which to launch formal opposition to Edward's marriage, if such is their wish.

2 EARTHQUAKES RUMBLE THROUGH NEW HAMPSHIRE

Boston, Mass., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Two separate earthquakes rumbled through sections of New Hampshire tonight.

At Lancaster residents said the rumblings lasted thirty seconds and shook houses. Colebrook citizens said the shocks were severe enough to resemble an explosion.

Other reports came from Laconia, Franklin, Belmont, and Sanbornton. In Franklin residents reported the rumblings caused dogs to bark. In Laconia theater audiences heard the rumblings.

At Harvard university's Harvard, Mass., observatory Dr. L. Don Leet checked instruments and announced the shocks occured at 9:45:51 and 11:02:25, eastern standard time.

Both quakes, he said, were "quite similar" to one that shook Cape Cod on April 23, 1935.

FIRE DESTROYS ALTAR, WRECKS NAVE OF CHURCH

Two persons were injured and damage estimated at more than $50,000 was caused yesterday by a fire that destroyed the main altar and wrecked the interior of St. Philomena's church at Cortland street and Kedvale avenue.

The fire was blamed on faulty electrical connections. The Rev. Louis Bohnenberger, assistant pastor of the church, was in the rectory when he saw smoke issuing from the church windows. He and his pastor, the Rev. Joseph Ruetershoff, carried the sacred vessels to safety.

About 1,000 pupils in the parochial school across the street from the church were marched out of their building in orderly fashion as the firemen began their successful fight to save the church building.

Those injured were Charles Feller, 37, 1825 North Karlov avenue, a trustee of the church, and Joseph Romano, 45, 4201 Armitage avenue, a parishioner, who were injured by falling plaster while attempting to save valuable paintings and other objects. Feller was taken to the Danish American hospital, and Romano to St. Anne's hospital.

OLD SCOT SWORD STOLEN; SEEN AS SIGN OF REVOLT

May Be Used in Crusade Against English Rule.

STIRLING, Scotland, Nov. 9.—(AP)—A raid by four masked men, who stole the famed two handed sword of Sir William Wallace, Scottish patriot of the early fourteenth century, stirred uneasiness tonight lest the historic weapon might be used as a symbol of a Nationalist crusade.

The four raiders, according to police, described themselves as "Scottish nationalists" to the aged curator of the National Wallace museum.

The curator was found locked in a closet after the thieves had smashed a glass case containing the Wallace sword and escaped.

Deny Men Were Members.

The secretary of the Nationalist society denied the men were members.

The sword, 5 feet 6 inches long, was kept in Dumbarton castle from the time of Wallace's death, in 1305, until 1888, when it was placed in the museum.

Bitterness over what Scotsmen have termed English "domination" in the rule of the United Kingdom has flared sporadically in recent years.

Since earliest times conflict between the two countries has been fierce and often bloody. The battle of Bannockburn, June 24, 1313, caused the greatest disaster an English army had ever suffered and led ultimately to the treaty of Northampton, in 1328, acknowledging the independence of the Kingdom of Scotland from England.

Treaty of Union in 1707.

But the feud never died out. For hundreds of years open or smouldering hostilities marred relations between the north and south.

It was not until 1707, however, that the Scottish parliament finally agreed to a treaty of union. Even then the terms of the union only aggravated the long-standing dispute. The Scots resented the introduction of the English law of treason, and English Presbyterians disliked a grant of toleration to Scottish Presbyterians.

In more recent years Scotsmen have repeatedly charged England with attempting—and succeeding—in controling the single parliament and of treating "superciliously" Scottish claims and Scottish prestige.

The Scottish Nationalist party has long sought self-government for Scotland. Recently tens of thousands of Scotsmen signed a petition which was sent to King Edward VIII. asking for greater consideration in the government of the kingdom.

FOUR STOWAWAYS TELL OF BEING CAST ADRIFT ON SMALL RAFT

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The United States district attorney's office tonight ordered an investigation of the story told by four men who said they were put adrift on a small raft by the captain of a freighter who discovered them as stowaways.

The men said they stowed away on the freighter at Ponce, Porto Rico. They said that after they were discovered they were cast adrift with only a loaf of bread and a bottle of water 15 miles offshore.

A fishing schooner picked up the stowaways 12 hours later as they were attempting to reach the shore paddling with their hands near the island called Caja de Muertos which many persons assert was Stevenson's original "Treasure Island."

F. S. DE VENY OF CITY B. & O. STAFF ROBBERS' VICTIM

F. S. DeVeny, 50 years old, a division superintendent of operations for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, staggered into the offices of the American District Telegraph company, 29 South La Salle street early today and announced he had been robbed. His face showed severe bruises and one eye was badly blackened.

Police were called. DeVeny said he had been robbed of a two carat diamond ring and an undetermined amount of money. He said he could not remember what had happened. His last recollection, he said, was that he was at Harrison and Wells streets at 6 o'clock last night. His office is located there.

DeVeny was taken to St. Luke's hospital for treatment.

Negotiations on Pacific Coast Delayed.

New York, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The crew of the Panama-Pacific liner Pennsylvania, numbering 385 men, drew wages and quit the ship late today on her arrival from San Francisco, as the seamen's strike in the port of New York entered its second week.

Capt. William H. Lee, general superintendent of the United States lines, of which Panama-Pacific is subsidiary, immediately expressed doubt the company would be able to obtain a crew in time for the Pennsylvania's scheduled sailing for the west coast at 11 a. m. Saturday.

Effectiveness Disputed.

Meanwhile, effectiveness of the strike here and in other Atlantic and gulf ports remained in sharp dispute.

The seamen's defense committee, sponsors of the strike, declared 68 ships, with crews totaling 10,553 men, were tied up in New York, and 239 vessels, involving 17,500 men, held in other Atlantic and gulf ports.

R. J. Baker, president of the Steamship Owners association, said nine ships, carrying 455 sailors, members in good standing of the International Seamen's union, cleared New York today and that since Oct. 29 a total of 128 ships, with 8,125 union men aboard, had left here. Elsewhere on the Atlantic coast and in the gulf, Baker said, latest reports had only 12 ships tied up.

Union Officer Surrenders.

David E. Grange, third vice president of the International Seamen's union, who has been opposing the walkout under the leadership of Joseph Curran, surrendered today on a charge of felonious assault and was released on $500 bail when he pulled the cash from his pocket.

Curran's group announced it had sent a telegram to Secretary Frances Perkins asserting strikebreakers were being hired in Baltimore by the National Reëmployment Service which, it was claimed, "is supplying crews for ships where the regular crews are on strike."

"We demand," said the telegram, "that this scab herding by the United States government and its agencies be stopped immediately."

Negotiations Delayed.

San Francisco, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Disagreement over release of strike bound ships in Hawaii arose today to halt temporarily attempts at resuming negotiations to settle the Pacific coast's general maritime strike.

More than 150 vessels remained tied up in coast ports, where 37,000 union maritime workers are on strike. The coast unions' joint policy committee, reverting to a former plan of permitting vessels to return to home ports, notified union officials in Honolulu, where 600 travelers are marooned, to supply crews for seven ships tied up there.

Reports indicated the island unions were suspicious of the authenticity of the committee's cablegram, and Assistant Labor Secretary Edward F. McGrady stepped in to clarify the situation.

Await Washington Order.

In San Pedro, where 50 vessels are strike bound, federal officials awaited word from Washington before advising the marshal's office what action to take in unloading a banana consignment from the liner, California. Another 50 ships are held here.

Federal court libel ordered the marshal to effect removal of the fruit, but union men, at a meeting last night, shouted opposition to any such action by them.

STATE STREET GROUP INCREASES DONATIONS TO COMMUNITY FUND

Increased contributions this year to the Community Fund by the large merchandising concerns in the State street group were announced yesterday by James B. Forgan, general chairman of the 1936 campaign for $3,400,000.

Contributions from some of the concerns whose pledges are already in were listed, together with last year's contributions, as follows:

Firm.	1936.	1935.
Marshall Field & Co.	$20,000	$16,400
F. W. Woolworth Co.	3,500	2,500
S. S. Kresge Co.	2,500	2,000
The Fair	5,000	5,000
Goldblatt Bros.	11,000	9,400
W. T. Grant Co.	500	200

Announcement was also made that the Commonwealth Edison company has contributed $75,000, the largest individual gift made to the campaign so far. Other large pledges, according to T. J. Carney, vice chairman, were International Harvester company, $60,000; Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company and First National Bank of Chicago, $40.000 each; Marshall Field estate, $55,000; Sears, Roebuck & Co., $40,000, and Standard Oil of Indiana, $25,000.

PRESIDENT OPENS PARLEY ON NEXT YEAR'S BUDGET

Deficit Since July 1st Passes Billion Mark.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—With the deficit for the current fiscal year crossing the billion dollar mark, President Roosevelt today began a series of conferences on the next budget.

Among the government officials who conferred with the President was Daniel W. Bell, acting director of the budget. Mr. Bell is receiving estimates from department heads on their requirements for the next fiscal year, 1938, which starts July 1, 1937. The President hinted at "budget balancing" following the election.

Billion Deficit Since July 1.

The billion dollar deficit was disclosed in the treasury's daily statement for last Friday, which was published today. The excess of expenditures over receipts reached $1,001,214,025 on that date, having been piled up since July 1.

The deficit for the current fiscal year compared with $1,442,928,794 for the same period a year ago. Actual expenditures this year are much higher but are not revealed by the treasury's system of bookkeeping.

Repayments Deducted.

The treasury subtracts all repayments to arrive at net expenditures. On the latest statement, $290,572,605 representing excess of repayments over expenditures in the lending agencies was subtracted to arrive at the net spending figure.

The amounts deducted for each agency were as follows: Reconstruction Finance corporation, $213,423,652; Commodity Credit corporation, $61,123,429; Farm Credit administration, $10,046,255; Agricultural Adjustment administration, $5,979,269.

DRAW PLANS FOR ACCURATE COUNT OF NATION'S IDLE

Aim to List Industries and Areas Hardest Hit.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Commerce department officials today were drafting recommendations for appropriation of $15,000,000 or $20,000,000 for an accurate count of the nation's jobless.

Subject to approval by the President, officials said, a bill will be submitted to congress authorizing the census bureau to make the survey and appropriate funds for this purpose.

Such a census has been suggested often during the last few years, with some economists contending that detailed, authentic knowledge of the size of the unemployment problem was vital to the success of any attack upon it. Estimates of unemployment have varied widely.

Costigan Bill Defeated.

Senator Costigan [Dem., Colo.] introduced a bill in the last congress providing for a census, but, lacking administration support, it failed to pass.

Officials said the census bureau probably could make the count in from four to six months.

For several weeks, it was said, census experts have been working on forms which would be used in the jobless count. Besides showing the actual number of unemployed, these forms would be used to gather much other important information.

Various Details Sought.

The census would be designed to show in which industries and which areas the unemployment problem was most serious, the length of time a person had been out of work, the amount of part-time employment he had, and similar data.

The census plans will be submitted to congress as a separate proposal, officials said, dependent on the budget and the department's other requests for funds.

After the first census is completed, periodic counts are planned under the direction of a projected new "division of industrial economics."

The department has asked the budget bureau to recommend a $400,000 appropriation to start the division, which would coördinate such statistics for the benefit of industry.

PISTOL SLIPS OUT OF COAT; LIQUOR DEALER IS KILLED

William Ex, 45 years old, 1729 Farwell avenue, owner of a liquor store at 6761 North Clark street, slipped his pistol into his coat pocket yesterday to take his receipts to a nearby bank. As he leaned over a box the pistol fell to the floor and was discharged. The bullet struck Ex in the chest, killing him.

"The sessions of the national conference on labor legislation in 1934 and 1935 formulated a program for the leveling upward of labor standards which commands my wholehearted sympathy and approval and that of my administration.

"Furthermore, I believe the country has this last week given a mandate in unmistakable terms to its legislators and executives to proceed along these lines until working people throughout the nation and in every state are assured decent working conditions, including safe and healthful places of work, adequate care and support when incapacitated by reason of accident, industrial disease, unemployment, or old age; reasonably short working hours, adequate annual incomes, proper housing, and elimination of child labor.

Urges Help in Program.

"I hope that your conference will give serious consideration as to how the objectives may be achieved and that when you return to your states you will assume the leadership in your communities for putting the necessary legislation on the statute books.

"I assure you that the federal government is willing to do its part in making these standards effective and in supplementing the efforts of the states when problems assume interstate or national character.

"This coming year should be an outstanding one in the annals of labor legislation.

"I am indeed sorry that I cannot personally attend your sessions, but I assure you that I shall follow the outcome with a great deal of interest."

FRENCH POLICE BATTLE RIOTING REDS; 14 INJURED

PARIS, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Fourteen police and several communist sympathizers were injured tonight when leftists attempted to attack a congress of Jacques Doriot's French popular party in Saint Denis. The fights resulted when communists tried to break through police lines around the congress hall.

Leaders of the communists in the attempted push toward the Municipal theater, where Doriot and thousands of his followers met in the party's first national assembly, were seized by plain clothes detectives.

Inside, Doriot warned his followers to keep calm and continued his speech in which he demanded the abandonment of the Franco-soviet mutual assistance pact.

WPA STUDENTS ARRESTED FOR HOURS PROTEST

New York, Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Sixteen students of the WPA adult education project in the New York School of Industrial Art were arrested today when they refused to leave a classroom in protest against a proposal to cut their hours to make room for regular students.

The arrests culminated a series of disturbances covering a period of more than a week in which the students protested that they were being neglected by an indifferent board of education interested only in the welfare of the regular vocational high school students.

The sixteen, ranging from 17 to 51 years of age, of whom four were women, were booked on a charge of disorderly conduct. They entered the classroom at 9:15 a. m. and refused to leave. They were put out by the police. Two hours later they returned singly and banded together in the room, refusing again to depart. The arrests followed.

Ask your Wife to Help You

END A COLD Quicker

with The 3-Minute VapoRub Massage

When you're down with a miserable cold, ask your wife to help you do just this.

Massage VapoRub briskly on the throat, chest and back (between and below the shoulder blades). Then spread it thick over the chest and cover with warmed cloth.

Already, your VapoRub has begun to bring relief—two ways at once:

1. Through the Skin. VapoRub acts direct through the skin like a poultice or plaster.

2. Medicated Vapors. At the same time, its medicated vapors, released by body heat, are breathed in for hours—about 18 times a minute—direct to the irritated air-passages of the nose, throat and chest.

While you relax into comfortable sleep, VapoRub keeps right on working. Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over.

POLICE SLAYER PLEADS GUILTY AS GIRL DESERTS

She Wins Severance to Testify Against Him.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Dorothy Bergholz, 19 years old, gained a separate trial yesterday morning when she and Walter Meyer, 22 years old, went on trial before Judge William J. Fulton of the Du Page county Circuit court in Wheaton for the murder of Policeman John B. Frost of Lombard last Sept. 3.

Three members of a death jury to try Meyer alone were chosen before the noon recess, during which the youth learned that Dorothy intended to testify against him. He promptly changed his plea from not guilty to guilty and the judge reluctantly dismissed the prospective jurors.

Meyer is a paroled convict.

Girl Appears Carefree at Outset.

When court opened in the morning Dorothy appeared bright eyed and confident. She wore a jaunty plaid jacket and a neat hair ribbon. After she won her severance she was locked up again in the women's quarters of the jail.

Meyer, on the other hand, was nervous. As he walked past his mother, sisters, and little nieces in the front row he straightened his narrow shoulders and managed a smile, but while he listened to questioning of the veniremen about their views on the death penalty he plucked worriedly at his face.

When court reconvened after the noon recess Attorney Robert J. Scott of Glen Ellyn, who with Attorney William R. Friedrich of Naperville was appointed by the court to defend the penniless Meyer, asked that the jury be sent out, then sought permission to change Meyer's plea.

Gets Separate Trial

DOROTHY BERGHOLZ.

Judge Cautions Defendant.

"Let the defendant come forward," Judge Fulton said, after which he warned him of the seriousness of the charge against him.

Watching him anxiously as he returned to his seat between a 250 pound sherif and similarly bulky aid was his mother, Mrs. Alvina Meyer of 4032 Francisco street, 60 years old, and the mother of 12 children. On the other side of the courtroom sat Mrs. Augusta Bergholz of 4026 North California avenue, mother of Dorothy, who was a domestic in a school before Sept. 3.

Judge Fulton recalled the prospective jurors and dismissed them, remarking, "It is not with any great degree of pleasure that I say the responsibility of fixing the punishment is now shifted from you to the court."

When court convenes at 10 a. m. today State's Attorney Russel W. Kenney of Glen Ellyn will make a brief opening statement, then testimony will be heard in mitigation of punishment. Prosecutor Kenny is being aided by Assistant State's Attorney William Hooper of Downer's Grove.

They admitted out of court that unless Dorothy had agreed to testify for the state they would have been unable to introduce eyewitness testimony. The only other eyewitness of the crime, they conceded, was Aubrey Jett, colored Chicagoan, who died of tuberculosis two weeks later. The widow of the slain policeman, they said, is in a hospital.

On Sept. 3 Meyer commandeered the Lombard police squad car and drove with Dorothy to Elmhurst. There Policeman Frost, pursuing them in a borrowed automobile, shot their tires out and forced them to stop. Meyer, seeing Jett parked nearby, would have taken the colored man's car, but it was out of gasoline. Consequently Meyer shot Frost and fled in his borrowed automobile. He was captured that night in Chicago.

Meyer was paroled last January from Joliet after serving 18 months for auto theft. His attorneys will plead emotional instability, but not insanity, as a mitigating circumstance. Dr. Raymond Dowell of Elgin will testify as to his "almost complete lack of emotion," according to his attorneys.

Report Husband Indicted in Poison Death of Ex-Wife

The grand jury was reported yesterday to have voted a true bill against Corydon A. Black, 33 years old, charging him with the murder of his divorced wife, Miss Cordelia Brosseau, also 33, in her apartment at 1550 West 95th street. Miss Brosseau, who resumed her maiden name following her divorce in 1934, was found poisoned, and Black was found in a drunken stupor by tenants on Oct. 8 in the building investigating a fire in the flat.

RAPID FURNITURE SALES LINKED TO STYLE CHANGES

Furniture is selling rapidly and therefore is changing rapidly in style. These two factors will make the current fall market opening at the American Furniture Mart and the Merchandise Mart more successful than any previous midseason show, officials said yesterday as the market began its week's run.

Alertness to style shifts and the fear that retail stock will get dangerously low before the major January market are the motives behind a large buyer attendance indicated for the show, according to Lawrence Whiting, president of the American mart. Exhibitors expect 2,500 buyers.

Although the modern trend still holds good, there is a decided swing to French and English furniture of fine luxury workmanship. Bleached woods which are stronger in favor than ever are now being matched up with light colored upholstery. One rich damask design is in pink and white. There are other equally delicate combinations.

Matching of light colors is used in the furniture itself. A gray harewood suite may be trimmed with blue or a blonde maple with purple at such strategic points as drawer handles.

One room's furnishings may also alternate light and dark pieces of furniture, which the furniture men call "blonde and brunette" combinations.

The manufacturers are also showing the "conversational" groupings of furniture. Love seats, sectional divans, companion chairs, and semicircular divans lend themselves to cozy winter time arrangements in front of the fireplace.

That's all it takes for REL Head-Cold Jelly to start relief

THERE are a lot of head-cold remedies that promise "quick" relief. But the makers of REL Head-Cold Jelly don't speak in generalities. They specifically promise that REL will start relief in half a minute!

It wasn't easy to develop a remedy that would do that!

REL is the result of months and months of research and experiment. Clinical tests were conducted on actual cases under careful medical supervision. Only when the makers were sure that REL was right was it put on the market.

Make this One-Side Nose Test

Put a little REL Head-Cold Jelly up just one side of your nose. Wait a few seconds—and see what happens! First you'll note a delightful, refreshing "pine woods" odor. DROP TAX CASES AGAINST ELMORE AND 3 DOWDLES

U. S. Dismisses Suits in Surprise Move.

In a surprise move the income tax cases against the three Dowdle brothers, Chicago contractors, and Howard W. Elmore, former president of the sanitary district, were dismissed in federal court here yesterday at the direction of the United States attorney general's office.

The indictments against the Dowdle Brothers—Thomas P., John J., and Raymond—were the oldest pending income tax cases on the court docket. The brothers and their contracting company, known as Dowdle Brothers, were indicted Oct. 23, 1930, on charges of evading corporation income tax payments amounting to $203,654.

The government had charged that the brothers failed to pay income taxes on a total of nearly $4,000,000 income from sanitary district contracts in 1926, 1927, and 1928 during the "whoopee" régime of the late Timothy J. Crowe. It was also charged that the contractors concealed more than $1,000,000 of their income by padding pay rolls.

Compromise Is Reported.

A date for the trial of the long pending cases was to have been set today by Judge James H. Wilkerson. Instead, Assistant United States District Attorney E. Riley Campbell appeared yesterday before Judge Wilkerson and obtained dismissal of the charges.

Although Campbell would make no comment, it was reported the dismissal of the indictments followed payment of $50,000 by the Dowdles in a compromise settlement. It was also learned that a study of the government's evidence had cast some doubt on the possibility of obtaining a conviction.

For this reason, it was understood, the compromise settlement was approved without the plea of guilty usually required by government prosecutors. The Dowdle brothers are nephews of Patrick A. Nash, Democratic national committeeman.

Elmore Indicted in 1935.

The indictment against Elmore, a real estate operator, was dismissed before Judge John P. Barnes. Elmore was indicted March 4, 1935, on a charge of evading income tax payments of approximately $51,659 in his real estate operations.

Attorney Oscar E. Carlstrom, counsel for Elmore, said yesterday that his client had made no settlement.

At the time the indictment was voted Elmore charged that it grew out of political enmity of Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior. He declared the investigation was started by a disgruntled employé and pushed to conclusion through the power of Ickes.

Elmore declared the dismissal was not a surprise to him. "It was only a matter of time until the truth came out," he said. "This was one of the most flagrant political indictments in the history of the government, in my opinion, because I refused to go along with political so-called bosses, being a kickback from my efforts in the interests of the taxpayers while in public office."

Englewood High Machine Shop Is Ordered Closed

John C. Christensen, board of education architect, yesterday ordered the machine shop addition to Englewood High school, 6220 Stewart avenue, closed for an indefinite period. An inspection of the 50 year old frame structure showed the timbers supporting the slate roof were rotting, making the building unsafe. Night school classes held in the four story building will be transferred to the high school building near by. The 1,000 students who have been taking shop work will confine themselves to study courses while repairs are made, according to Supt. William H. Johnson.

HEAVY U. S. TAX IS UPHELD ON GANGSTER GUNS

In a unanimous opinion handed down yesterday, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals here upheld the constitutionality of at least the major part of the national firearms act. The opinion was written by Judge Charles G. Briggle and concurred in by Judges Evan A. Evans and Walter C. Lindley.

The national firearms act requires registration of all purchases of sawed-off shotguns and submachine guns, and it requires purchasers of such weapons to pay a tax of $200.

It was this last requirement that the Appeals court acted upon. Max Sonzinsky, a hardware dealer of East St. Louis was sentenced to 18 months in Leavenworth prison for not paying the $200 tax on a sawed-off shotgun. Lawyers for Sonzinsky attacked the law alleging that its stated purpose of taxation was sham to shield its real purpose of crime suppression. The Appeals court disagreed with these allegations.

New Station of Irving Park Police Is Formally Opened

The new Irving Park police station at 5430 Gale avenue was formally opened yesterday. It is next door to the old quarters. The new structure was a WPA project and cost $66,000. It is one story high and heated by oil. Its cells are modern and each equipped with running water. A garage annex accommodates three cars. Streams of visitors inspected the new station throughout yesterday. Herbert Burns is captain of the district.

REVEAL 3 MORE PAROLES ISSUED BEFORE ELECTION

Prison Inquiry to Resume Sessions Thursday.

Three more preëlection paroles became known yesterday coincidentally with the announcement that a state commissio: would reopen here on Thu:sday its investigation of prison conditions and parole abuses. The three parolees are Louis Vine and two brothers, Edward and Fred Sass, all sentenced earl; last year to one to twenty years in the penitentiary as leaders of automobile theft rings.

The freed Sass brothers, found in .. new apartment at 4052 North Sacramento avenue, insisted that no political influence was exerted in their behalf, nor was any money paid. They said a third brother, convicted with them, expected parole this month.

Th records show they were received at the penitentiary on April 1, 1935, and that Edward was paroled last une 16 and Fred last July 21. Vine, whose gang stole sixteen automobiles, was received on Feb. 28, 1935, and wa. paroled on Aug. 1, 1936.

Five Cases Provoke Scrutiny.

W. C. Jones, chairman of the state board of pardons and paroles, could not be found at his office in Springfield or at his home in Streator for an explanation of the c mency shown to these three men, and to Fred Bessenhofer and Walter Lambushevicz, kidnapers and robbers.

These five parolees, according to Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, are among those to be reviewed by the investigating commission, which Gov. Ho [illegible] e last February after James Day, a convict, killed his fellow prisoner, Richard Loeb, in a fight at Stateville. Loeb, with Nathan Leopold, was serving a life term for the kidnaping and murder of Bobbie Franks.

The commission is headed by the Rt. Rev. Joseph H. Schlarman, Catholic bishop of Peoria, and Robert L. Kern, Belleville publisher, is secretary. Col. Chamberlin, one of the members, is operating director of the Chicago Crime commission. The inquiry was soft pedaled during the campaign but was stimulated to renewed activity by the escape of two desperadoes from Stateville prison last Saturday, and Kern announced next Thursday's session.

Fugitives Make Good Escape.

The two desperadoes, James O'Connor and William Pat King, scaled the prison wall with a "home made" ladder during the complete darkness that ensued when someone kindly threw the master switch of the penitentiary. They remained at large last night.

Warden Joseph Ragen asserted that he would ask the Northwestern unis versity crime detection laboratory to examine the ladder and to determine, if possible, when and where it was made.

Warden Ragen said that at Gov. Horner's direction he would request the Public Service company to arrange for establishing the electric power substation outside the prison walls. Meanwhile bars are being put in the windows of the present substation.

BISHOP TELLS HOPE THAT FR. COUGHLIN WILL BE BACK ON AIR

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 9.—The decision of the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin to retire from radio brought today from his immediate superior, Bishop Michael J. Gallagher, the expressed hope that "the people will call him back to the air—where he belongs."

The Catholic bishop of Detroit, who had defended the priest's right to freedom of speech, denied suggestions that Father Coughlin had been "gagged" by Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state who recently came to the United States for a visit, or any other authority of the church.

Father Coughlin, who announced in a farewell radio address Saturday night that he was "hereby withdrawing from all radio activity in the best interests of all the people," said his national union for social justice, which he described as "thoroughly discredited" in the recent general election, would cease to be active. Father Coughlin said, however, that he would continue to publish his weekly publication, "Social Justice."

Father Coughlin apparently went into retirement from public life—except for his clerical duties—today. Members of his staff said that "Father Coughlin will not be available for some time to come."

ASK PUNISHMENT FOR THE 'CRIME' OF PUBLIC WASTE

Civic Leaders Rap High Government Spending.

Charges that waste in government spending and mounting taxation are seriously affecting the whole system of American economy were made yesterday by speakers at a meeting of city, business and civic leaders in the Palmer house. The occasion was the annual meeting of the Civic Federation and Bureau of Public efficiency.

BERTRAM J. CAHN.

Paul N. Reynolds, director of the Wisconsin Taxpayers' alliance, declared that public waste should be made punishable the same as arson, since both crimes destroy income producing property and lower the standard of living of the individual and the nation.

"The only insurance against that waste is for the taxpayers to get together and eliminate the wasters," he said.

Asks For Aroused Public.

"Economy programs must begin before taxes are levied. Resentment of the tax payers is an all powerful force when it is aroused, but we must fight more intelligently than we have been and get more people to stand up for their rights in government,

"A reorganization of our administrative structure, including our excessive number of administrative units of government, is necessary before we can have a truly constructive economy. Great savings could be made by elimination of the duplicating and overlapping features."

Lack of Efficiency Assailed.

Bertram J. Cahn, newly elected president of the civic federation, asserted that the deluge of information disseminated in the recent political campaign showed that "more than ever we are confronted with both lack of efficiency and economy in the management of public business."

"When we stop to consider that the total of federal, state and local taxes in 1935 amounted to nearly 10 billions, compared with total living expenditures in the same year of about 48 billions and a national income of about the same figure, we can understand how purchasing power is being curtailed and how in turn it retards consumption, production, and consequent employment."

POWERS MEND WAR FENCES AT LONDON, VIENNA

Britain Weighs Neutrality Stand of Poland.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 9.—European statesmen held two conferences today —one in London and one in Vienna— each one bearing on the other and attesting to the rivalry between the continental groups.

Count Galeazzo Ciano, son-in-law of Premier Mussolini and Italian foreign minister, began the Vienna parley with the Austrians and Hungarians. It is designed to impress France and England with the power and solidarity of the central European bloc. Col. Josef Beck, Poland's foreign minister, called at the foreign office here for his first talk with Capt. Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary.

More Today.

Beck and Eden conferred for about an hour. Then Eden entertained the Polish diplomat at luncheon.

The conversations, concerned with Poland's attitude toward Russia and Germany in the event of a clash between the two nations will be continued tomorrow.

The British apparently want to know how effective Polish neutrality would be as a buffer between Russia and Germany and on the other hand to what extent Poland would be involved through its French alliance in permitting the Russians, who now also are French allies, to send troops across Poland.

Poland's attitude in the event of a clash between Germany and Czechoslovakia, or between Hungary and Czechoslovakia, is also a problem which preoccupies the British foreign office.

Col. Beck might also ask the British to lend Poland some money. Recent friendly exchanges between the Poles and the French did not net the Poles as much financially as they had expected.

Meanwhile central European parleys are expected to continue for several weeks. They are designed to parade the importance of Italo-German friendship for its effect in getting concessions in the Mediterranean for Italy, and economic considerations for Germany.

Austro-Italian Trade Pact.

VIENNA, Nov. 9.—(AP)—An Austrian and Italian trade agreement in which Austria would get compensating preferences because of the lira's devaluation was reported reached today in the first conversation between Austrian officials and Italy's foreign minister, Galeazzo Ciano, paving the way for the Rome protocol discussions beginning Nov. 11.

The attendance of the German Minister Franz von Papen at an Italian legation luncheon was interpreted as an indication that Germany also is interested in the trade negotiations.

It was said the question of restoration of the Hapsburg Prince Otto to the Austrian throne was not officially discussed, but Baron Friedrich von Wiesner, monarchist leader, asserted in an interview, "the Italian policy conforms to the monarchist plans."

DAVID GOODRICH, HEAD OF RUBBER COMPANY, IS DIVORCED IN RENO

Reno, Nev., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Ruth Pruyn Goodrich, socially prominent in New York City, won an uncontested divorce decree here today from David Marvin Goodrich, chairman of the board of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Products company.

The decree was granted on grounds of separation for more than five years, at a brief private hearing before District Judge Thomas F. Moran. All papers in the case were sealed by court order.

They were married June 2, 1903. There are no minor children.

An agreement settling the couple's property rights was reached last Oct. 31, according to the complaint.

MRS. HARDY SUES FILM COMIC FOR $2,500 PER MONTH

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 9.—[Special.] —While his comedy mate, Stan Laurel, was having his court troubles with two asserted wives, Mrs. Virginia and Mrs. Mae Laurel, Oliver [Babe] Hardy, rotund film actor, today ran into a domestic court storm of his own.

Mrs. Myrtle Hardy's suit demands $2,500 monthly separate maintenance, and charges Hardy with associating with other women, with drinking and gambling, with cruelty in causing her temporary confinement in a sanitarium, and with locking the doors of his home against her.

Mrs. Hardy seeks to set aside a previous property agreement, saying it was entered into during her belief Hardy earned $2,000 weekly movie salary, whereas she since has learned he draws $3,500 a week.

The Hardy's were married in 1924.

$130,000 OBTAINED BY RELIEF CHEATERS COLLECTED BY IERC

The fraud investigation department of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission has collected $130,000 in restitution from relief cheaters, according to a report made public yesterday. With twenty-five employés recently added for this work, it is expected that $40,000 more will be collected within the next four months.

Ten thousand fraud cases have been disposed of in Cook county, either by criminal prosecution or by restitution. Progress in disposing of 5,000 remaining cases was termed "satisfactory," with collections now running about $7,000 monthly.

In counties other than Cook "very little was done in the past to recognize such [fraud] cases," the report said.

ORDER CLOTHING FOR XMAS PARTY OF MAYOR KELLY

The purchasing committee of Mayor Kelly's Chicago's Own Xmas Benefit began placing orders yesterday for clothing to be distributed among needy children before Christmas. Col. A. A. Sprague, chairman of the committee, met with the other members at 72 West Adams street, where bids were opened and some orders placed. D. F. Kelly, Maurice L. Rothschild, George W. Young, and John T. Pirie were present. It was announced at benefit headquarters that sufficient funds to clothe 65,000 children will be raised from the public high school-Catholic high school championship football game in Soldiers' field Nov. 28 and from "Night of Stars" at the Chicago Stadium on Dec. 16.

Run Over as He Returns from Hunting Trip.

Alma, Wis., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Dr. Joseph G. Mayo, 34 years old, associated with the famous Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., of which his father, Charles H. Mayo, is one of the heads, was killed today when his automobile was struck by a fast train about ten miles from here.

Dr. Mayo's car was on the railroad right of way when it was struck squarely by the North Coast limited, Northern Pacific passenger train, about two miles south of Cochrane, Wis.

It was believed the doctor, who had been on a hunting trip along the Mississippi river, either was taking a short cut from the hunting grounds, or believed he was on an abandoned section of right of way.

His Dog Dies with Him.

Dr. Mayo was alone in the car except for his dog, which also was killed. The wreckage was dragged nearly a mile before the engineer was able to stop the train, which was speeding at about 60 or 65 miles an hour.

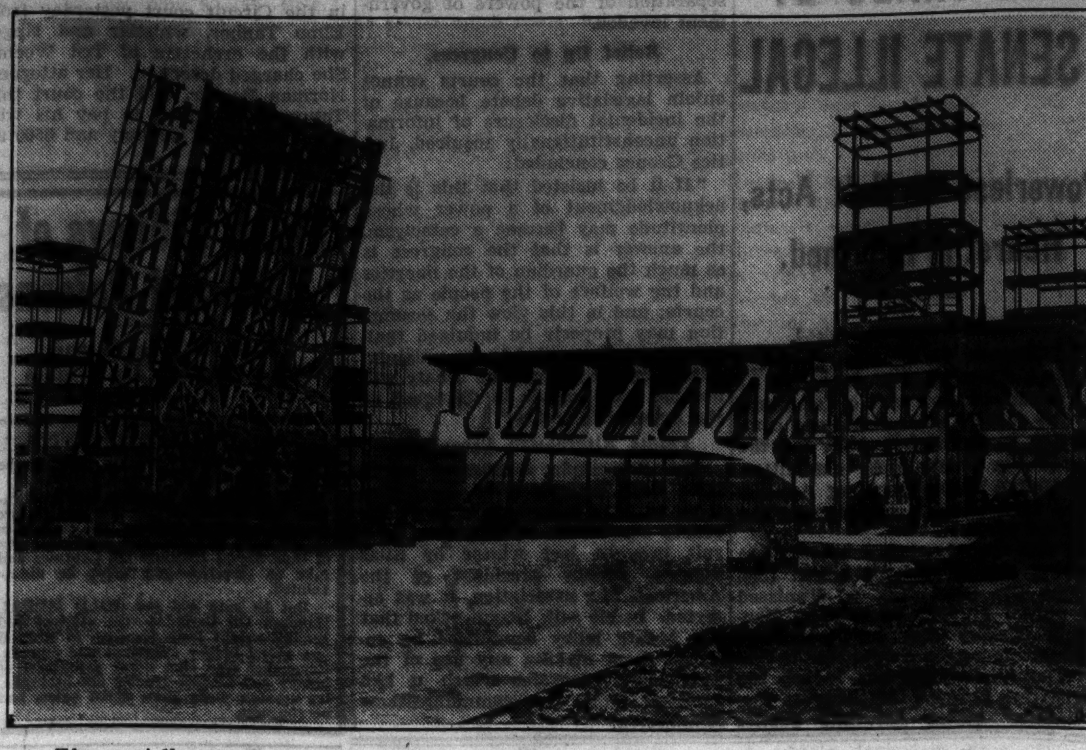
The engineer of the Chicago bound train said he saw Dr. Mayo's car just an instant before the crash, but was unable to stop quicker than he did because of the momentum of the train and a down hill grade.

H. F. Stohr, county attorney, pronounced the death accidental and said no inquest would be held.

Leaves Widow and Two Sons.

Surviving Dr. Mayo are his widow and two sons, David and Will, about seven and four years old; his father and mother; a brother, Dr. Charles W. Mayo of Rochester, and five sisters, Miss Dorothy Mayo of Rochester; Mrs. Fred W. Rankin of Lexington, Ky.; Mrs. G. P. Trenholm of Rochester; Mrs. J. B. Hartzell of Detroit, and Miss Marilyn Mayo of Rochester.

North Leaf of New Outer Drive Bridge Is Lowered



The partially completed bridge at the mouth of the Chicago river as it appeared yesterday with the north leaf lowered for the first time to test the machinery. The south leaf will be tested soon.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Engineers of the Chicago park district lowered and raised the north leaf of the new outer drive bridge yesterday in the first test since the mechanism was installed. According to Frank A. Randall, consulting bridge engineer, the test was successful. Later this week the same leaf will tested. Later both leaves will be be lowered while workmen pave the surface with vibrated concrete.

Tomorrow the south leaf is to be tested. The most important trial will come later when both leaves are lowered to see if they come together properly. None of the operations will interfere with river trafic since only half of the span will remain lowered at a time until the bridge is opened to trafic on Nov. 1, 1937.

The bridge, located at the mouth of the Chicago river, is part of an $11,000,000 program to connect the north and south outer drives. The plan includes the Field boulevard and Wacker drive extensions and the Randolph street approach.

FEAR BRIDGE MAY CUT POPULATION IN SAN FRANCISCO

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Officials feared tonight that San Francisco's new $70,000,000 trans-bay bridge, which will be dedicated tomorrow, may develop into a drain on the city's population.

So, while townspeople prepared a rousing "welcome" for the bridge, city and county supervisors studied plans to check the exodus of residents it may bring.

Officials explained that after the huge structure is opened to automobile trafic some east bay residential areas may be reached quicker and easier than outlying districts of San Franci~~.

To offset what may develop into a population trend toward the bay cities, they studied plans for subways, tunnels, and other rapid transit means to speed the movement of trafic within the city.

PREMIER ADMITS ALBERTA SOCIAL CREDIT ELUSIVE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

EDMONTON, Alberta, Nov. 9.—Establishment of social credit in Alberta seems likely to be delayed beyond the eighteen months asked by Premier Aberhart when he assumed office. That period expires this month, and it now appears likely that basic dividends cannot be paid much before Christmas, if then.

When asked whether there would be a delay in issuing credit, Aberhart replied this week that it is impossible to make any definite promise as to what date the dividends will be paid.

"There is so much work to be done and so many preparations to be made," the social credit premier explained.

He went on to say that every effort is being made to get the preliminary work cleared away before long and that the dividends will be paid at the "earliest possible date."

BETTER LIVING with the aid of INSTALMENT BUYING

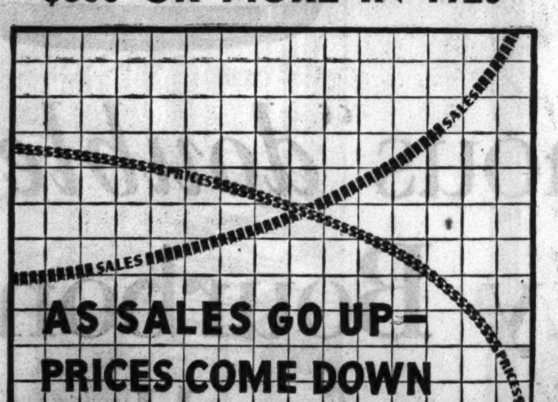
$600 OR MORE IN 1920



$150 OR LESS IN 1936

Early mechanical refrigerators were costly and clumsy... old-style ice chests with noisy freezing units in the cellar... priced at $600 or more.
Then, following the lead of the automobile, instalment selling was introduced and mass production resulted. Any responsible family could make a small down payment and meet instalments while saving on food bills and protecting health.
3/4 Knocked off the 1920 Price
Sales jumped, prices dropped, employment and payrolls increased, so that still more families could afford to buy, and prices dropped again. Today over 8 million mechanical refrigerators are in use. About 85 out of every 100 are now bought on time. And you can get a large, dependable, smart model for a quarter of the 1920 price, whether you purchase on the C. I. T. Budget Plan or for cash.
Instalment selling has rendered the same service to all who buy automobiles, radios, automatic heating plants and other modern conveniences. In every instance workers, dealers and manufacturers, as well as consumers, have benefited.
For nearly 30 years C. I. T. has aided this remarkable development. Millions of families are enjoying cars, refrigerators, washing machines and other equipment bought conveniently out of income on the C. I. T. Budget Plan.

No. 5. Adler Planetarium and Astronomical Museum

By CALEB

EMERSON wrote, "The earth globes itself in a drop of dew." That is a bold statement of the repetitive design of the physical forms and forces in all things—however small.

Here is an equally bold statement: On Chicago's lake front, the whole of the infinite starry universe known to this planet reveals itself within a man-made globule of copper and granite.

The inspiration of the night sky's grandeur does not usually come to the city dweller. We cannot see the awesome dignity of the star-lit heavens through the bright glare of near-at-hand neon and incandescent bulbs.

But Chicagoans may know the night sky—the same unfathomable star-pierced dark beneath which Adam lay in wondering reverence; the same great firmament under whose mysterious twinkling glory Moses prayed in the Egyptian desert; the same vast concourse of the planets under which Napoleon's soldiers laughed and wept on the weary way to Moscow.

By beautiful paradox—Chicagoans, closed within the walls of the Adler Planetarium and Astronomical Museum, may come to know the unbounded magnificence of the star-filled heavens.

This is no ordinary experience. Sit with a wondering crowd in the circular Planetarium chamber. Listen to the astronomer lecture. Watch him demonstrate the Precessional Cycle, showing how the poles of the giant rotund earth describe circles in cycles. See how the immutable laws which help define the movements of celestial bodies act identically on toys and tiny models!

Then, with the room darkening and the city sky-line merging into the twilight sky, catch the audible intake of breath—the collective gasp of the assembled crowd—as the majestic hosts of heaven suddenly break into view!

As the stars shatter the darkness and carry the visitors out beneath the immeasurable night sky the illusion is complete and perfect. It is right here that whatever is called the soul in a man wakens and responds!

You may go to the Planetarium to learn what you can of astronomy in the varying lectures. Or to see the museum—with its magnificent collection of compasses, astrolabes, and armillary spheres. But you will come away impressed with the grandeur and solemnity of the universe, where law and order prevails, as it should among men—where mighty bodies like suns do the bidding of an unseen Force so precisely that cycles taking 25,000 years may be calculated to the minute! And on your fifth and tenth visits your awe and wonder will be still increasing!

SUPREME COURT BEGINS HEARING NEW DEAL ACTS

Utility Law Is First Up for Argument.

[Chicago Tri' ne Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—With its power believed to be in greater jeopardy than at any time since Thomas Jefferson's attacks on John Marshall, the United States Supr ne court reconvened today and promptly began considering a heavy schedule of New Deal cases.

The court today heard arguments in the government's attempts to stay all proceedings attacking the Wheeler-Rayburn public utility act pending the outcome of its handpicked case against the Electric Bond and Share company. Tomorrow it will hear arguments in a case involving federal competition with private business through PWA loans to finance municipal power plants. On Wednesday the court will hear arguments in the first of a series of cases involving the constitutionality of the Wagner labor relations act, one of the most important New Deal measures which it so far has left on the statute books.

Reed Defends Methods.

Solicitor General Stanley Reed defended the government's course seeking a trial of the Electric Bond and Share case before proceeding with some 40 suits in the District of Columbia courts attacking the Wheeler-Rayburn act with its death sentence for holding companies. The government itself, through the Securities and Exchange commission, brought the suit against the Electric Bond and Share company, seeking to force its compliance with the provisions of the act, while all the other actions were brought by the companies themselves.

While Mr. Reed argued his case. Thomas Corcoran and Benjamin Cohen, the Harvard "hot dog" lawyer-brain trusters who wrote the act and lobbied it through congress on behalf of the White House, sat back of him.

"The government does not press the point that it is difficult for it to defend the cases that have been brought," the solicitor general said. "If the government should lose the Bond and Share case on fundamental questions—the constitutionality of the act—it would end all this litigation."

Opponents Say "Not So."

On the other hand, Attorney John C. Higgins, counsel for the North American company and the American Waterworks and Electric company, said the final decision of the Electric Bond and Share case would settle virtually nothing with respect to their cases if the court should not uphold the act in its entirety.

"The government has picked out an extreme case, the one most favorable to the constitutionality of the act," Higgins declared. He argued that the two companies presented conditionsp revalent throughout the industry and that if their cases were decided every utility company in the country would know where it stood.

"The plaintif companies are suffering daily tremendous and crippling injuries and will continue to suffer such injuries until the constitutionality of this act is determined," the lawyer said. "They cannot make long term commitments or contracts, issue long term securities, or acquire long term credits with this sentence of death in 1938 hanging over their heads."

District Court Reversed.

The District court for the District of Columbia granted the stay requested by the government, but its decree was reversed by the Circuit Court of Appeals. If the Supreme court upholds the Appeals court the government will be forced to defend the Wheeler-Rayburn act in immediate trials and under conditions not of its own choosing.

In its oral orders today the court added a fifth case involving the constitutionality of the Wagner labor relations act to the list of attacks on that statute that it will review. The first one, which was brought by the Associated Press, will be argued tomorrow.

Wins Court Battle

MRS. PETER BRICKIE.

The motion of Mrs. Melba Straub, 4901 Drexel avenue, to quash the service in the $100,000 alienation of affections suit brought against her by Mrs. Louise Brickie, 1050 Buena avenue, was denied yesterday by Judge Harry M. Fisher in the Circuit court. Mrs. Straub, who is the widow of Louis Straub, murdered night bartender of the Saddle and Cycle club, was given 20 days to answer the suit. Mrs. Brickie accuses the widow of stealing the love of her husband, Peter Brickie, 51 years old.

Attorney Theodore Hardeen Jr., counsel for Ernest Straub, brother of the slain man, and two minor nephews, late in the afternoon filed his objections to a recent finding by Federal Master in Chancery Jacob I. Grossman that Mrs. Straub was entitled to $20,410 insurance on the life of her husband. The three had charged in a civil suit that Mrs. Straub killed her husband and therefore was disqualified to benefit from the insurance.

EX-LEGISLATOR O'BRIEN HAS BAD DAY, ALL IN ALL

While court bailifs were seeking Lawrence C. O'Brien on a writ of attachment obtained by his estranged wife yesterday, the former state representative was reported to have fled on foot after the automobile he was driving collided with another at Huron and Dearborn streets.

William J. Housman, 54 years old, 2412 Bryn Mawr avenue, driver of the other car, reported the accident to the police, who traced the license number of the abandoned car to James Sherry, 1016 Sedgwick street. Sherry told Policeman Frank Sheehan of the Chicago avenue station that O'Brien had just borrowed his automobile. Housman refused to sign a warant against O'Brien.

The writ of attachment against O'Brien was issued by Walter P. Steffen in the Superior court, after Mrs. O'Brien alleged that her husband owes her $140 in temporary alimony. Recently Mrs. O'Brien was awarded $80 a week pending settlement of her suit for separate maintenance, but later the amount was cut to $65 a week.

Several hours after the writ was issued O'Brien's attorney, Harold J. Berger, promised Judge Steffen that his client will pay the back alimony today.

TALK OF A NEW BUILDING FOR THE SECURITY STAF

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—A new government building—probably the biggest ever built—is being considered by the administration to house the gigantic staf necessary to administer the social security act which goes into effect Jan. 1.

Before the first application blanks have been mailed out, the social security board has hired 1,700 persons and many hundreds, if not thousands, more will be necessary when the act gets into operation.

The cost of the new building probably would be in excess of 12 million dollars, it was estimated.

COURT BRANDS WIRE 'GRABS' BY SENATE ILLEGAL

Powerless to Halt Acts, Hearst Is Informed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Confirming the illegality of the seizure of thousands of telegrams by the federal communications commission in September, 1935, for the use of the senate lobby committee, the United States Court of Appeals today ruled there is nothing that can be done about it.

Courts cannot enjoin congress from making use of illegally seized telegrams, the court said. It dismissed an appeal brought by William Randolph Hearst for an injunction against the senate committee.

"The constitution has lodged the legislative power exclusively in the congress," stated Associate Justice D. Lawrence Groner, speaking for the court. "If a court could say to the congress that it could not use information in its possession, the independence of the legislature would be destroyed and the constitutional separation of the powers of government invaded."

Relief Up to Congress.

Asserting that the courts cannot enjoin legislative debate because of the incidental disclosure of information unconstitutionally acquired, Justice Groner concluded:

"If it be insisted that this is the acknowledgment of a power whose plentitude may become a cataclysm, the answer is that the congress is as much the guardian of the liberties and the welfare of the people as the courts; and in this view the assumption may properly be indulged that, attention being called to the unlawful nature of the search, the senate will not use its proceeds in disregard of the appellate's rights."

Points Alternative Procedure.

The telegraph companies could have been restrained by injunction from turning telegrams over to the senate committee, as was done in a suit brought last winter by Silas Strawn, former president of the American Bar association, it was asserted. In his suit, Hearst asked that the senate lobby committee be enjoined from making any use of the publisher's telegrams which it had received from the communications commission.

WinsDivorce from Whistler in Ted Weems' Orchestra

Mrs. Verne Tanner, 29 years old, 1258 Wilson avenue, was granted a divorce by Judge Philip J. Finnegan in the Circuit court yesterday from Elmo Tanner, whistler and singer with the orchestra of Ted Weems. She charged desertion. Her attorney, Norman Becker, told the court that Tanner had agreed to pay his wife $1,000 in lieu of alimony and $500 attorney's fees.

GERMANY DRAFTS LABOR ARMY FOR FOUR YEAR PLAN

Goering to Take Over All Plants and Resources.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 9.—Germany has now entered the second phase of her rearmament. This phase calls for mobilization of all German labor, factories, and resources to be directed and controled by a central authority operating under Col. Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering as the man responsible for the success of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's new four year plan.

Decrees which Goering issued today disclose that, due to the stupendous organization he is building up, he intends "to make every single person able to work" coöperate in arranging employment and in the organization, training, and distribution of workers under government control.

Workers Will Be Trained.

In the first decree Goering orders metal and building trades employers who employ a minimum of ten persons to train apprentices systematically or pay for their training in national institutions.

The second decree rules that skilled metal and iron workers can be employed only under governmental supervision, with the government deciding which and how many workers may be employed on a job. Plants working for the "rearmament industry, the food industy, the creation of new raw materials, exports or building healthy quarters for workers" will be allowed to hire the greatest proportion of skilled workers.

The third decree rules that skilled workers must be employed only on work for which skill is needed.

Permit for Skilled Workers.

The fourth decree orders all building companies to obtain permission to employ skilled workers before starting any project.

The fifth decree compels employers to provide jobs for persons over 40 years of age if they employ ten persons.

The sixth decree warns employers not to attempt to secure skilled metal and building trades workers with the help of anonymous advertisments.

FOUND DEAD IN ALLEY.

A man identified as Frank Leisky, 50 years old, address unknown, was found dead of a heart ailment yesterday in the alley at 620 South Ashland avenue.

STABS HER FATHER

DOROTHY PALMER.

To save her mother from a beating, Dorothy Palmer, 14 years old, 5548 North Parkside avenue, last night stabbed her father, Earl Palmer, 41, in the back, inflicting a possibly fatal wound.

Palmer came home drunk, according to Capt. Herbert Burns of the new Irving Park station. He first berated his wife, Frances, 39, and then commenced to hit her. She was holding her infant daughter, Marilyn, 16 months old, in her arms at the time.

Dorothy protested, and Palmer, according to police, struck her. Then he started after his wife again, and Dorothy, in hysterical fright, seized the knife and plunged it into his back. Police took Palmer to the Bridewell hospital.

VETERAN POLICE HORSE IS KILLED AFTER LOOP DASH

Old Teddy, a veteran horse of the mounted police division, anticipated assembly hour last night with results fatal to himself. He ran into an automobile at Randolph and Wells streets and had to be killed because of his injuries.

Teddy had been on trafic duty fifteen years. His rider for the last six years was Policeman Andrew Gregerson.

At 6:10 p. m. the mounted police in the west section of the loop are scheduled to assemble at Madison and Wells streets for the return to the stables at 252 East Illinois street. At 5:55 p. m. Gregerson dismounted in Van Buren street near Clark to inspect a car. Teddy, apparently in a hurry for assembly, ran west to Wells where he turned north.

Pedestrians scattered, crying "a runaway." In the excitement Teddy ran past the assembly point. At Randolph he crashed into a new car driven by John A. Sternberg, 3334 Palmer street.

TEST GENERAL'S HANDS WHEN HIS FIANCEE IS SLAIN

La Grange, Ky., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Brig. Gov. Henry H. Denhardt, 60, whose revolver was found near the body of his comely 40 year old fiancée, Mrs. Verna Garr Taylor, in a roadside ditch near here Friday night, submitted today to paraffin tests of his hands.

Detective Sergeant John I. Messmer, Louisville police department criminologist, who previously made paraffin casts of Mrs. Taylor's hands to determine whether the skin contained traces of exploded gas and gunpowder, remained silent on the tests.

Coroner D. L. Ricketts, who called Messmer to assist in an investigation of the death of the socially prominent widow found shot through the heart 300 yards from Denhardt's stalled automobile, postponed the inquest from Wednesday until Thursday.

Denhardt, who was cited for his services in the St. Mihiel offensive of the world war and headed the Kentucky National Guard during the Lafoon administration, was quoted by the coroner as saying Mrs. Taylor apparently shot herself because of opposition of her two daughters to her marriage. The coroner quoted Denhardt as saying that Mrs. Taylor must have taken the weapon from his car while he went to a nearby farmhouse.

Boy and Girl Runaways Are Returned to Homes

Two young runaways, John Gordon, 14 years old, 4629 Malden street, and Marian Johnson, 14 years old, 4615 Malden street, were found yesterday miles away from their home and brought back. Both are high school pupils. They ran away Sunday night. Marian was found in Glenview and John in Wauconda. John told police that he ran away to visit his divorced mother in Anna, Ill., and said that Marian ran away because of trouble with a teacher.

RUSSIA EXTENDS JAPAN'S RIGHT TO FISH OFF SIBERIA

MOSCOW, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Japan and the soviet union concluded today an eight year renewal of a fishing agreement which diplomats predicted would have a far reaching effect on far eastern and world politics.

The new treaty—scheduled to be initialed this week and formally signed within two weeks—continues the Japanese right to fish in soviet waters of the Okhotsk sea, the Kamchatka peninsula and Sakhalin Island, all off eastern Siberia. The great bulk of Japan's sea food is obtained from these waters.

Extension of the agreement is understood to have been considered by the Japanese one of their most important dealings with the soviets. Two other problems—the soviet-Manchukuan border disputes and the Japanese oil concessions on Sakhalin Island—are near settlement or have been concluded.

Abraham E. Shapiro, 47 years old, 711 Waveland avenue, an attorney and an internal revenue agent of the treasury department, was arrested yesterday by agents of the intelligence unit under A. P. Madden on a charge of accepting a bribe to fix an income tax deficiency. He was immediately arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker where he pleaded not guilty. Hearing on the charge was set for Nov. 16. Shapiro was accused of accepting $100 from B. L. Parsons, president of Consolidated Agencies, Inc., 209 South State street, to fix a tax deficiency which he was investigating in the company. He was arrested after Parsons had notified federal agents.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

Edgar Hoover and Tunney Speak at Dinner.

J. Edgar Hoover, Gene Tunney, and William Edwin Hall, New York attorney, spoke last night in the Stevens hotels at a dinner given in honor of the 30th anniversary of the founding of the Boys' Clubs of America. The speeches followed a dramatization of the work of the Boys' clubs in leading the young men of America away from the paths of crime.

Mr. Hoover, No. 1 G-man, as director of th federal bureau of investigation of the United States department of justice, was given a gold medal in recognition of "distinguished services on behalf of the Boyhood of America." He was introduced as the idol of American youth, relentless pursuer of public enemies, fearless upholder of the law, an indefatigable worker for crime prevention.

Silas Strawn Presides.

Silas Strawn, past president of the American Bar association and of the United States chamber of commerce, was chairman of the gathering. He presented Mr. Hall, as lawyer, financier, vice president of New York City's Commission on Crime Prevention and as national president of the Boys' Club Federation. Gene Tunney, retired world's heavyweight boxing champion, needed no introduction.

Music was furnished by an orchestra of Lawndale branch, Chicago Boys' club.

Then came the dramatization showing how a boy, who was induced to steal fruit to show he was not afraid, and to make himself eligible to admission to a gang, was taken into membership by a boys' club. The activities of the club were depicted: basketball, baseball, swimming, boxing, track competition, manual training, building model airplanes, music, table tennis, Punch and Judy shows, tap dancing, and Indian folklore.

New Yorker Praises Chicago.

Mr. Hall told of the work of the 300 Boys' clubs in 151 cities, and he said it was fitting that Chicago should have been chosen as the place in which to commemorate the thirtieth anniversary of the great organization because he thinks Chicago is the greatest American city.

Chicago's playgrounds, parks, bathing beaches, forest preserves, museums, art galleries, universities, school systems, charitable organizations and character building agencies, he declared, "provide a wholesome outlet for the God-given superabundant energy of its future citizenry, the boys of the nation and particularly those underprivileged boys who are compelled to live in the congested areas."

A Variant of Idle Hands Maxim.

"Keep the boy busy doing something that is more attractive to him than the subversive activities of the street," he enjoined the 800 guests, "something that will satisfy his craving for adventure and play; that will build up his body; something that will fill his gregarious longing; something that will meet the creative urge that is in every boy, and something that will develop his character and elevate his ideals."

Mr. Hoover talked of the consequences of crime. There are 3,500,000 active criminals in this country, he declared, and 1,500,000 felonies are committed every year. He termed the problem of keeping the youth of America from crime one of America's greatest problems.

"Once the tentacles of crime have seized a youth," said Mr. Hoover, "there arises an almost insurmountable task for those who labor toward the building of better citizenship."

Assails Renegade Politicians.

For every crime there must be a victim, the No. 1 G-man explained as he painted a picture of the consequences of crime, and he observed that to save the youth it is necessary also to rid America of the "renegade politician," the ally of crime. The schools, he said, have a duty to keep the youth of America from crime, and the boys' clubs are one of the greatest aids in that cause, he asserted.

Tunney, who showed that oratory is one of his accomplishments, told of his interest in the youth of America and of his observations in Europe. Over there, he said, training of boys is accompanied by the "martial tunes," and the child is considered property of the state.

Unless private groups and the various communities exercise their privilege of training the boys of America the government may take over that duty, Tunney said, "and only the Lord knows what will happen then."

He ended his twenty minute talk with a tribute to Bishop Bernard Sheil of Chicago for his work in the Catholic Youth organization.

OFFICIAL MUST LEARN BY SIGHT THE 95 NEW U. S. HOUSE MEMBERS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—(AP)—William T. Roy, assistant parliamentarian of the house, has imposed upon himself the task of learning by sight the nation's ninety-five new congressmen even before he sees them.

"I do it by newspaper photographs and cartoons," he said, "and you would be surprised how well it works."

Roy has to learn the faces so he can tell Speaker William B. Bankhead whose they are, when they pop up in the house.

Already in the mails are letters to the new representatives asking for photographs and newspaper clippings. As fast as Roy receives them they go into an album.

Modestly he confesses he has a hard time learning names, but veteran house employés readily recite tales of his photographic memory.

Samuel Seabury Better After Acute Appendicitis

New York, Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Samuel Seabury, who underwent an operation for acute appendicitis in Doctors' hospital, Saturday, was said to be recovering at the institution today. Doctors said his condition was "most satisfactory."

DEMOCRACY WILL NOT SURVIVE NEW WAR, SAYS GILKEY

The chances of democracy to survive another world war are practically nil, Dean Charles W. Gilkey of the University of Chicago chapel declared yesterday at an Armistice day forum of the City club in the Hotel Sherman. Dean Gilkey spoke on behalf of the Emergency Peace campaign, a two year nation-wide movement which began last spring.

"Nineteen nations have gone off the democratic basis since 1919," the dean said. "Democracy is more on the defensive now than it has ever been. Consider the effects of the next war on democracy in view of the results of the world war, and you will see what chance democracy has of surviving.

"The man on horseback has his chance after a great war. Modern war has become an instrument which is so infected with such germs that it will certainly threaten democratic institutions if we lay hold of it."

It is agreed by most observers, he said, that this country could not remain out of a European war for more than one year if we were to carry on trade with the warring nations.

Dean Gilkey said the present permissive bill may give the President "too much power to control embargoes over commodities, and may vest in him an indirect war-making power which belongs to congress."

A WEEK AGO TODAY.

A week ago, as you may recall, there was an election. The days immediately following produced many of the familiar exhibitions of the American political aftermath. A lady in a bathing suit was seen in Michigan avenue peddling sandwiches because she had lost that kind of a bet. A gentleman elsewhere was being pelted with bad eggs, he having lost out on that one. And more of the same elsewhere.

THE TRIBUNE, being on the losing side, has had its full share of the victor's pæan, by telephone, telegraph, and mail. We haven't been able to print it all, but the samples have crosscut the mass of rejoicing, telling us so, and how.

We can take it. We have not been free from chortling when our side has won.

It is well that Americans take their politics seriously. THE TRIBUNE would have produced a different outcome of last week's voting if it could have done so. The intensity of the campaign and the size of the vote are evidence that the people want and can use the process of a republican form of government. They could say what they wanted done and they could establish the government of their choice. So long as they preserve that right they will preserve the republic.

THE TRIBUNE was as active in the campaign as it knew how to be. It has no regrets for what it undertook to do, and, although it accepts the consequence of the election without rancor, it would be unable to see where with its convictions it could have pursued any different course.

THE TRIBUNE has always been a paper of strong editorial principle. The front page that carried a paragraph announcing the surrender of Fort Sumter carried a column editorial denouncing the attack. Newspapers were all vigorous in opinion in the old days. Indeed, with their small news facilities they could be little else.

The purely commercial newspapers of a later day cannot or will not assert themselves as conscientiously and emphatically as the fighting editor who spoke his mind and made both his enemies and his friends. The news merchants who turned the newspaper into a cold, lifeless, money making machine entered the field in the latter part of the last century. They were so afraid of losing a subscriber or an advertiser, or of offending persons in power, that they never had an opinion on any subject.

Still later came the publishers who look on every political event of public importance as a gambling event and try to pick the winning side. If they guess right they tell the world. If they guess wrong they wait to guess again. As an editorial policy this one lacks many things which may be left to our readers to understand. Such editors now have their triumph, some of them, and their success is all counted in the cash drawer.

But their ways are not THE TRIBUNE'S ways. We look upon a newspaper as a public advocate and adviser, to advocate and to advise most insistently when it may fear that its advice may not be liked and may be disregarded.

An advocate does not always win. An adviser may be unheeded even when with the expectable percentage of human error he may be mainly right. But there can be no respect for an advocate who does not do his utmost or for an adviser who holds his peace for fear of offending those to whom he stands in trust.

This is THE TRIBUNE'S creed and has been for fourscore and nine years. If THE TRIBUNE is to remain itself it will be the creed for another 89 years and thereafter.

THE LAKE SHORE TRACKS.

Public gratification in the announcement that the Outer Drive bridge is nearing completion and is ready for a test recalls vividly the opening of the Michigan avenue bridge and its attendant cry of relief, "good-by Rush street." Within a comparatively short time our lake shore boulevard systems will be connected to short-circuit the loop and dissipate the exasperating congestion on Michigan boulevard.

The airplane view published in THE TRIBUNE shows very clearly the ample south side approaches with the various branches to the loop, including the new elevated structure at Randolph street. To the north the grade separation over Grand avenue has been completed. And then what? For a matter of five blocks the boulevard runs between the Chicago avenue street car line and the buildings on Lake Shore drive—with a final crossing at Chicago avenue to ruin the whole picture. Because there are no offices on the east side of the drive every patron of the surface lines must cross the superhighway, requiring, of course, the protection of stop and go lights. A bottleneck is inevitable with the confusing influence extending southward as far as the Outer Drive bridge and northward beyond Oak street.

The street car service must be discontinued eventually, and why not now? Our lakeside boulevard system is one of the city's principal assets and advertisments. Chicagoans, a term which includes both the patrons and employés of the street car company, are proud of it. The surface lines' management needs all the public approval it can muster at the present time and it would do well to withdraw opposition. It cannot hope to hold this modicum of trafic permanently. Why prolong a nuisance for a year or two through tiresome legal proceedings?

HITLER'S NEW ARMY.

Herr Hitler, celebrating the thirteenth anniversary of the putsch that failed at the onset and won in the end, said that for the first time since he assumed leadership he did not fear for the future of Germany. Hitler, like the other dictators, thinks of future security in terms of armed strength. He and other heads of authoritarian states think of armies because their own rulership rests upon disciplined and loyal military forces.

Hitler, however, is thinking of Germany as well as himself because his own position does not require the great military force he has built up. The new army admittedly is costing the German people considerable. They need other things, and they can't have a modern army with its tremendous material equipment without making some sacrifices.

A military people in the heart of Europe, with the German history as a constant reminder, would make the sacrifices more cheerfully than a people more protected by their surroundings and the trend of their development.

Hitler is a product of many things combined, and probably not the least of them was the treaty of Versailles. An implacable victor does not always serve his own interest by the severity of terms. If it is Carthage to be utterly destroyed, that is one thing, but if it is a powerful nation merely goaded and humiliated by exactions and impositions, the story will have a different ending.

The victors in the world war are not themselves wholly to be blamed; they had been hurt and they had almost despaired of checking the invader. In their moment of triumph they were still bitter and they were apprehensive. The desire to prevent a recurrence of such terror as they had known, by any thinkable means, was a natural one. Cooler heads, however, would have looked at more aspects of the future. They would have known that Germany could not be restrained from arming in the future, particularly if no other great country would consent voluntarily to a limitation of its own armed strength.

The submissions which popular government in Germany had to make to allied demands probably doomed it from the beginning. Hitler has many phobias, and one is a dread of communism, although between him and Stalin there are no more points of difference than there are of resemblance. Hitler did, however, see republican Germany threatened by the communists.

If impossible reparation obligations had not been imposed on Germany, and if its people had not been forced to believe that they never were to be admitted into association with other nations upon anything like an equality of standing, there might have been changes in the form of German government without producing the Nazi state which now causes such profound worry to the governments of the former allies.

Italy has pretty thoroughly made its peace with Germany, but France and Great Britain have plenty to disturb them, considering what Hitler with his new army may do. Except for implacable statesmanship, Hitler might not have been there. He came to be the darling of many of the German people because they thought he could lead them out of their valley of humiliation and despair. He now tells them he has done so, and although they are urged to make their sacrifices cheerfully and would be forced to make them anyway, he presents them with an army as his achievement and tells them they need have no fear that the future will find them unable to follow their national destiny and take their place unafraid in the world about them.

TO EUROPE BY AIR.

On a certain Friday morning during the month of October several tourists scanned Chicago's vast bulk from the Tribune Observation Tower. One woman made several comparisons with Berlin, observing to the guide that the party had visited that city on the previous Monday. The man was astounded. Visiting Berlin on Monday and Chicago the following Friday? Impossible—until it was explained that the ocean crossing was made on the Zeppelin Hindenburg, with supplementary airline service both in Germany and the United States. "One of the most delightful experiences of a lifetime!" it was asserted.

All summer long the giant dirigible has come to rest or slipped away from Lakehurst until the event has become a commonplace. German lighter-than-air craft established the remarkable record of having carried upward of 100,000 patrons without a single passenger casualty of any description. Now, according to press dispatches, the German Lufthansa is building four motored Diesel airplanes for a series of eighteen test flights over the North Atlantic during 1937, Washington having granted the necessary permission. Thus, German institutions have a long lead in both the faster and slower types of intercontinental transportation.

While nobody doubts and everybody hopes that the 1937 venture will be equally successful, Americans will wonder why the United States merely sits apathetically at the receiving end of these successes of science. Our contribution to the air conquest of the North Atlantic has been limited to the furnishing of facilities, airports, mooring masts, foreign permits, and revenue passengers. Everything, it may be observed, except the initiative that Americans are supposedly best equipped to supply. What is the matter?

While the United States was engrossed in the development of the west European nations stole her trans-Atlantic shipping business. Since that time congress has spent millions in efforts to reëstablish American shipping on the seas. It is an uphill fight and little or no progress has been made, but does not its history contain a lesson? Air navigation is new and experimental. The first nations in the field will have a tremendous advantage. The government must lend encouragement to the aviation industry lest the nation find itself ten years hence as impotent over the seas as on the seas.

"OVEREMPHASIS."

[Elgin (Ill.) Courier-News.]

An amazing sidelight on some of the quirks of "big time" college football is provided in recent news dispatches from California.

A college with fewer than 500 students went in for football in a big way several years ago. It built a $2,000,000 stadium—a $2,000,000 stadium for a college of that size!—and put up 500 acres of land on which the college buildings stand as security for the bond issue.

Now a committee of San Francisco bankers, representing the holders of the first mortgage bonds, is threatening to foreclose. The committee complains that no interest payments have been made on $1,370,500 in bonds for two and one-half years.

What a sorry plight for a college to get itself into! If there ever was a case made to order to provide ammunition for the foes of "overemphasis," this one is it.

WELL, IF HE WORE GAITERS——

'Tother day an Englishman related a recent experience, after this fashion: "Y'know, a few nights ago I was walking on the platform at Waterloo station waiting for my train, when I saw an extremely venerable and dignified elderly gentleman who reminded me of the pictures I'd seen of the Archbishop of Canterbury. I thought I'd like to find out if it were really he. So I went up to him and said: 'I beg your pardon, sir, but are you the Archbishop of Canterbury?' Somehow he seemed unwilling to tell me. In fact, he wouldn't tell me. All he said was: 'What the blasted hell has that to do with you?' So you see I still don't know whether he was the Archbishop or not." . . . Wonder how he could possibly have found out? Resurgently yours,

SCORE A TIE.

During my conversation with Dolly she confided that a test in history was soon to be her lot. We began quizzing each other for practice. "What," she asked, "made Vasco Da Gama famous"? Not wishing to embarrass her, I skipped the question. Then, remembering that she had evidenced some interest in football, I asked who had won the Texas-Southern Methodist game. "Oh," said Dolly, "we're not that far over in the book yet."

"WHY JOIN A WOMAN'S CLUB?"

I do not belong to a Woman's club. I wish I did. I haven't tried to join because I haven't the money nor the appearance to go among those I'd enjoy knowing. My home is not as presentable as I'd wish it to be to entertain other and better homekeepers. . . . In consequence I'm lonesome. I need mental stimulation and would like to belong to a club that consisted of women of refinement, of intellect, of ordinary means, of middle age, but alert and fun loving. I'd like to learn to knit one week, to model in clay, or what you have, the next; to review books another time; to listen to a lecture on current events; to entertain with musical talent, or just visit and make agreeable friends. Could your column help me and others like me? And would you? . . . Perhaps you ask, "Why is the lady lonely?" Being a worker outside the home, you may not be able to realize how boresome it is to be in the house alone a great part of the day, engaged in uninteresting toil. Children coming home alive with their activities; husband coming home tired. One's own self has NO outlet.

STOMATITIS OR SORE MOUTH.

HAVE you ever observed how people repeatedly use the mouth as a third hand? Of course we expect smokers to carry cigars, cigarets, and pipestems between the lips; but pencils, hairpins, combs, knives, thread, buttons, tacks, nails, and scores of things may be held within the mouth—at least for a short time—with utter disregard of cleanliness. We seem to believe that the delicate mucous membrane is impervious to injury.

Not only are these habits dangerous from the standpoint of health but some foreign bodies are occasionally swallowed or accidentally drawn into the lungs. Those who perform the highly technical operation of bronchoscopy have formed collections of articles removed from the bronchi—enough to stock a respectable museum.

There is probably no region in the body that requires more careful handling than the oral cavity. While many bacteria will succumb to natural causes, others survive and find a suitable environment for growth on the tongue, the mucous membrane of the cheeks and lips, the back of the throat, or the tonsils.

One of the commonest affections of infancy is known as thrush or stomatitis. Its origin is supposed to be some digestive upset, or it may be inaugurated through infection from the sucking of dirty objects. The gums are tender, red, and swollen, and the inflammation may spread to the inside of the cheeks and the lips. In fact, the soreness may be so great that food will be refused. In many instances there is a slight temperature and diarrhea.

In older children the situation is often much more severe. Even adults may exhibit all the symptoms of general inflammation and small blisters may break out on the lips and cheeks which later open, leaving an ulcerated surface. The taking of food brings on a burning pain and the breath is generally foul.

A still more annoying variety is that which develops in both children and adults, more especially in those who are living under insanitary conditions. Ulcerations spread along the border of the gums to the cheek and the edges and the lower side of the tongue. The diseased areas are covered usually with yellow, brownish, or dirty gray appearing débris and the absorption may be sufficient to bring about enlargement of the glands beneath the lower jaw or in the neck. Unless checked this may cause the loss of teeth or actually proceed to the destruction of bone.

Each class requires scrupulous attention to mouth hygiene. Proper washes must be used such as boric acid or permanganate of potash, and the ulcerated portions cauterized with silver nitrate or potassium alum. Prompt care is necessary because with the debilitated state of the patient which habitually precedes the formation of the lesions some of these ulcers may obliterate blood vessels and be followed by a considerable loss of tissue.

There is also a type of stomatitis or thrush which is due to a yeastlike parasite. In appearance it does not differ essentially from the above mentioned inflammations except that numerous small white patches which look like tiny milk curds will be seen on the tongue, the gums, and the lips. If an attempt is made to remove these spots the tissues beneath may bleed slightly. A microscopic examination will reveal the fungus. As a rule, the disease will continue for but a few days, particularly if the mouth is washed with a sterile cotton swab moistened with some dilute alkaline solution.

In these days when we use so much raw food, such as salads and fruits, cleanliness of these materials is important. While the delicate lining of the buccal cavity is highly resistant yet it is not proof against insults oft repeated. We must filter out all noxious and deleterious substances so that they cannot find their way into the beginning of the alimentary tract. The senses of taste and smell help us somewhat.

MELANOBLASTOMA.

Mrs. E. H. writes: Will you write something on melanoblastoma?

REPLY.

Melanoblastoma is a growth made up of cells containing a pigment called melanin. Except in extremely light people the skin contains a considerable amount of this coloring matter. The color-bearing cells, the melanoblasts, can be stimulated into activity by the sun's rays which will bring on freckles or a tan. When these pigmented cells get out of control—for example, those found in a bluish-black mole—and begin to grow and spread, the victim faces a dangerous condition known as melanoma. Sometimes these growths appear in the eye, the brain, the skin, and other organs. Just why tumors made up of melanoblasts appear we do not know and we probably will not discover until we find the cause of cancer.

DIET FOR COLDS.

B. M. writes: Recalling the old saying, "stuff a cold and starve a fever," makes me wonder what the diet should be when one is home sick with a cold and a temperature.

REPLY.

This adage is contradictory since most acute colds are accompanied by fever. What is known as a "light" or liquid diet should be used. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for suggestions along this line.

KIDNEY OPERATION.

Miss B. writes: If a kidney is removed, must the adrenal gland above it be removed also? Would removal of this gland be a constant cause of fear and nervousness?

REPLY.

Removal of a kidney should not involve the adrenal gland unless it, too, is diseased. Perhaps you could relieve your anxiety by asking your surgeon to explain the exact nature of the operation.

NO SPECIAL ALARM.

A. D. writes: How will hardening of the blood vessels around the heart affect a person 60 years old?

REPLY.

No doubt you refer to the coronary arteries which supply blood to the heart muscle. No special alarm need be felt. Under the supervision of a physician, such a patient may lead a comparatively comfortable and useful existence for a number of years.

THE WHITE PLAGUE.

W. B. A. writes: Why is tuberculosis referred to as "the great white plague"?

REPLY.

Tuberculosis is known popularly by this name. The designation has no scientific basis, although swellings of joints caused by tuberculosis are known as "white swellings."

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

RESPONSIBILITY.

Waukegan, Ill., Nov. 6.—After reading the contributions appearing in the Voice of the People department of your newspaper on Nov. 6 I am prompted to ask this question: How many of these contributors, or the nearly 26,000,000 people who voted for the President, really know what the real, true issue was?

One contributor speaks concerning the end of rugged individualism. Surely he doesn't mean the end of individual responsibility.

It is every man's own individual responsibility to provide his own work and to earn his own money through the fruits of his own labor. It is only the irresponsible who will borrow work, or money, or anything else he may need, and it does not matter whether it is borrowed from relative, friend, or even Uncle Sam.

When the accepting of gratuities from any one becomes habitual we have a disease far worse than any habit forming drug to overcome. And when this same disease appears in several million men and women we have the beginning of the worst menace ever to face this or any country. That was the issue on election day. That is still the issue today.

A certain philosopher has said: "The noblest charity is to prevent a man from accepting charity, and the best alms are to show and to enable a man to dispense with alms."

The Republican party failed in electing its candidate because it refused to promise further handouts, but, thank God, there are still sixteen million people in this country who are individually responsible.

RECALLING AN EDITORIAL.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Just twenty years ago there appeared in the dear old CHICAGO TRIBUNE an editorial entitled "Nobody Home," in which the W. G. N. implied that the voters of California had no brains just because the good people of that state saw fit to vote for Woodrow Wilson.

Last Tuesday California as well as forty-five other states saw fit to cast their ballots for another great American, against the very much expressed wish of THE TRIBUNE.

Are we to take for granted that all the voters with brains have now moved to the two small states of Maine and Vermont?

ADMINISTRATOR'S BOND.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—When my father died my brother was appointed administrator of his estate. He took out a bond with a regular bonding company at the rate of $30 a year. My brother became ill and was sent to the hospital.

1. Now this bonding company claims they never released him from this account, and that therefore we, the other heirs, owe them [2] from the time his first year was up, which was paid in advance. Can they collect? We have never mentioned this matter to my sick brother as he is still in a serious condition.

The bonding company has never sent us a bill, but has taken it up with the [3] attorney who probated the estate. The estate has now dwindled down to a farm of seventy acres with a mortgage on it.
C. B.

1. If the estate was not closed the bonding company's liability continued and it would be the ordinary course for them to charge renewal premiums on the bond.

2. We could advise to better advantage if you had stated how much time has elapsed.

3. The attorney is in a better position to advise you than we are. If he is to blame for the delay, then conceivably he might be required to stand the charges.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SEPARATE MAINTENANCE.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Kindly advise the status of the law recently passed by the legislature regarding the two year limit in payments of alimony, whether the same is now in effect, and [2] whether the desertion by husband would have any effect on its enforcement?
A. N.

1. There is no law limiting alimony payments to two years. What you doubtless have in mind is the new legislation [since held invalid] providing that two years' payments of separate maintenance in advance of divorce may, on proper facts, be a ground for divorce and that no more than two years may be collected.

2. We cannot advise without knowing the facts on which your question arises.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

HE GOT A VOTE.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—As a candidate for governor, running as an independent Republican, I wish to thank all those who gave me their support, firmly believing that there are times when some votes count a great deal more than other votes. Votes depend very much for value upon who is back of the vote. The kind I angled for come from that class described in Holy Writ where one shall chase a thousand and two put ten thousand to flight.

At this writing, Nov. 4, 1936, with the latest returns, I think that I have polled, as far as numbers of ballots go, the all-time low for governor of Illinois. The records show one vote cast for Willard A. Maxwell, independent Republican candidate for governor. That was cast in the 39th precinct of the 37th ward. That happens to be the precinct in which I reside.

I entered the campaign as an avowed professing Christian citizen, confident that the God I serve, if he so willed, could and would make me governor of Illinois. He has willed otherwise, and I must heartily and gladly say, "Thy will be done." While I did not vote for President Roosevelt, I shall do what is much more than simply marking an X before his name. I shall continue in the future as in the past, morning and night, at the family altar to bear him to the Throne of Grace, from whence comes every good and perfect gift.
WILLARD A. MAXWELL.

AT THE COUNTY HOSPITAL.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—I wish to take this opportunity through your paper of thanking the management and staf of the Cook County hospital for the wonderful care and kind treatment given to a friend of mine who was a patient at the hospital for four months.

I particularly wish to mention Dr. A. Nehf and Dr. Greenspahn, whose sincere and humane care in this case compels me to bring this to the notice of the people of Chicago that they may be proud of the good work done by the Cook County hospital.
HANNAHBELLE PITTEL.

LABOR IN VAIN.

West De Pere, Wis., Nov. 4.—I have read your newspaper, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, for the last ten years and have always thought it to be a fairly decent newspaper. But that was before the present presidential campaign. I can see where a newspaper can be prejudiced against a political party, but I have never seen one get as dirty about it as you and your staf.

Your labor was in vain, gentlemen, for the public refused to be influenced by petty arguments. They gave Roosevelt a vote of confidence again.
ROBERT R. E. HUGO.

A REASONABLE SUGGESTION.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—THE TRIBUNE nearly always uses "Zealand" for anything about New Zealand.

Zealand is the island on which Copenhagen is located, while New Zealand, my native country, is a British dominion in the South Pacific ocean.

As a matter of courtesy, not to stress unduly accuracy, might it not be well to call New Zealand by its proper name?
P. A. VAILE.

A JEFFERSONIAN.

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 5.—We are amused when we hear a Democrat say that he feels sorry for those who deserted their party just before the election. May we say here that they don't want his sympathy; don't need it? They are persons of good judgment who saw ahead, who heeded the word: "Wherefore come ye out from among them, and be ye separate." They stepped out while stepping was good; they are to be congratulated. Rather we sympathize with those who failed to see ahead, who were loath to leave the party whose name they held sacred, and we don't blame them, but there is no Jeffersonian Democratic party now; it has been swallowed up by a party which retains the name but not its principles.

It is a great party and will accomplish great achievements, no doubt. We are greatly in the minority. We did what we could before the election, but now I fear we will not be able to make much impression on the government's program.
G. G. GIBSON.

CARS THAT DIDN'T STOP.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Chicago, being one of the world's largest cities, should have an adequate transportation system, but when a person stands at a street car stop and sees three street cars go by him it is most irritating and places a black mark before Chicago's good name.

The experience I just related occurred to me on Thursday evening, Nov. 5, at Dickens and North California avenues. I was in a hurry to get to the hocky game at the Stadium with two girls. Three street cars passed right by us and the fourth only stopped thirty feet beyond us because somebody wanted to get off. We ran and got this car. I asked the conductor in a very polite way if that corner was a stop. He was very sarcastic. These cars were not late, and this particular one was only going to the barns.

This incident made me very irritable the rest of the evening, spoiling what might have been an enjoyable occasion.
VERNON A. NIEFT.

DOUBLE FEATURES.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—In reply to A. O. T. in this morning's paper on "Double Features":

Double features are a vast improvement over the former program, as you see two complete stories that hold your interest and make the time pass quickly, instead of three or four short, disconnected, and often silly subjects that make you fidget and wonder when the feature will ever begin.

We always get our full share of entertainment and full value for our money with a double feature program.
MINNIE MORRIS.

A GOOD FIGHT.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Paul, in his second epistle to Timothy, 4:7, wrote: "I have fought a good fight . . . I have kept the faith."

With this thought in mind I want to thank you, as well as the ward committeemen and workers, for the good fight that was waged for the cause of Republicanism upon my behalf and that of the other candidates upon our ticket.

With best wishes for a happy Thanksgiving, I am

MAGNETIC McCALL'S

December McCall's is out today! . . . Like a magnet it will attract one million women to retail shopping centers. One million copies will be sold for cash, across the counter—49% greater news-stand sales than any other women's magazine. A voluntary tribute to the magnetism of McCall's! . . . Another million and a half copies have been mailed direct. A total circulation of 2½ million to growing, spending homes interested in better living and better buying.

SOLD in places where things are bought, McCall's is full of things to buy. Without a line of advertising, it would sell millions of dollars' worth of merchandise for home, table and person. Progressive home-makers depend upon its editorial—and its advertising—columns.

The nation's leading department stores follow magnetic McCall's and feature the merchandise it features—because it pays to do so. 319 leading department stores base displays on McCall editorial features. 139 use advertisements, mounted, as point-of-sale displays in many departments. McCall's color pages devoted to fashion outnumber those of any other women's magazines. A million women a month buy McCall Patterns. Traffic studies have revealed that they visit from two to seven departments for materials and accessories to complete the costume.

The department store is but one example of the merchandising power of McCall's. Grocery store, drug store, meat market, furniture store, electrical shop and automobile showroom know its magnetic tug that moves merchandise.

The magnetism of McCall's is stowed upon every page by editors who know what women want.

2 Then McCall's Homemaking and Style authorities solve these problems with all the resources of science.

3 McCall's Editors—talented writers and artists—dramatize these findings to make them most interesting and readable.

4 And, finally, McCall's Reader Research (interviewing in the home) checks up on the page-by-page reading.

The McCall Method is logical, thorough. It means that McCall's is read, all the way through. It guarantees to advertisers high visibility for their messages, and better returns . . . FOR ONLY THE ADVERTISING THAT IS READ CAN BRING RESULTS!

DR. H. J. GAHAGAN KILLED BY AUTO; SANITARIUM HEAD

Chicagoan Victim of Aurora Accident.

Dr. Henry J. Gahagan, noted psychiatrist and head of the Mercyville sanitarium, was killed yesterday evening when he was struck by an automobile as he left a bus in front of the sanitarium, which is two miles north of Aurora on the Lincoln highway. Dr. Gahagan was 68 years old.

Malcolm Giles of Aurora, supreme secretary of the Loyal Order of Moose, was the driver of the car. Mr. Giles said Dr. Gahagan started to run across the road to beat a car approaching from the south, and was struck by Giles' automobile, coming from the other direction.

Office and Home Here.

Dr. Gahagan's home was at 5240 Sheridan road. He had left his office at 122 South Michigan avenue, and had taken the train to Aurora, where he caught the Mercyville bus.

Dr. Gahagan was born at Crafton, Ill., and received his medical education at Rush Medical college. In 1893 he became a staf member of Elgin State hospital. From 1897 to 1903 he served as health commissioner of the city of Elgin. In 1914 he was appointed superintendent of the state hospital.

One of his first acts was to remove bars from all windows. Soon afterward he instituted occupational therapy at the hospital. He also built a golf course on the hospital grounds and allowed most patients to use knives and forks at meals. These reforms were widely followed elsewhere. In 1918 Dr. Gahagan was made medical director of Mercyville sanitarium.

CHAMPION HUSKERS GATHER FOR FARMING WORLD SERIES TODAY

Newark, O., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—The prediction that no records will be broken tomorrow in the national corn husking contest was made today by champion huskers from nine corn belt states after a preliminary scrimmage with standing stalks on the Alva Oyler farm where a crowd of 100,000 is expected to view the "world series of agriculture."

However, two Illinois farmers stood out as the favorites in the early "doping." They are Adam Byczynski of Bureau county, who husked 41.175 bushels in 80 minutes to win his state championship, and Theodore Tuftie of La Salle county, who was second with 41.166 bushels.

Deterrents to any record shattering husking tomorrow were listed by the practicing champions as mud, a corn yield far below normal and the fact that fields are spotty, with ears plentiful in some areas and almost nonexistent in others.

VERDICT IS LEFT OPEN IN SLAYING OF POLICEMAN

A verdict of "murder by persons unknown" was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury investigating the fatal shooting of Patrolman Michael Toth in a tavern at 4830 South Wood street Sunday morning. Toth died Sunday night.

New City police were working on the theory that one of the two hoodlums who were in the saloon when Toth and a companion patrolman entered the place to investigate a report of a disturbance may have been a former policeman.

Mayor Kelly said that he planned to attend Toth's funeral Thursday morning. Police pension board officials said that Mrs. Toth will receive $125 a month for herself and $10 a month for each of her two children.

JURISTS ATTEND LAST RITES FOR JUDGE MILLER

The tiny chapel at 318 North Central avenue was far from adequate yesterday to hold the great throng of distinguished judges, lawyers, and laymen who gathered there to honor their colleague and friend, Judge Harry B. Miller of the Superior court, who died Thursday at his home, 320 North Mason avenue. Judge Miller, a veteran member of the bench, was 52 years old.

The Austin commandery, No. 84, Knights Templar, of the Masonic order conducted the services at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Interment was in the Acacia Park mausoleum.

Nearly every member of the Superior, Circuit, Appellate, Criminal, Probate, and Municipal courts was there. Their courts were closed. Assistant state's attorneys and former prosecutors who worked with Judge Miller in the Criminal court were present. Leading members of the Chicago Bar association also attended to pay their final respects to the jurist.

There was a large representation from the Salvation Army. Before he became a lawyer and a judge, Judge Miller was a Salvation Army musician.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Emily Foulk Miller, and two sons, Howard A. Miller and Harry B. Miller Jr.

An Appreciation.

JESSE LATHROP MOSS JR., better known to a host of friends as "Mose," has at long last succumbed to the injuries received in two airplane crashes, the first of which occurred July 4, 1931.

The one absorbing interest of his life was flying. Some years had been spent in the more prosaic business world, where his native talents and zest for life and people had brought him notable success. But when, in 1927, he took up flying as a diversion, he found that the world of the air, the men and machines of the air, captivated his imagination. He abandoned all other business interests and entered aviation with a whole heart.

He became a licensed pilot and rapidly advanced to prominence. In a short time he was midwestern sales representative for the Bellanca airplanes.

Most of the airports of the midwest, and indeed many in the east knew "Mose." The pilots, mechanics, et al, were his buddies. His rare quality of high good humor, a unique and inimitable wit, combined with nothing less than a Yankee shrewdness and sound common sense, indelibly impressed all who met him. And his innumerable acts of thoughtfulness won him many devoted friends.

The prolonged and desperate battle he waged against insuperable odds, the serene and indomitable spirit with which he fought, the unfailing high good humor have been the wonder and inspiration of all who watched.

FIX THAT COLD

And Fix It Right—Depend on No Mere Half-way Measures!

A cold neglected may be a cold regretted!

Many a "slight" cold has ended in flu and pneumonia.

A cold also calls for internal treatment, for a cold is an internal infection.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is what you want for a cold. First, it is a cold tablet, made expressly for the treatment of colds and nothing else.

Here's what it does:

First, it opens the bowels, an advisable step in treating a cold.

Second, it checks the infection in the system, a vital step.

Third, it relieves the headache and fever.

These four effects make a real cold treatment and in Bromo Quinine you get them all in the form of a single tablet.

Bromo Quinine tablets now come sugar-coated as well as plain. The sugar-coated are exactly the same as the regular, except that the tablets are coated with sugar for palatability.

Be prudent, be careful! At the first signs of a cold, go right to your druggist for a package of Bromo Quinine. Begin taking the tablets immediately, two every four hours.

That prompt treatment will usually stop a cold in 24 hours and that's the speed of action you want.

Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is safe to take. Get these famous cold tablets at any drug store, and insist upon getting what you ask for.

Complete the "Hair Cycle" and HAIR LOSS STOPS

says Charles Nessler

NO. You can't stop hair from falling out with Charles Nessler's PRO-KER Treatment. Nor with anything else, for that matter. Nature intends that hair should fall out; and should be constantly replaced with new healthy hair.

The trouble is, following unscientific advice, we go at the proposition backwards. We fail to help Nature replace fallen hair. In fact, we often hinder natural replacement.

GREEN ACCUSES CIO OF CLOSING DOOR TO PEACE

Charges Deliberate Plot to Set Up Rival Union.

New York, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The committee for industrial organization was accused today by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor with deliberately "closing the door" to peace between the two contending labor groups because it had planned all along to set up a union rival to the A. F. of L.

On two counts the veteran labor leader charged John Lewis' young group with unwillingness to talk armistice. First, he asserted here in an interview, the CIO had refused to select a committee to sit down for purposes of conciliation with a similar A. F. of L. body.

Second, Green cited Lewis' refusal of yesterday to confer with him personally.

"We had a committee standing and ready," said the federation president. "They [the CIO] refused to appoint one of their own.

"Then I expressed willingness to talk to Mr. Lewis personally. He refused that, too.

"It is one of the closing steps in a deliberate plan and policy originated [by the CIO] in the beginning to set up a rival organization to the American Federation of Labor."

A conference with Green was declined yesterday by Lewis, who said it would be "futile" because of an expression by Green that he lacked authority to chance the policy of the A. F. of L. executive council. It was this council which suspended the CIO unions from the federation.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The great mystery of whether Delmar Edmondson, commentator for the CBS Magazine of the Air, is really Alexander Woollcott in disguise was cleared up yesterday when Edmondson introduced radio's famed "Town Crier" as a guest speaker. Their voices are similar, but readily distinguishable when both are heard together. Another voice that has lately been confounding Woollcott fans is that of Prof. T. V. Smith, who was appearing regularly for the Democratic committee during the campaign.

Prof. Smith's voice is well known hereabouts, of course, but in the east where Woollcott has been on the air for years the critic's cadences are more widely recognized. So to convince the easterners that T. V. was not Alex in disguise the latter was presented on one of the Smith broadcasts.

Woollcott had something to say about this earlier broadcast yesterday. As a result of predicting a Roosevelt victory at that time Alice Roosevelt Longworth made him a bet of $100. The other day he received a check from her with the suggestion that he donate it to his favorite charity.

"I am using it to provide food and raiment for a broken down newspaper man — Alexander Woollcott" — Mr. Woollcott explained yesterday.

The Magazine of the Air, incidentally, is one of the really distinguished daytime offerings. It's an excellent variety program, serving feminine listeners in the same sort of way Rudy Vallee's varieties does the general audience.

Dropped in to view Columbia's attractive new audience studio in the Wrigley building Saturday evening. First big show aired from the room was the Football Revue sponsored by a watchmaker. Kay Kyser provided stirring collegiate music—his version of the Washington and Lee swing must have brought considerable joy to the lads at Lexington, Va.—and "Thundering" Ed Thorgersen read scores and interviewed Chet Wynne, Kentucky football coach. Though they call him Thundering Ed, Fumbling Ed would have fitted him better Saturday. Also Coach Wynne would have made a better impression if he had read his script over once or twice before attempting to go on the air.

Following the Football show came the Speed show with Vincent Lopez and Floyd Gibbons. Floyd styled his contribution to the program "a piping hot story from Spain, where news is really popping." Floyd lets his fervor run away with him—he used the word "doggone" six times in five minutes.

Chet Lauck and Norris Goff are soon to venture into the comic strip field, using their radio characters, Lum and Abner. . . . Horace Heidt is to set up his bandstand at New York's Biltmore hotel for the winter.

FEDERAL RADIO CHIEF SUPPORTS PRIVATE CONTROL

New York, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Anning S. Prall, chairman of the Federal Radio commission, said tonight that "in this country we would not seek public ownership of all broadcasting because we feel that it is not representative of our form of government."

Addressing a dinner given in connection with the observation of the National Broadcasting company's tenth anniversary, Prall said for some time forces have been working for government ownership of broadcasting in America, but lately they "appear to have become less articulate."

Prall spoke on a nation-wide broadcast with M. H. Aylesworth, first president of NBC; Maurice Rambert, president of the International Broadcasting union; Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Henry Sloane Coffin, president of Union Theological seminary, and C. M. Chester, president of the National Association of Manufacturers and chairman of the board of the General Foods corporation.

The chairman of the radio commission said American radio "is the finest in the world because it has been permitted to develop unfettered by too many restraints of government."

Sullen Children Often Are Less Favored Ones

Parents Partial to More Brilliant Offspring.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"My son is sullen," says a mother of three.

"My daughter is discontented," a mother of four complains of her eldest.

"My second baby is the idol of every one who sees her," raves the mother of two.

School may be responsible for a child's maladjustment, or the wrong companions. But while you are "thinking things out" be sure to compare this child whose behavior worries you impartially with his or her brothers or sisters. Sometimes the root of the whole trouble lies right there. If it does, don't let the relationship continue to be askew through the years. Try to do something about it.

Take a certain family with four children. The twin boys are their mother's delight. The older girl is pretty and gay and can twist her father around her little finger. The second girl is definitly unattractive, serious, and is expected always to help mother—is, in fact, the family drudge. Ridiculed by the pretty one, she is growing ill-tempered, therefore always is in hot water with her parents all because she has such a horribly inferior feeling. Yet they wonder why she is so disagreeable!

This child's mother and father should encourage her to learn to do something well [like dancing], love her and praise her, make the others share the work, do what can be done for her looks and posture, and "build her up" generally as an individual.

"Reading for Pleasure in the Teens" is the name of a book list obtainable on receipt of a large, 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Parents Urged to Let the Child Pick His Food

Some "don'ts" for young parents were listed yesterday by Dr. Alvin C. Rambar, professor of pediatrics at Northwestern university. He spoke before the Chicago Association for Child Study and Parent Education.

Among them were these:

Don't invent an artificial standard of what a child must eat "because it's good for him" or "so that the food won't go to waste." Let him exercise his voluntary desires.

Don't pay too much attention to the dramatic tantrums of children.

Don't take too much stock in the belief that "children should be seen and not heard." Let them enter as much as possible into conseryation with other adults.

Don't be inconsistent—telling a child he may do something one time and refusing him the next. Inconsistencies can only result in confusion, a loss of confidence, and disobedience.

"Parents must learn to realize that every child is an individual," he pointed out.

Pork Sausage Is Glorified in Clever Recipes

Humble Links Combined with Other Foods.

BY MARY MEADE.

As a result of the modern mania for glorifying everyday foods, we have with us pork sausage prepared in numerous and attractive ways.

One of the most appetizing pork sausage dishes combines the meat with pineapple slices sautéed in olive oil, Italian style.

Pork Sausage with Pineapple Slices.

1 pound pork sausage
6 slices pineapple
3 tablespoons olive oil
1 tablespoon Parmesan cheese, grated

Shape the sausage into patties and panbroil them until cooked through and brown. Meanwhile, sauté the pineapple slices in olive oil until brown. Sprinkle the pineapple slices with cheese and place a sausage patty in the center of each pineapple slice. Serve very hot.

Lamb and sausage roll is a dinnertime treat. It is made from breast of lamb, boned and rolled with a sausage filling. The butcher will bone the breast of lamb for you. Then you may spread it with pork sausage, roll it and tie it into shape. The roast is cooked at 300 degrees [slow oven] until done. This will require from 30 to 35 minutes per pound. The roasting should be done in an open pan without the addition of water. This lamb and sausage roll, served with browned potatoes and gravy, is flavorsome and tender. The meat, when sliced, gives a pinwheel effect of lamb and sausage layers.

Sausage Chowder.

3 tablespoons onion, chopped finely
2 cups raw diced potatoes
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 quart milk
½ cup cracker crums

Fry sausage and onion together. Drain off fat. Parboil potatoes 5 minutes. Drain and add with onion, sausage and seasonings to milk. Cook slowly until potatoes are soft. Add cracker crums and serve hot.

Link sausages and hominy are a southern breakfast specialty, but link sausages also may be dressed up a bit and served in other ways at breakfast. Broiled sausages with eggs in brown butter, for instance, are three-fourths of a hearty breakfast. Fruit juice, toast and coffee split the other fourth.

Broiled Sausages with Eggs in Brown Butter.

12 pork sausage links
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon tarragon vinegar
⅛ teaspoon salt
Few grains cayenne pepper
6 poached eggs

Broil the sausages, brown the butter and add to it the lemon juice, vinegar, salt and pepper. Stir until well blended. Arrange sausages and eggs on platter garnished with parsley and pour the brown butter over the eggs. Serve hot.

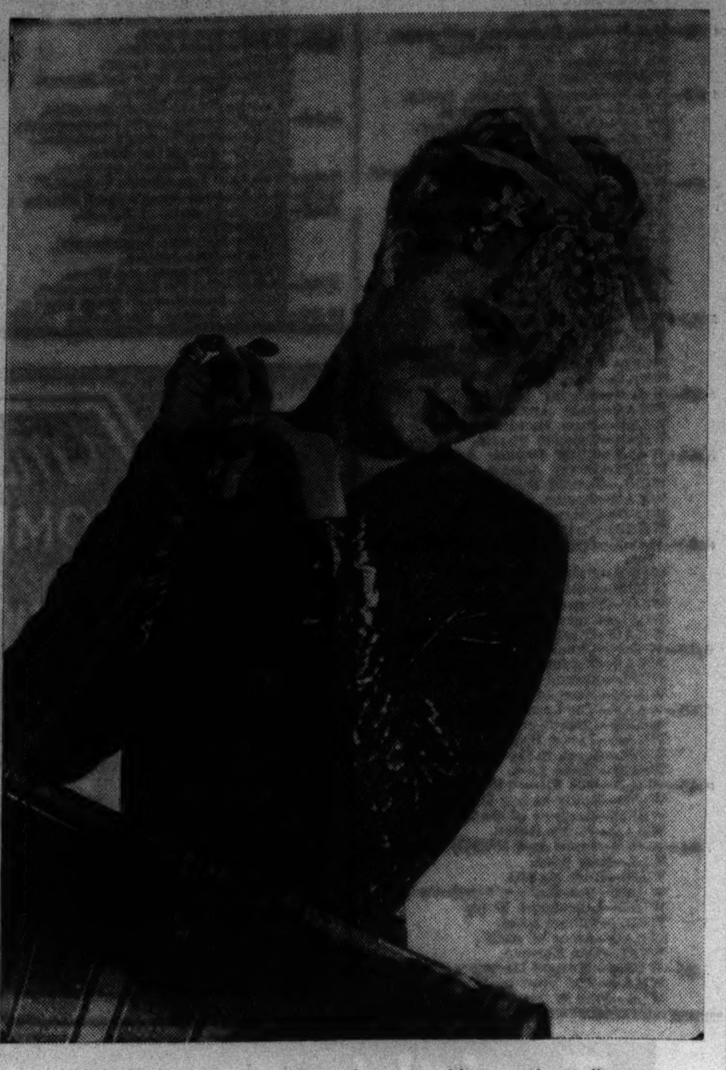
THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS



This distinguished coiffure, featuring lilies of the valley that tumble over the forehead, is the creation of a Paris artist now visiting in Chicago.

From the beauty editor's point of view the most important visitor in Chicago at the moment is a colorful satin robed young man known all over the world as the artist who made women coiffure conscious. His headquarters is Paris, but he is now making what might be described as a grand tour across America. Three days remain of his Chicago visit, practically every moment of which will be devoted to consultation at a Michigan avenue shop.

This artist, who was probably the first to put individuality into the arrangement of short hair, was originally a sculptor. He makes fashions, but the whim of the moment is always subservient to the artist's appreciation of contour. The line must be right, after that the ornamentation.

With him from Paris he has brought hair ornaments the like of which were never seen here before. He introduced the lackered coiffure; now he offers the lackered ornament. Some are of feathers, others of braid. The most interesting, perhaps, are those of human hair, lackered. His theory, which we saw put into practice on our own head, is that the choice of ornament solves the time problem for the busy woman. Brush the hair, brilliantine it a bit, then let the headdress serve to glorify the ensemble, with hair treated to suit. With a few deft touches he can make you look demure, grande dame, or just beautifully different.

His bridal headdresses of white horsehair are exquisite. One, like a nun's coif, has stiff, stunning little curls of glass beads framing the face at the sides. Another nestles on the head, falling down over the eyes like the drooping petals of a huge white flower. Our own pet, were we to do any aile marching, would be a formal halo arrangement with classical trim in gold lacker. Beautiful the bride who chooses this as adornment!

Flowers as ornaments, according to this artist, had best be white. Obviously tinted hair is passé. And every coiffure must have sheer beauty of line as its foundation.

St. Andrew's Society to Import Haggis for Anniversary Banquet

Great Chieftain Haggis sails tomorrow from Southampton on the Queen Mary to be the especial guest of the Illinois St. Andrew society at its 91st anniversary banquet Nov. 28 at the Palmer house.

Climaxing a royal progress with a trip in state in the dining salon of the Queen Mary and the Twentieth Century, and receptions by consuls and dignitaries in New York and Chicago, the great chieftain, so named by Bobbie Burns himself, will make a grand entrance at the dinner. The great chieftain will be borne on the shoulders of four kilted clansmen to the skirling of the bagpipes.

The St. Andrew society, feeling that the traditional St. Andrew's eve rally would not be complete without the pudding boiled by Highlanders in the stomach of a ewe lamb, is importing the haggis, a gift of the comedian, Will Fyffe, together with white heather plucked on the moors.

Proceeds of the dinner will go to the Scottish Old People's home in Riverside and to other projects of the society, the oldest philanthropic organization in the state. James B. Forgan is president, and James Simpson, Robert Black, James G. McMillan, James B. McDougal, Arthur W. Fulton, and R. Douglas Stuart are governors.

Opera Artists and Audience Go Into Stride

Brilliant "Mignon" Sign of Midseason Form.

"MIGNON."

[Opera by Ambroise Thomas. Presented by the Chicago City Opera company in the Civic Opera house, Monday, Nov. 9, 1936].

THE CAST.

Mignon	Coe Glade
Lothario	Chase Baromeo
Wilhelm Meister	Tito Schipa
Filina	Josephine Antoine [debut]
Frederick	Maria Matyas
Laertes	Desire Defrere
Giarno	Mark Love

Conductor, Louis Hasselmans.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Both the stage forces and the audience of the Chicago City Opera company struck their mid-season stride last night. Behind the footlights was a buoyant, well cast "Mignon," capably and even brilliantly performed. Out front were more alertness and enthusiasm than the Civic Opera house has seen so far this year. An extremely large audience punctuated every scene with its vehement applause, and demanded so many curtain calls, single and ensemble, that each principal could go home after the show with a glad heart.

Coe Glade has a genius for getting herself mixed up with gypsy bands. In "Carmen" the links are birth and preference, in "Mignon" an early kidnaping job. Her dark comeliness fitted her admirably last evening for the part of the wild, wayward sprite with whom Meister [Tito Schipa] falls so tardily in love.

But more important than appearance were the dusky mezzo of her voice and the skill with which she uses it. "Connais-tu le pays?" boasted a nicely calculated rubato, which deepened its emotional coloring without once verging on actual sentimentality. This is a difficult scene to act. One can pardon a little stiffness during the long aria, especially since the singer was naturalness itself through most of the evening.

Josephine Antoine, a young coloratura soprano, stepped into the news less than a year ago when she made her debut with the Metropolitan opera. Her first Chicago appearance took place last night, in the part of Filine.

The singer made an excellent impression. She is pretty, stage-wise, and has a light, sunny voice which can put a sparkle into even the most prosaic interludes. When her big chance came, in "Je Suis Titania," she revealed a vocal accuracy and agility which is not yet supported by sufficient strength and staying power. In one or two of the polonaise's more fearful passages the strain affected the beauty of her tone.

Schipa sang the young student with a stage aplomb and vocal ease which are no longer news as far as he is concerned. Chase Baromeo lent his sonorous bass to Lothario, Mignon's wandering father. Maria Matyas, a specialist in boys' parts [Siebel, Haensel, Jack next Saturday in "Jack and the Beanstalk"], practiced her peculiar craft last evening in the rôle of Frederick.

Desire Defrere's skilful characterization of Laertes took care of the principal comedy relief. His humor is easy and restrained, seems rather to grow from the personality of the person he is enacting than created by a laborious following of stage directions. Mark Love was a fierce and terrifying gypsy chief. Louis Hasselmans, calm and competent as ever on the director's stand, saw to it that the tempos were bright and Gallic.

Northwestern university sent the students enrolled in its history and enjoyment of music course to the Auditorium last evening to hear the Moscow Cathedral choir. This was the second downtown event in the series.

Word comes from a reliable source that the choir strengthened the good impression it made here last year, that its ensemble and routining are excellent, and that the reputation of Nicolas Afonsky, the director, is fully justified by the results of his labor.

The audience was of good size, and generous in its applause. The folk songs on the program aroused the most enthusiasm.

Preceding the concert was a lecture on "Nationalism in Music" by Pierre Key, editor of the Musical Digest.

Grooming Is the Major Factor in True Smartness

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

An American woman, and a 100 per cent American, whose international business connections force her to spend months abroad each year, was talking about chic as demonstrated by the different women.

"One thing," she said, "that I have noticed in the last few years here in America is the great grooming improvement in the average woman seen in shop, street, cafés, everywhere. Until a few years ago, that was the chic foreign woman's triumph over us! Particularly the French woman's!

"But, my goodness," the woman added, "the amount of time they spend on themselves to achieve their still high ranking chic would deprive our American woman of half their accomplishments in this or that field of endeavor!"

It is the grooming, above everything else, that matters in any comparison of women, along with the proper fitting of dress. The foreign woman due to get her name on a list of "most attractives" takes the time out to return to her hairdresser the next day, if need be. She'll go for three, four and five fittings. The frock must fit perfectly, the lines adapted beautifully to the individual figure. And the details, such as accessories, may mean hours, days, weeks of searching, matching or combining. Everything is assembled before an appearance is made. In this country, we are told by our informant, women often will step out without some important detail of the ensemble, due for tomorrow's hurried shopping. And they are not exacting enough of fittings. They'll let a slightly skew-gee collar ride for lack of time, or promise to take the frock back later for a better draped hipline, which isn't done. "Until women individually become perfect cranks on fittings, their dress chic will not quite rival the clever Parisienne's. All of which takes time and infinite patience and a determined will!"

Dress, however, is of secondary importance. Grooming precedes it in contributing what it takes to make people turn and look. This means grooming from head to toe, including the silhouette. Not the hair alone, as some women are accused of interpreting all the grooming requirements. Or hair and nails, we should have said.

OPERA BOXES FILLED

Every box was filled in the true Monday night tradition for last evening's opera performance.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bledsoe were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Cummings in their box. Mrs. Meeker was stunning in a black crêpe gown embroidered with rhinestone stars. In her hair was a coronet of black feathers, and her wrap was black velvet trimmed in white fox. Mrs. Bledsoe wore a short silver fox cape over her black velvet gown, and Mrs. Cummings was in ice green lame with an ermine wrap.

"Did you ever see so many beautiful ermine wraps?" commented Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick from the vantage point of her box. Mr. and Mrs. John Adams Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stevenson and Robert Hall McCormick, who shares the box with Mrs. McCormick, were with her. Mrs. McCormick was charming in a pastel flowered silver lame gown. Mrs. Chapman's blue satin gown was trimmed with matching velvet, and Mrs. Stevenson wore figured silver satin.

Admiral and Mrs. Crosley, in town for a day or two on their way east following Admiral Crosley's recent retirement, were guests of the Charles S. Davises in their box. Mrs. Edmund B. Ball of Muncie, Ind., who is traveling with the Crosleys, also was in the party.

One of the most attractive groups of young people were guests of Miss Gillian Hansard in the box of her hostess, Mrs. Charles Harrington Chadwick. With her were Miss Sylvia Peter, Miss Valeria Harris, Colin Campbell and Ralph Applegate, who was host to the others at dinner before the opera.

Mule Is a Mule Even When He Acts in Movies

Convinces Flynn a Sailor's Happier than a Soldier.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—"In this scene," Director William Dieterle was explaining to Errol Flynn, his adventurer-actor in "Another Dawn," "you jump from behind the sand dune when you realize the mule carrying the ammunition for your guns is loose. Risking your life, you mount your fast horse and start after the mule. You understand?"

Flynn nodded.

"You chase it way up there." The German director indicated a place in the sand hills west of Yuma, Ariz., where the scene was being shot. "You catch the mule, but just then two Arabs come at you over the top of a dune. There we will make our cut and complete the scene, in which you draw your pistol and shoot both the Arabs, in another take."

"That should be easy," said Flynn, who is co-starred in the film with Kay Francis and Ian Hunter. "Why don't we do it all in one take?"

"You think you can do it in one take, even with your injured ankle?" asked the director.

"Sure," said Flynn, who had sprained his ankle playing tennis.

"Very well. We will try it."

Flynn got behind a sand mound with a half dozen actors, all in British uniforms. At the director's whistle they began shooting toward the Arabs, all of whom, with the exception of the two who were supposed to ride into the scene and get shot, at that moment were asleep or playing cards with another bunch of English soldiers in the location camp 200 yards away.

Suddenly one of the Englishmen behind the dune shouted: "The ammunition mule. Look, it's loose."

Th mule took off about 30 yards in front of Flynn and, despite the fact he was carrying a heavy pack, had increased the lead to 50 yards at the point where the actor was supposed to catch up with him.

"The mule ran too fast," explained Flynn.

"We'll do it again," said Dieterle.

Once more the soldier discovered that the mule was loose and again Flynn took after it. Right in front of the camera, however, the mule decided to stop. He dug four feet into the sand while Flynn went sailing by at a high speed.

Between bursts of laughter Dieterle managed to say, "Cut."

Four times the scene was retaken and each time the mule took a different notion how he would perform. Once he stopped dead still in front of the camera and started to kick. He almost kicked Flynn's sore foot.

On the fifth attempt the scene progressed to the point where the hero was supposed to draw his gun and shoot the Arabs. At that dramatic moment, however, the mule lay down in the sand and rolled over.

Flynn uttered a series of very colorful words and Director Dieterle said, "Cut."

"Maybe," said the actor, "we had better shoot it your way."

"Very well," said Dieterle. "We will pick up the scene from the point where our mule decided to rest."

"Do they really have mules in the British army?" Flynn asked Maj. Sam Harris, the technical director.

"Unfortunately, yes," he admitted.

"Then if ever I have the occasion to join the colors," said Flynn, "it will be the navy."

Dentists everywhere recommend Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder, because—teeth simply cannot remain dull and film coated when it is used. Dr. Lyon's cleans off all stains and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling—many shades whiter.

Tiny Library by Mrs. Thorne to Be Exhibited

Only Showing Before It Goes to Museum.

BY JUDITH CASS.

CHICAGOANS, other than the few who already have seen it in Mrs. James Ward Thorne's studio, will have their first and only chance to see the miniature Georgian library that Mrs. Thorne just has completed for the Victoria and Albert museum in London, during the Needlework and Textile guild exhibit at the Art institute during the week of Nov. 17 to Nov. 22 inclusive. It was at Queen Mary's request that Mrs. Thorne made the room, which she and Mr. Thorne will take to London when they go next spring for the coronation of King Edward VIII.

It was last summer when Queen Mary saw photographs of the miniature rooms that Mrs. Thorne had made and that now are in the Chicago Historical society building. The queen became so entranced with the English Georgian library that she asked to have it reproduced for the museum in Kensington Gardens. Mrs. Thorne has not reproduced it exactly, but the new one seems to me to be even lovelier than the original, so Queen Mary is certain to be pleased with it. Instead of green walls, the new one has walls of hand carved waxed gumwood that looks exactly like old pine, and instead of a plain ceiling it has a plaster ceiling elaborately decorated with scroll work.

The needlepoint rug was made for Mrs. Thorne by the guild, and also a wee fire screen which was copied from one in the Victoria and Albert museum, which explains why the room is being included in the guild's exhibit of work done by members.

The screen will not be the only thing in the room that will be entirely familiar to Queen Mary, for several of the Chippendale chairs are copies of some from the museum. And through the two windows at the back one sees Regent street as it was in the Georgian period, for Mrs. Thorne reproduced an old London print so that the view through the windows would be correct.

Many Lovely Details Attract Attention.

It would be impossible to describe every small detail in the new room, but the little chess table with its tiny carved ivory chessmen, the wee clock that is only one inch high but runs nevertheless, and the Chinese Coromandel screen with six panels, each nine by one inches, are bound to attract the attention of every one who sees the exquisite room. Everything, even to coal [cakes of incense broken into pieces] in the grate, and to the Gainsborough portrait over the mantel is perfection. Mrs. Thorne was putting the last touches to the picture when I saw the room the other day, "improving a Gainsborough," as she wittily put it. To "improve" it she took a print the right size, shellacked and framed it, and now it hangs in the room which next April will be installed in the famous British museum.

Admission to the needlework guild's exhibit will be one dollar, and the proceeds will be given to the scholarship fund in the school of design of the Art institute.

Junior League Gets Dress Clothes for Sale.

The coming winter certainly is going to be a "dress up" one if the clothes offered by the Chicago Junior league for its annual fall secondhand clothes sale on Thursday at 1006 South Michigan avenue are any indication of the times. Two Tuexdoes are offered as well as a handsome evening coat of brocade, lined with wine velvet and trimmed with a mink collar. A lapin fur coat and two black coats trimmed with Persian lamb also are in the stock for the coming sale.

Mrs. John Drum is head of a committee in pricing the sale goods, and Miss Bonnie-Jean Clark and Miss Bertha Erminger are helping her every day at the Drake hotel. A recent gift for the sale was the present of forty brand new hats from a Chicago hat company.

The league no sooner will be finished with the hustle and bustle of the fall clothes sale than it will settle down to the quieter but interesting occupation of attending lectures. Miss Veronese Beatty is chairman of a series of six talks on a variety of

Sheets Offers a Real Thrill to Art Lovers

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Two stunning exhibitions of water colors opened yesterday. In the Marshall Field galleries are Mexican scenes by Walker Everett and in the Anderson galleries, 530 South Michigan avenue, is an extraordinary group of recent paintings by Millard Sheets.

Walker Everett was introduced to us last year by the Marshall Field gallery with an exhibit of picturesque and vigorous landscapes. They breathed color and atmosphere and, for the work of a young man, were remarkably forceful and fine.

Mr. Everett's present show is along similar lines although the majority of the water colors are painted in a different locale, Mexico. He is successful in suggesting hot sunlight and cool shadow. He is an authoritative interpreter of the beauty, the color and fragrance of Mexico.

The various scenes are intriguing, nor does he lose his skill when he reënters the United States. Two of the nicest of these water colors are "Ravinia Twilight" and "Lighthouse, Holland, Michigan."

For a real thrill, however, one must turn to the Anderson galleries where the exhibition of Millard Sheets hangs. Mr. Sheets is a Californian, he is young, and he is exceptionally talented. He is a modern in the meaning of that word which makes the wearer of it a worthy knight fighting the battle of progress.

He has a novel outlook and a gorgeous technique. He can convey a sense of mystery and charm by a use of gray that is uncanny in its forcefulness. He can do things with rich color that make one loathe to leave his compositions behind.

Millard Sheets knows the west, from the Pacific coast up through the plains country. He paints sympathetically and simply, except when he is swept off his feet and turns out a tumultuous and impetuous jewel such as the "Goats of Guaymas" with its uprushing trees.

By far, perhaps, the choicest painting in the group is the sensitive "Woman of Guaymas" with its hot sun and subtle color. The "Fog, Notley's Landing," is tremendously effective, and so is the similarly gray and severe "La Teta de la Cabra," a curious rock formation striking up from a ruffled sea.

The horse paintings are superb, richly imaginative, and the winter scenes, "Winter Skating," "The Snow Trail" and others are stunning. This is one exhibition no one should miss. Both exhibits will continue for two weeks.

Parties Planned

Countess Potocka is a descendant of the very old Spanish nobility, Ytturregui, and was born in Lima, Peru. She was educated in England and was married in 1930 in Paris. She is expert at several sports and is interested in music, art and literature.

Dr. Waclaw Gawronski, consul general of Poland, and Mrs. Gawronska are giving a reception for the ambassador and Countess Potocki at the Gawronskis' home, 1444 Lake Shore drive, tomorrow night. On Thursday night the Library of International Relations and honorary citizen's committee, of which Charles S. Dewey is chairman, will give a dinner at the Casino for the distinguished Polish guests.

Friday the Chauncey McCormicks will entertain at dinner at their Lake View avenue home for the Potockas. Tomorrow night before the reception Count Antoni Potocka, the ambassador's cousin, and Countess Potocka [formerly Gloria Griffiths] will entertain at their home, 1500 Lake Shore drive, at dinner for their relatives.

Brings Chicago Debut of Gladys Cooper.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

"Call It a Day," the play which brings Gladys Cooper to the Grand Opera house, with Philip Merivale as her co-star, for her first Chicago engagement after a long and brilliant career in London, is a charming example of modern English comedy in its most human and healthy aspect. It has freshness of spirit and touch; it depicts an interesting group of average Londoners without dragging in deep thoughts about current affairs: it is lightly romantic and serenely humorous.

One may be completely contented with "Call It a Day" as a sound and ingenious specimen of the drama as entertainment. Its distinguished stars are appealing in personality and talent, and the fourteen other members of the cast which the Theater Guild has assembled are exactly right in their rôles. This production provides an extremely happy opportunity for playgoing.

"Call It a Day" deals with the five members of an upper middle class household—father, mother, two daughters, and a son—from getting up time on a bright day in early spring to going to bed time that night. There was a touch of enchantment in the air that morning, when bright, surprising sunshine routed Mr. and Mrs. Hilton out of their twin beds—a magic spell that brought minor adventures and excitements to them and their offfspring, changing and generally improving their lives. It was, of course, the vernal instinct. Spring was in the breeze, and the buds on the chestnut trees of St. John's wood. The audience follows them, and their servants, and their friends of the day through a series of diverting and plausible episodes—nine scenes in all.

The Hiltons bathe, dress, and breakfast in amusing domesticity while their fates are waiting for them around the corner. First, you see the elder daughter, aged 19, posing for a middle aged artist under the wise and vigilant eye of his wife, and throwing herself at his head. She does her best to get seduced, but misses her desire by a stroke of luck. This episode, acted by Glenn Anders, Kathleen Comegys, and Florence Williams, is rich with comedy.

Then there are the two younger offsprings, a girl of 15 and a boy of 17. The former, acted with engaging school girlishness by Jeanne Dante, a quaint, roly-poly miss, is one of the most striking characters in the play's gallery, and her adventure is merely to have her art-hungry young soul filled with ecstasy by the gift of a sketch from the brush of Dante Gabriel Rossetti. The young man, a rôle of minor importance, discovers that there is a pretty girl living next door, and thus is saved from the questionable attentions of a young fellow who wants to be an interior decorator and tries to talk like Oscar Wilde.

Mrs. Hilton, portrayed with calm middle aged charm by Miss Cooper, never trying to be more of a star than any member of her supporting cast, merely gets fallen in love with, at first sight, by a woman-starved

Good Morning!

Well, Radio Fans, if you're honing for a glimpse of your air favorites—here's a chance to satisfy that longing.

While "The Big Broadcast of 1937" hasn't got ALL the folks who keep the air lines humming, it has a goodly number.

Jack Benny is characteristically there as manager of a radio station. Gracie Allen flits about and dumcracks as the wealthy sponsor of a golf balls program, and Georgie Porgie Burns is in attendance as her harried, resigned husband. Bob Burns wanders in and out with his story telling gags and bazooka.

Martha Raye, a heap funnier and more likable in this piece than she was in "Rhythm on the Range," plays Mr. Benny's practically nitwit secretary. Shirley Ross, who has been only lightly featured before, steps to the front as a real personality with a charming voice in the rôle of a sticks announcer and radio performer who has gotten in the hair of a famous tenor [Frank Forest], whom she impersonates, and the latter's handsome manager [Ray Milland].

The last lures her to New York with siren promises, idea being to get the little girl off the air, in manner the picture shall show you. But romantic complications plus the lady's ability to look out for herself and her outstanding radio personality result in slips between cups and lips and plans that gang agley. A radio wedding provides a riotous finale.

[Note the scene in which the lights are concentrated on Leopold Stokowski's eloquent hands as he directs a magnificently played symphony number.]

"SEVEN SINNERS."

Directed by Albert de Courville.
Presented at the State-Lake theater.

Wagner	Allen Jeayes
Reception Clerk	Anthony Holles

KIND: Confusing and poorly assembled mystery comedy drama.

ACTING: Mr. Lowe and bit players are satisfactory, but Miss Cummings' exaggerations, grimaces, body heavings, and perpetual self-consciousness are hard to take. What's happened to this girl, anyhow! She has done some beautiful work in the past.

DIRECTION: Nothing to be proud of.

PHOTOGRAPHY, SOUND, STAGING, ETC.: All right.

STORY: Hectic search for a murderer to the tune of assorted train wrecks and much unfunny comedy and dialog. Suspense and excitement are wet blanketed by Miss Cummings' peculiar conception of her rôle.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: This audience of one was both bored and irritated.

Front Views and Profiles

THERE is—you may or may not know—a bar on the near north side called the Cloister inn. One night a visitor said wistfully to the proprietor, "Jack, when you named it Cloister inn were you thinking of the blessed quiet of an ancient abbey, or perchance the remote peace of a Tibetan lamasery? Or perhaps, of stern Hudibras' [cloistered monks and vestal nuns]?"

Explanation— Pun— Syllabication— Racketeers.

"Naw," said Jack. "I named it that because it's here on the north side, cloister the loop, cloister transportation, and cloister the lake."

WHILE puns are being mentioned, we feel it a proper time to tell about the man named Woods who was riding with his partner in a taxicab and, as they passed the Randolph and Wells street corner, saw a lovely and well dressed young woman waiting for the trafic light to change and carrying in one neatly gloved hand a purse, and in the other a carpenter's saw.

A FEW evenings ago a man named Jerry Rosenthal, while waiting for his bus, dropped into a drug store for refreshment. Two grimy little girls entered and climbed up on the stools, one of them, her legs in torn stockings, dangling, asked in a lisping baby voice what they could buy for a nickel.

"Only ice cream bars and small phosphates," answered the soda jerker. It then developed that the pecuniary worth of both children was only a nickel, so they decided on a small root beer with two straws. The sight of the two ragged children and their two straws for one glass did not leave Mr. Rosenthal unmoved, so he whispered an order to the soda boy to give them each a chocolate ice cream soda. Then he paid his check and left. Five minutes later as he stood in the bus depot the two little girls walked in, still licking ice cream from their lips. They did not see him, but he heard one small thing say to the other, "Well, it worked again tonight."

Old Brocade Handbag Adds Beauty to Gown

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Old brocades, soft, mellowed in color, with lovely old designs, make some evening handbags in a supercollection ready for that first out and going Christmas shopper. These small bags have some interestingly low price tags, they're exquisitely made with fine detail, equally effective clasps, and the colors alone would make any collector green with envy. Every brocade used is authentic, more than 100 years old, and, as you may surmise, make utterly feminine and appealing bags for your loveliest evening gowns and wraps.

Magenta, bright emerald greens, faded old blues, soft yellows, shimmering bits of silvery mauves, dusky oblongs of gold metallics, rose-redlike colors, narrow stripes, quaint floral motifs, Persian designs, all old-fashioned glories of weave—color and designs have been fashioned almost by magic into these one-of-a-kind bags. All of them are lined with harmonizing or contrasting silks and satins, with surprisingly large compartments, to hold all the extras necessary for any evening expedition.

Besides making ideal Christmas package [buy them while they are available, and they're going fast], these soft, shimmering bags of old brocades are particularly the right accessory for the evening gowns of brocades and metal cloths of high fashion, or as the one bright gleam with velvets, with dull crêpes, and especially effective with the newest of wool evening coats and dresses. And some of your brightest "after five" dresses, the clever new cocktail clothes of metal and satin need these glowing colorful bags for the perfect color accent.

Mrs. Roosevelt Makes Plea for Ardent Citizens

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President, last night urged that every person become an "ardent" citizen, learn the individual needs of his community, and become identified with that political party which most closely represents the things he wants to achieve.

Mrs. Roosevelt spoke before more than 1,300 persons in the Oak Park High school auditorium under the auspices of the Oak Park Community Lectures, which has maintained an open forum for 36 years. Proceeds from the lecture will go to one of Mrs. Roosevelt's private benefactions.

The President's wife was attired in a long dark blue dinner dress trimmed in black beads. She wore a corsage of roses. She arrived yesterday afternoon at the Union station and went to the Oak Park Arms hotel.

"We citizens should familiarize ourselves with the needs of our own communities and understand their governmental procedure," declared Mrs. Roosevelt. "If we know these needs we can tell if there are differences in working conditions. We may know those that govern our own jobs, but not those of others."

While pointing out that many of her friends were independent voters Mrs. Roosevelt said she believed it was more useful to become identified with a political party, but not a "blind adherent" to that party's principles. Unless a citizen starts to learn his party and his government's machinery from the bottom, he has no right to complain of its actions.

"Many people complain to me about taxes," Mrs. Roosevelt continued. "When I question them I learn their complaints are against local taxes, yet they attribute these to the federal authority.

"Of course you have to have an income of $36,000 a year to feel the real federal income from taxes. These persons I speak of are not really informed on tax money and where it goes. . . ."

The good citizen should first become familiar with his local government, then his state, and then the national government, she said. As a citizen of the national community, Mrs. Roosevelt declared, he must decide when to subordinate a local issue to a national need. The next step is to realize we are all members of the world community, she added.

After Mrs. Roosevelt concluded her prepared address Thomas Carpenter, chairman of the community lectures, opened the meeting to questions under the forum plan.

One man asked Mrs. Roosevelt if she thought vocational representation in government would make for better relations between the people and their government.

"Yes, I think that might be advisable," was her reply. "We could have vocational representatives in congress, although the secretaries of labor and commerce fill this function to some extent."

On her return to the Oak Park Arms hotel before taking the midnight train for Minneapolis, Mrs. Roosevelt found a golden wedding celebration in progress. James Alloway, 1535 South 61st court, Cicero, the "bridegroom," kissed Mrs. Roosevelt's hand. Mrs. Alloway kissed her on the cheek.

A young stranger, who calls himself Jimmy, calls on Noel and asks him to be his partner in a secret enterprise and to help him outwit an unknown gang who are pursuing him. While they are talking Jimmy is shot dead. Noel sets out to clear his name and avenge Jimmy's murder. Noel flies to Fort McMurray in a plane which was Jimmy's. He learns Jimmy's headquarters were at Manitou. Noel meets Harla De Long, a research worker for the Indian bureau, and Jimmy's sister. He reluctantly agrees to fly her to Manitou. Harla recognizes the plane as Jimmy's and grows suspicious of Noel. Noel fears that Harla would be endangered if he told her the truth. On the trip they are attacked and forced down by a mysterious plane. They are picked up by a river steamer bound for Manitou. On board is Raphael Flood, whose advances Harla resents, and whom Noel suspects to be the gang's leader. In Manitou Noel sees Harla go into his cabin with a gun. She takes aim at the cot where she thinks he is sleeping, but is unable to fire. Noel is forced to tell her the truth. Tah-Gomaugh brings word of an outbreak of smallpox in a remote Indian village. Noel and Harla fly there with aid. The Indian preserve is forbidden to prospectors. Noel realizes Jimmy discovered gold on the forbidden territory and that Flood killed Jimmy to get the gold himself. Flood abducts Harla. Noel finds Flood's camp at the gold placer, where Harla is imprisoned. He manages to free her and get possession of Flood's machine gun. He has reason to believe that Flood is Rocco, whom Noel is supposed to have killed. He intends to capture him alive if possible. Harla refuses to leave Noel to fight it out alone. Flood discovers Harla's escape.

INSTALMENT XLIV.

A SURPRISE SHOT.

Harla slipped her trigger safety on red. "We'd better be getting ready for trouble. He'll put that Indian to tracking us."

"If he puts that Indian anywhere it'll be on the fire to broil," Noel answered, as Flood left the cabin and hurried back the path.

"If you're going to run a burst and drive them into that cabin," Harla bade, "you'd better be doing it."

"Steady a minute. Watch down there. We might get a break out of this."

As Flood neared the campfire the men looked up at him, stopped eating and glanced sidelong at one another, aware that something catastrophic had happened. The unsuspecting Yellowknife had just set his rifle against a tree, and his back was turned; and upon him, without word or warning, Flood sprang like a tiger. With a grab he tore the Indian's knife and belt ax away, flung them into the fire, and staggered the Indian with a smashing blow to the face. Grappling the Yellowknife by the throat, he rode him to the ground and pinioned him there.

All the other men, all save young d'Orleans, were paralyzed by the violence of Flood's outburst, and they could only stare at the two. But d'Orleans, dropping his plate and fork, leaped up and rushed in.

"Hey! What de hell?" he cried, grabbing Flood by the shoulders. "Flood! Stop dat! You gone crazy? Quiet down. You don't keel this feller wit'out anyhow saying w'y so."

While Flood fought to tear free the Yellowknife scrambled to his feet and leaped for his rifle. Before any one could stop him or even move, he had seized the weapon and whipped it up and aimed it at Flood. He, too, had a fury within him, the blood-fury of an Indian disgraced.

Helpless, stunned, Noel stared down at the spectacle in cold fright. In that tense drama yonder he saw a tragic end to all his hopes of taking Raphael Flood alive.

Cr-aa-ck—beside Noel, a sharp-speaking rifle. Harla's. She had been holding her gun at alert, watching over the sights; and she beat the Yellowknife to the trigger squeeze. Her bullet caught the Yellowknife hard in the left shoulder and spun him around. The gun flew from his hands. He staggered and sank to his knees.

In profound gratitude Noel turned to Harla and laid his hand on her arm. He wanted to thank her for pulling his hunt back from sure doom, but he could find no words to say it. He wanted to ask forgiveness for believing that she might break her promise to him.

As he looked at her he saw tears spring to her eyes at sight of the reeling and pain-convulsed Yellowknife.

"Stop it!" he ordered her, dismayed at her giving way like that. "You only winged him. He can be patched up. Sympathy for anybody in that outfit is sympathy wasted."

The startling bark of Harla's rifle, from the silence of the hillside yanked the attention of the men from the quarrel between Flood and Stahmix. All of them jumped up and stared blankly at the timbered slope, bewildered by that mystery shot.

Again young d'Orleans was the first to act.

"You, dere!" he shouted. "Who de hell? Speak op feller!"

Noel tilted the Vickers downward. Harla's shot had touched off the fuse to this struggle, and that fuse could not be pinched now. His cue was to drive all the terror he could into those men while they were so befuddled. Panicky and confused, they might take his terms.

Bracing himself to steady the big gun, he aimed carefully—into the trees above the men; and pulled back on the sheathed trigger.

The sudden burst of staccato fire leaping from the hillside created all the pandemonium he had counted on, and more. Young d'Orleans sprang for shelter of a bowlder. In terror of those screaming bullets Flood whirled and scurried for the cabin and dived into it like a panicky rabbit, and after him streamed the other men.

Noel cut his burst short, before the last man was within he would need every inch of them. In half a minute, as the last faint echoes of the blast died away, he called down:

"Paul d'Orleans! D'you hear me?"

"Ou' ou'," the young metis answered, keeping behind his rock. "W'at you wan'?"

"I want to talk to you. Come up here."

Young d'Orleans snorted scornfully. "You t'ink I'm damnfool babee, hein? I don't stan' op and let you pot me."

"I could have potted you, and all the rest of you, if I had wanted to. The point is, I don't want to. Are you yellow, d'Orleans?"

At the taunt the young metis bobbed up like a jack-in-the-box. "Me, yaller? You eat dat 'yaller,' you."

"All right, I'll eat it. But come on up here. You can come and go and you won't be touched. That's a promise."

Young d'Orleans turned toward the cabin. "Hey, Flood, w'at you say? You wan' me go op dere?"

Noel did not catch Flood's answer, but it was evidently yes, for d'Orleans walked down the foot-trail and turned up slope toward the pill-box. As he came within a dozen steps Noel ordered him:

"That's close enough. Stay where you are."

"Well, I'm here. W'at you wan'?" d'Orleans demanded.

"I want Flood," Noel told him. "I don't want you or those others, but I do want Flood; and I'll get him if I have to kill you and that whole outfit. If you and those other men will turn Flood over to me you can all get out of this country and I'll never molest you. That's more decency than you rate, you killers; but I'll give it to you."

Young d'Orleans scowled. "You t'ink we knife Flood in de back lak dat? And give op dat seex-seven million dollar placer down dere jus' 'cause you say so? Splaa! We'll give you wan bellyful of fight 'fore we do dat."

"We won't argue. Go back down and tell those others what I've told you. Talk it over and make up your minds. I'll give you fifteen minutes to hand Flood over. If you don't, I'll make kindling wood out of that cabin and kill every man of you."

"Okay, I tell 'em."

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

With four and one-half or more honor tricks, and with four cards of responder's major suit, the opening no trump bidder may raise the major suit takeout of two. When he raises he deceives the responder to the extent of making him think the trump support is A Q x or A K x. He is willing to do this because if the responder now bids three no trump the opener is strong enough to return to four of the major suit. If the responder is too weak to try for three no trump he will pass at three of his major suit and the contract should be made.

The raise by the opener with A K x or A Q x is a neat one. Say your partner bid one no trump and you hold ♠ 5 2 ♥ 4 3 ♦ Q J 8 7 4 2 ♣ 6 5 3. You bid two diamonds and the opener now bids three diamonds, telling you that he definitly holds ♦ A K x. You can, without hesitation, bid three no trump.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 spades	3 diam's	3 hearts	Pass
3 spades	4 clubs	4 hearts	Double
6 spades	Pass	7 spades [final bid]

The bidding really was pretty good except for East's futile and, therefore, foolish double of four hearts, and North's final raise to seven spades. North-South were not using asking bids but anyway, North should have contented himself with the two free bids he had made and allowed six spades to stand as the final contract. East's double should have warned him that his A K Q 10 7 of hearts would not produce five tricks and, probably, not even four.

West made what appeared to be the best opening lead, the diamond king. Declarer won and drew trumps, then ran off every trump and discarded from the dummy perfectly, reducing it to the three top hearts, the four of diamonds, and the six of clubs. East kept on chucking hearts, after the dummy, until the last trump was played, when he probably became bored with discarding from only one suit and tossed in the five of diamonds. It turned out to be one of the most fatal discards of his contract career! Dummy's three hearts now were cashed, declarer discarding his losing diamonds on the latter rounds. And suddenly West began to squirm! With the king-jack of clubs and the queen of diamonds left in his hand he had to discard on the last heart! The poor chap realized he was in a jam and correctly tried to save the day by blanking his club king. He knew that dummy's four of diamonds would be perfectly good if he should let go the queen, and could at least hope that East had the queen of clubs to protect that suit. But such was not to be. Declarer next played dummy's club and went up with the ace, dropping the blank king. The club queen provided the thirteenth trick.

Strangely enough, if West had made what almost always would be a ridiculous opening lead, the singleton heart, the contract could not have been made. Dummy's only entry would have been removed long before it was valuable for squeezing purposes. And it is not beyond reason that on this particular occasion a brilliant opening leader would have chosen that lead with the specific hope of destroying a vital entry. But the real crux was that East should have held on to his miserable five of diamonds for grim death. If he had, West could have followed declarer's discards and avoided the squeeze.

Probably the East player will count the next five spot dealt to him as an honor!

Question: Has there been a change in the Culbertson honor trick table during the last two months?

Answer: No.

FEMININE HYGIENE made easy

EVERY DAY, more and more women are adopting Norforms as the most modern, convenient and satisfactory form of feminine hygiene.

Norforms are easy-to-use antiseptic suppositories that melt at internal body temperature, and spread a protective, soothing film over delicate internal membranes—an antiseptic film that remains in effective contact for many hours.

A distinctive and exclusive feature of Norforms is their concentrated content of Parahydrecin—a powerful yet harmless antiseptic developed by Norwich, makers of Unguentine. Parahydrecin kills germs, yet Norforms are non-injurious. There is no danger of an "over-dose" or "burn."

Nothing could be easier! Norforms are small, convenient, antiseptic suppositories completely ready for use. They require no awkward apparatus for application. They leave no lingering antiseptic smell around the room or about your person. They are dainty and feminine, soothing and deodorizing. Many women use them for this deodorizing effect alone.

MILLIONS SOLD EVERY YEAR

Send for the Norforms booklet "The New Way." It gives further facts about modernized feminine hygiene. Or, buy a box of Norforms at your druggist's today. 12 in a package, with leaflet of instructions. The Norwich Pharmacal Company, Norwich, New York, makers of Unguentine.

subjects. The first will be given at 11 o'clock Friday morning at the Blackstone hotel, when Mrs. Annette Hoyt Flanders, landscape architect, will be the speaker. Mrs. Flanders lives in New York, and some of the most beautiful gardens on Long Island are her creations. The remaining lectures in the course will be given on succeeding Thursday mornings.

Woman's Symphony Concert Tonight

The Auditorium, where grand opera used to be heard, probably will present a brilliant scene tonight when the Woman's Symphony orchestra gives its first concert of the season. Mme. Gertrud Wettergren, Swedish contralto, will be the soloist.

The famous golden horseshoe of boxes will be filled, and among the hostesses will be Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Merrill Hubbard, Mrs. Townsend McKeever, Mrs. Edward Morris, who is president of the Woman's Symphony board; Mrs. Henry Bartholomay, Mrs. Clifford D. Caldwell, Mrs. Americus F. Callahan, Mrs. William E. Vogelback, Mrs. Franklin M. Miller, Mrs. Edmund J. Doering, Mrs. Henry B. Vanzwoll, Mrs. Royden J. Keith, Mrs. Gerhardt T. Meyne, and Mrs. Frederic W. Upham.

The Swedish consul and Mrs. Oldenberg will occupy a box, and so will Hugo Anderson, president of the Swedish Choral society, and Mrs. Anderson. The Choral society is appearing with the orchestra this evening also.

Mrs. Meyne and Mrs. Louis C. Sudler head the committee sponsoring a concert by Alec Templeton on Dec. 2 in Thorne hall on Northwestern university campus for the benefit of a fund that will be used to replace the robes and the library of the New England Congregational church, which were destroyed by fire last July.

Strawns Will Give Dinner for Walpole.

Mr. and Mrs. Silas Strawn are entertaining for Hugh Walpole at a dinner at the Casino tonight preceding Mr. Walpole's lecture in Thorne hall. The British novelist and actor is the fifth speaker in a series of ten lectures presented by the university college of Northwestern university during the year. His subject will be "A Novelist in These Times."

A party to delight the hearts of the subdebutante group will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick D. Corley and Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Peace, who will entertain at a dinner-dance on Dec. 29 at the Saddle and Cycle club for their daughters, Miss Mary Louise Corley and Miss Sara Peace.

Miss Corley is a student at the Fermata school in Aiken, S. C., and Miss Peace is attending classes at the Girls' Latin school here.

Mrs. Daniel Peterkin Attends Insull Sales.

Mrs. Daniel Peterkin is in New York attending the auction sales of the house furnishings of Mrs. Samuel Insull and the late Mrs. Samuel Insull Jr. Mrs. Peterkin is looking for a piece or two of furniture to bring home for the new apartment of her son-in-law and daughter, the William O. Hunts, at 1244 Stone street, which was occupied at one time by the late young Mrs. Insull and her husband.

The apartment that Mr. and Mrs. Peterkin occupied at 1242 Lake Shore drive also was lived in by the young Mr. Insull and his late wife. The Peterkins now are living at 1500 Lake Shore drive. Mrs. Peterkin is expected at home the end of this week.

Second babies have joined the nurseries of two young married couples. Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Chinnock have a little girl, named Margot, whom they have adopted from The Cradle in Evanston. The Noel L. Flints also have a little girl, born Saturday morning at St. Luke's hospital, whom they have given the name Deborah Palmer.

Mr. and Mrs. Chinnock's first child, a boy, was adopted from The Cradle also, and he is just big enough now to enjoy having an infant sister. The Flints have another little girl, Clarissa, named for her mother, the former Clarissa Dyer.

Richard K. Shuttleworth and Arthur Greenwood, the two young Englishmen who were guests of the Samuel M. Rinakers last winter when they came to Chicago on a debating tour for the Oxford union, arrived Saturday for another visit with the Rinakers. The English Speaking union, of which Mr. Rinaker is president, is planning a dinner for them later this month, probably the 25th, when they will debate "The Merits of British Government."

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

This practical yet decidedly feminine frock may go with equal grace to business or informal social functions. It is styled with simple elegance and is suitable for a wide variety of figures. If you are plump the lines of this dress will give an illusion of slenderness, and if you are correctly slim the details of styling will flatter the perfection of your silhouette. Most of the fashion interest of this pretty model is centered in the bodice, with the skirt and its tunic keeping to the tried and true principle of dignity. The shoulders are broad and the shirring which gives emphasis to the upper sleeves also lends grace to the bodice. The little standup collar contrasts in color and, if you wish, in fabric, and continues into the closing and the dashing little bow.

Style No. 2757 is designed for sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 4⅛ yards of 39 inch material, with ¾ yard of 35 inch lining and ½ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

pukka sahib from the outposts of the empire. This came as an accident of mistaken identity, but it was the real thing, and it put the glory of romance into her day.

Mr. Hilton, sober family man and chartered accountant, gets more of a taste of high life. An actress comes to consult him about her income tax, and within fifteen minutes she is inviting him to come up and see her some time—in fact, that very evening. He is stirred by this frank siren and plans to pay the call with fire in his eye.

At the end of the play the senior Hiltons are preparing for their conjugal twin beds again. Each has a confession to make about the adventures of their day. They quarrel a little, in a conflict of jealousies, but patch up the row. They have escaped their temptations, but are happy to have had the opportunity to fall from grace. And so the Hiltons call it a day.

10 TO 25 LBS. GAINED EASILY IN FEW WEEKS! REPORT THOUSANDS

—with new Ironized Yeast Tablets

IF you could quit being a skinny, unattractive "wallflower", and blossom quickly into a normally well-developed, naturally lovely person, full of pep and go, popular with hosts of friends, would you do it?

Well, thousands have recently done that very thing—gained 10 to 25 solid pounds, naturally lovely color, new strength, energy and pep—in a few weeks—with these new, pleasant, easy-to-take little Ironized Yeast tablets.

Why it is so easy

Scientists recently discovered that thousands of people are thin and rundown for the single reason that they do not get enough Vitamin B and iron in their daily food. Without these vital elements you may lack appetite, and you don't get the most body-building good out of the food you eat.

Now one of the richest known sources of Vitamin B is cultured ale yeast. By a new process the finest imported cultured ale yeast is now concentrated 7 times, making it 7 times more powerful. Then it is combined with 3 kinds of iron, pasteurized whole yeast and other valuable ingredients in pleasant little tablets.

If you, too, need these vital elements to aid in building you up, get these new "7-power" Ironized Yeast tablets from your druggist today. Note how quickly they increase your appetite and help you get more benefit from the body-building foods that are so essential. Then day after day, watch flat chest develop and skinny limbs round out to natural attractiveness. Note how much better and stronger you feel. See better color and natural beauty come to your cheeks. Soon you feel like an entirely new person, with new charm, new personality.

Money-back guarantee

No matter how skinny and rundown you may be from lack of enough Vitamin B and iron, try these new Ironized Yeast tablets just a short time and note the marvelous change. See if they don't aid in building you up in just a few weeks, as they have helped thousands. If you are not delighted with the results of the very first package, money back instantly.

Only be sure you get the genuine Ironized Yeast. Don't let anyone sell you some, perhaps, cheaper yeast and iron tablet which is not the original Ironized Yeast that has been so successful. Look for the letters "IY" stamped on each Ironized Yeast tablet.

Special FREE Offer!

To start thousands building up their health right away, we make this absolutely FREE offer. Purchase a package of Ironized Yeast tablets at once, cut out the seal on the box and mail it to us with a clipping of this offer. We will send you a fascinating new book on health, "New Facts About Your Body." Remember, results with very first package—or money refunded. At all druggists. Ironized Yeast Co., Inc., Dept. A-40, Atlanta, Ga.

A knowing woman no longer gives in to periodic pain. It is rather old-fashioned to suffer in silence, because there is a reliable remedy for such suffering.

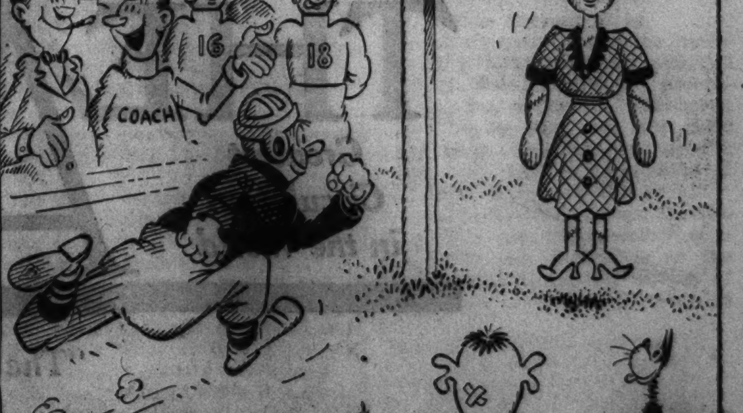
Many who use Midol do not feel one twinge of pain, or even a moment's discomfort during the entire period.

Don't let the calendar regulate your activities! Don't "favor yourself" or "save yourself" on certain days of every month! Keep going, and keep comfortable—with the aid of Midol. These tablets provide a proven means for the relief of such pain, so why endure suffering Midol might spare you?

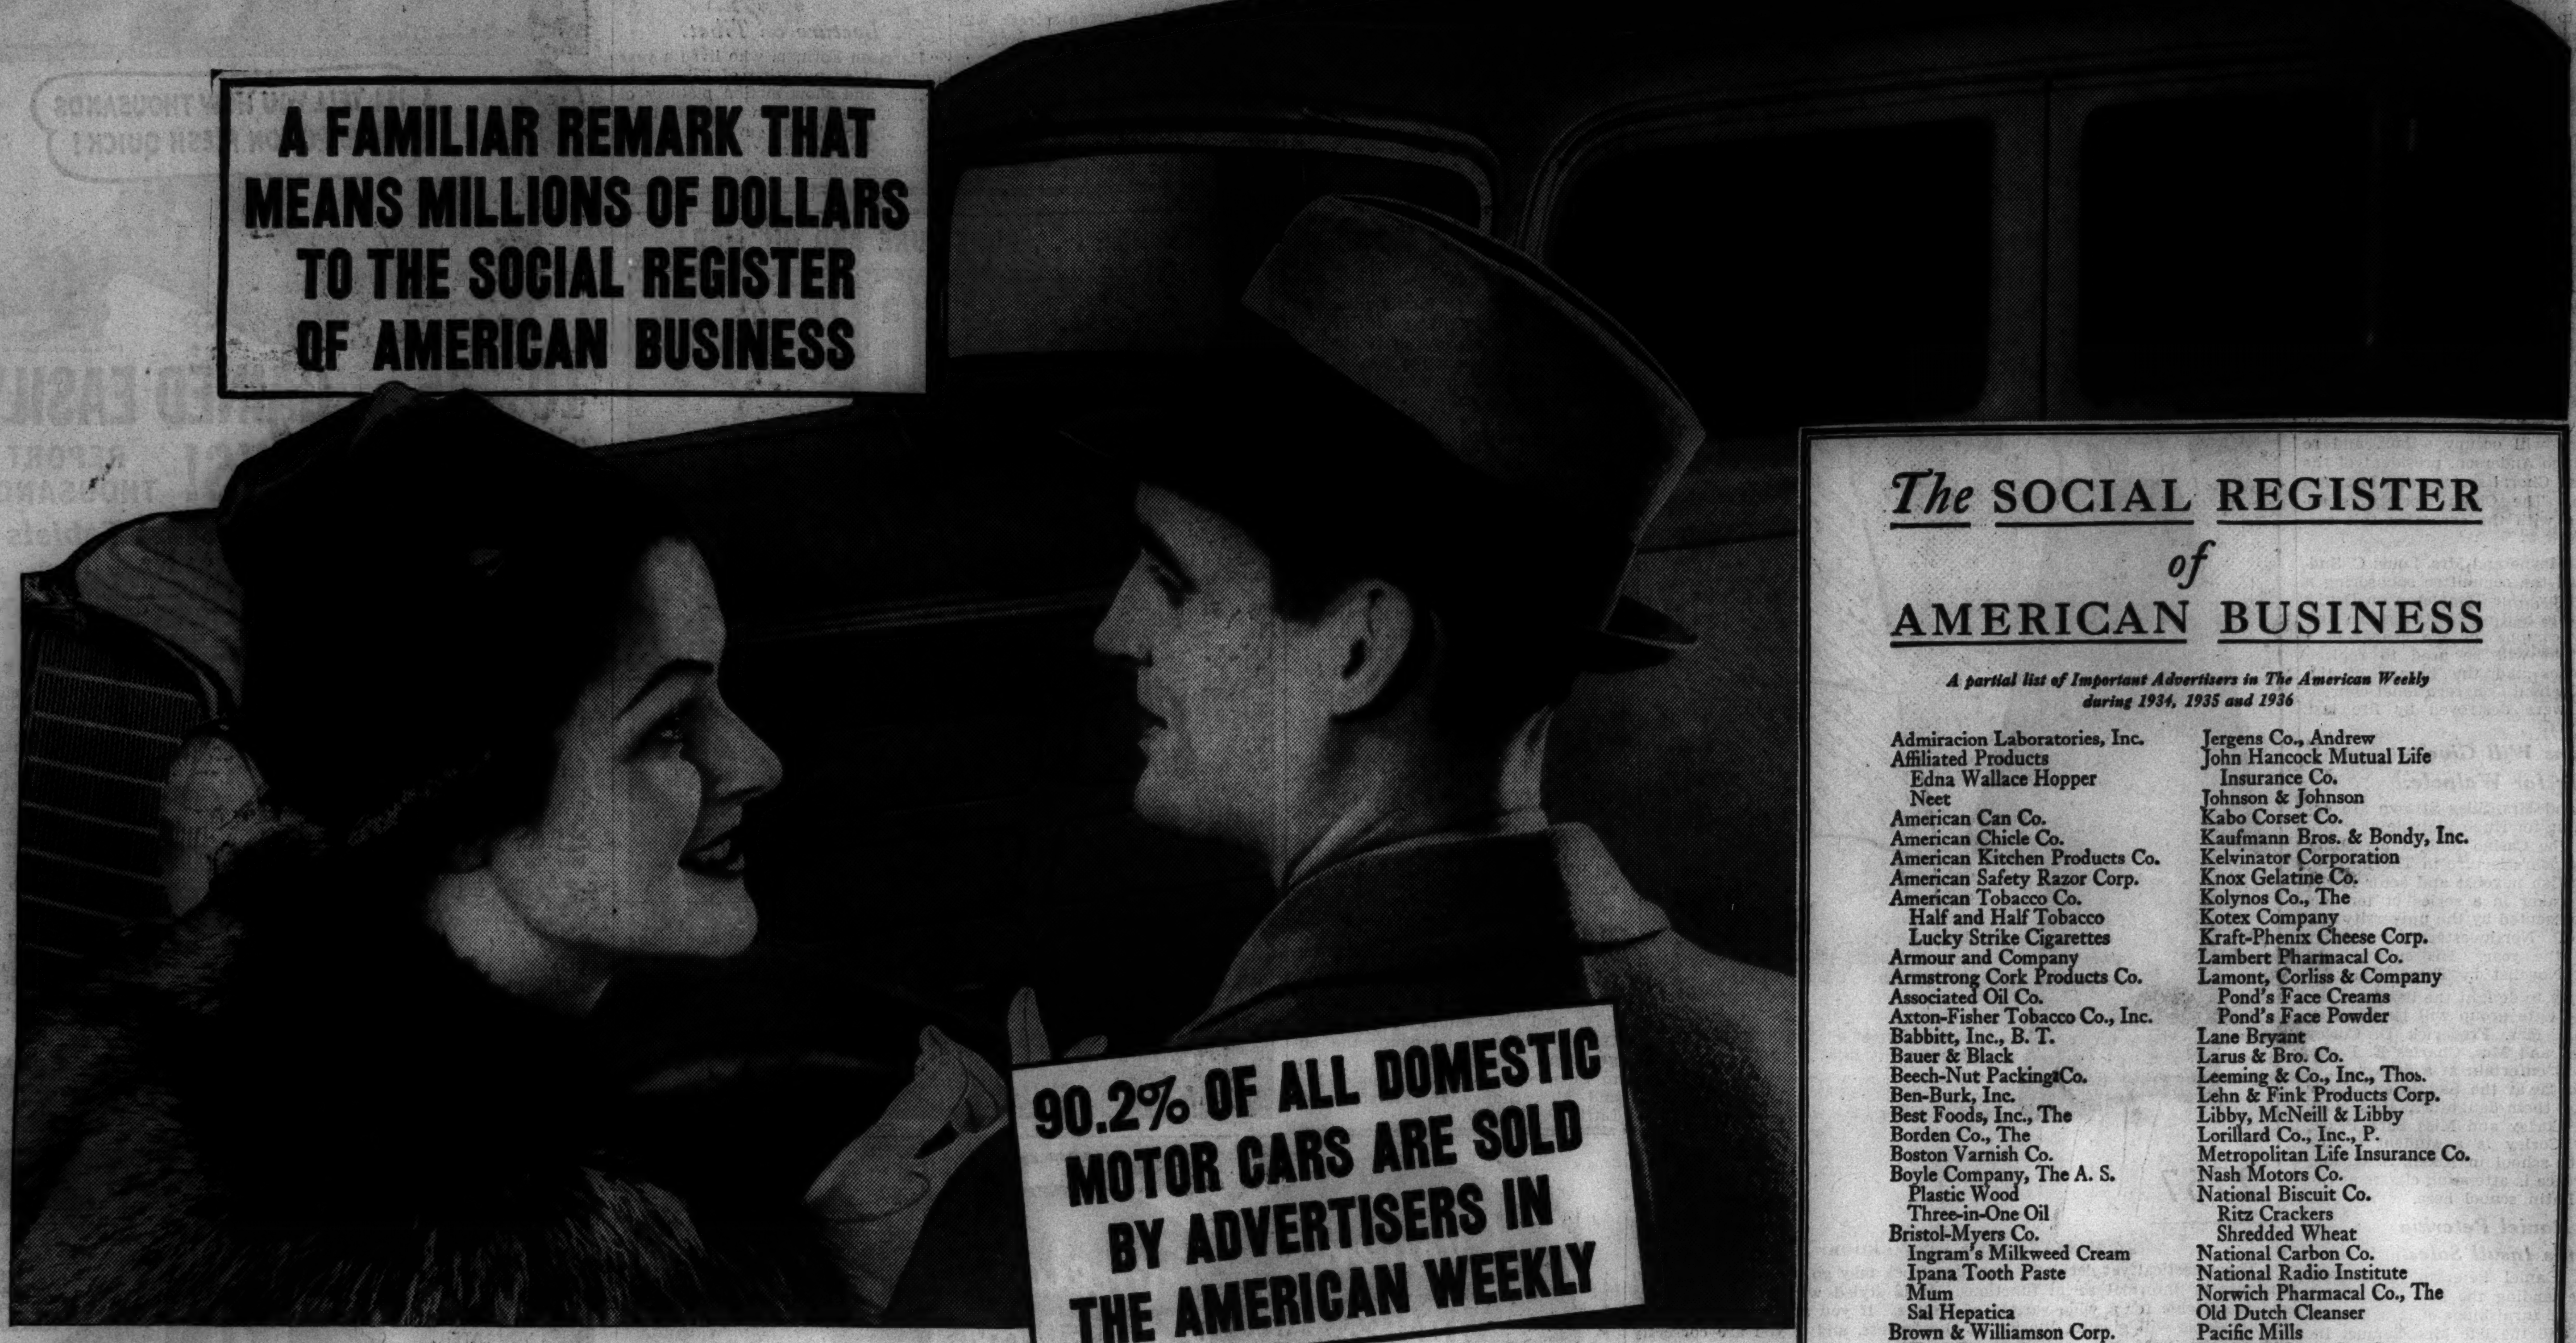
Midol's relief is so swift, you may think it is a narcotic. It's not. And its relief is prolonged; two tablets see you through your worst day.

Would you like to enjoy a new freedom? Then try Midol—in a trim little aluminum case at any drug store.

PROBLEMS MADE EASY



"Let's trade her in tomorrow!"



EVERY day the urge for a new car hits fever pitch in about 10,000 homes. So tomorrow 10,000 families will find the "cure" for this recurrent American malady... and 10,000 new cars will join the millions already on the road.

By the time this message appears in print the nation's automobile manufacturers will have rolled up an estimated total of more than 2,900,000 passenger cars sold so far this year.

This is a tremendous figure, and producers of refrigerators or food products, candy, clothing or cosmetics well may ask, "Impressive, but what has this to do with me?"

An Impressive Truth

The answer is simple and illuminating. It is a truth so impressive that no alert advertiser should overlook its significance!

90.2 per cent of all domestic motor cars are produced and sold by manufacturers who advertise in The American Weekly!

And even more impressive—the seven manufacturers who produce 86 per cent of the nation's motor cars, spent 59 per cent of their magazine advertising dollars in three weekly magazines during the first seven months of 1936. The American Weekly was either one, two or three on each of these manufacturers' advertising programs.

And so it goes in other industries. For example, 75.9 per cent of the nationally advertised tires are sold by manufacturers who advertise in The American Weekly! 65.9 per cent of the nationally advertised cigarettes! 70.2 per cent of the nationally advertised dentifrices! And from 57.9 to nearly 100 per cent of the nationally advertised food-drinks, gelatin desserts, electric refrigerators, bread flour, razor blades and coffee are sold by manufacturers and producers who advertise in The American Weekly!

The Volume Market

Recognizing this great fundamental—that the sale of millions of units demands concentration in the big volume market, these manufacturers (see Social Register of American Business at right) gear their merchandising plans to the terrific drive of consistent advertising in The American Weekly.

Representing more than 5,500,000 families—this is the largest, most responsive audience in the world. It is largely concentrated in the geographically small but rich trading areas where the people in one-fifth of all the counties buy four-fifths of all the goods sold at retail in the entire country.

Reaching one-fourth of all the English-publication-reading families in America, The American Weekly dominates in the key cities of 10,000 population and over which account for 70 per cent of all retail sales.

In The American Weekly, men and women of all types are interested and entertained by the most fascinating and universal editorial appeal ever conceived. All are irresistibly drawn to the dynamic drama of life told in words and pictures by an editor who knows what interests people and why.

Where this Magazine goes

The American Weekly is the largest magazine in the world. It is distributed through the great Hearst Sunday newspapers. In 627 of America's 995 towns and cities of 10,000 population and over, The American Weekly concentrates 67% of its circulation.

In each of 174 cities, it reaches better than one out of every two families
In 144 more cities, 40 to 50% of the families
In an additional 134 cities, 30 to 40%
In another 175 cities, 20 to 30%

... and, in addition, more than 2,000,000 families in thousands of other communities, large and small, regularly buy and read The American Weekly.

Cock-A-Doodle-Doo!

The November 15th issue of The American Weekly is the largest in volume of advertising linage and revenue of any issue in the history of this publication—a tribute to the purchasing power of its readers by the most important manufacturers in the United States.

RODMAN AND YATES LEAD SIX DAY BIKE RACE

PERRY TO MAKE PRO DEBUT IN GARDEN JAN. 6

Will Play Vines in Nation-Wide Tour.

New York, Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Fred Perry of England, world's amateur tennis champion, will make his professional debut Jan. 6 at Madison Square Garden in a match against Ellsworth Vines, it was announced today by Promoters Francis T. Hunter and S. Howard Voshell.

FRED PERRY.

Perry signed a professional contract last October, Hunter revealed. He will receive a guarantee, said to be $50,000, and a percentage of the gates on a nation-wide tour booked until May 15. He expects to earn at least $100,000.

Syndicate Backs Tour.

Hunter, former Davis cup player, and Voshell will handle Perry's tour for a group of the investors, including Jack Krindler, a New York restaurateur. Perry is in California, where he plans to build a home for his movie actress wife, Helen Vinson. By proxy, he issued the following statement:

"After considering a number of attractive offers, I am electing to accept the terms of the contract offered by Voshell and Hunter, feeling that the conduct of this enterprise, which is backed by a group of well known sportsmen, will do much to raise the level of professional competitive tennis in the eyes of the public and place it on the sound basis which it deserves in the future."

O'Brien Is Out.

The winner of the Perry - Vines series must be recognized as the undisputed tennis champion of the world, as Vines is by far the best of all the professionals at the moment.

William T. Tilden 2d, seven times amateur champion of the United States and for years a professional, may join the Perry tour. He is in Japan at present. A fourth member will be selected from among Lester Stoefen, George Lott, Keith Gledhill, and Bruce Barnes.

Bill O'Brien, who with Tilden dominated professional tennis since Jack Curley retired, will have no part in the promotion. He may be employed, but only to handle a few details. Tilden also will receive nothing more than a salary if he signs.

Definite knowledge that Perry had turned professional came as a blow to British tennis officialdom. The English hardly can hope to retain the Davis cup without Perry.

WRITERS SUPPORT PERRY.

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Among British tennis writers there seems to be considerable support for the action of Fred Perry in turning professional.

The Times of London says that the universal reflections on an action that seems likely to cost Great Britain the Davis cup probably will be that Perry had made a wise decision.

It is, however, the Times of London adds, "a dismal reminder that the day is gone when champions play for fun and that never again are we likely to find men leaving their offices and going down to Wimbledon to win a championship. It is all so grim and strenuous in modern times."

The Daily Herald says "it would be churlish to criticize Perry. The wonder is that he withstood the temptingly dangled bait so long. Certainly he did everything for British tennis that could be expected from any one man."

WHITE SOX GET RENSA, CATCHER; RELEASE GRUBE

Frank Rensa, a catcher who has had tryouts with both American and National league clubs, was acquired yesterday by the White Sox. He was taken from the Dallas, Texas league, club in trade for Catcher Frank Grube, Pitcher Bill Shores, and Lee Chandler, a youthful infielder, who were released outright. During the day President J. Louis Comiskey also sent two athletes to the St. Paul club both under option. They are Outfielder Bit McCulloch, recalled from Kansas City, and Catcher George Caithamer, recalled from Richmond, Va.

THE GUMPS—DANCING FEET

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: I wonder how many air-minded folks of the present generation remember the cross-country flight of Earl Brookins from Chicago to Springfield, Ill., made in the fall, I think, of 1910. It was during the state fair.

The flight was backed by H. H. Kohlsaat of the Chicago Record-Herald, and was made in one of the earlier Wright planes. I was at Gilman that summer and Pilot Brookins broke his flight at that place by landing in a cornfield that had been blown down by a hard storm a few days before. About 400 or 500 of us yeomanry, waiting at the I. C. depot, plunged pellmell over a big drainage ditch and through barb wire fences to be among the first to have the distinction of touching wings of the plane.

Wilbur Wright and Roy Knabenshue followed Brookins on the train with an additional supply of gas with which the tanks were replenished at Gilman before the airman resumed his flight to Springfield.

Wrecking of the Imperial building, 312 South Clark street, recalls that it once was the billiard home of Frank Ives back in the '90s. Among players who competed in the "academy" were Jake Schaefer Sr., Billy Catton, George Sutton, Tom Gallagher, Eugene Carter, and Joe Capron. Later the room was operated by Charlie Schaefer, brother of Jake. Also at one time it was the home of the Open Board of Trade.

In 1882 "McDonald's farm" cornered on the southwest sides of Wentworth avenue and 33d street, then end of the horse car line. Mr. McDonald had a cabbage farm and in the fall ran a sauerkraut factory. The cabbage cutter was powered by a horse walking around in a circle and the shredded cabbage was thrown into a vat made of planks.

One man worked in the vat wearing rubber boots, and when a batch was ready he used a pitchfork to throw it into barrels. Then a man in rubber boots stepped it down in the barrel. We kids of the neighborhood always feasted on cabbage centers or cores not used in the kraut making.

That Old American Custom.

May the best team win! as the lads make way
And the pigskin's booted into play;
Let the players tackle, plunge, and fight
When a touchdown looms too close in sight.
May the fans go wild in raucous cheer
When it's goal to go, and a tensioned fear
Grips the losing team — then in double time
They pull together with "Hold that line!"

Come on, grads, shout in voices hoarse
And sing the old pep songs, of course!
Co-eds, wave banners, stir that throng,
Make them cheer a thousand strong!
O, make it a glorious holiday
'Til the gun blast ends the final play!
Enjoy it, live it, while it's here—

Champ Gives Englishman Terrific Beating.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—John Henry Lewis of Phoenix, Ariz., tonight retained his world's light heavyweight championship by outpointing Len Harvey of England in a 15 round bout in Wembley stadium. Lewis weighed 173½ pounds and Harvey 172.

A crowd of 12,000 filled the stadium. Receipts were estimated at 15,000 pounds [about $75,000].

The first two rounds were marred by clinching and Referee Jack Smith admonished both fighters. Lewis, however, piled up points with his left. In the third round the champion opened up and drove Harvey around the ring with a barrage of punches.

Harvey's eye began to swell in the fifth round as Lewis poured in a steady bombardment with both hands. Harvey came back to knock the plaster off Lewis' injured eye.

Crowd Boos Harvey.

The crowd booed Harvey when the Britisher tried to sneak over a right to Lewis' head just as the referee had finished telling them to speed up. Lewis took command of the situation in the seventh as Harvey appeared to be tiring fast. Lewis constantly forced the fighting, but Harvey's clinching tactics slowed the action.

Harvey drew a fine hand in the ninth when he whipped a powerful left hook to the head. The punch failed to bother the champion, however. Boxing confidently, Lewis rained blows from every angle whenever he wasn't held in Harvey's tight embrace. Harvey retreated desperately in the tenth as Lewis tried for a knockout.

Harvey Hangs On.

Harvey hung on grimly through the eleventh and twelfth as Lewis, answering the crowd's clamor for a knockout, popped him with everything in the book, almost without a return.

Mrs. Harvey, who was at the ringside, kept rushing to her husband's corner, begging him to last the distance.

Harvey gamely absorbed a terrific lacing in the closing rounds. Lewis stood almost flatfooted and slugged the long nosed Briton mercilessly up to the final bell. The crowd gave both an ovation when the referee held up Lewis' hand at the final bell.

FRANK BATTAGLIA WINS BOUT WITH FRANKIE MISKO

Frankie Battaglia slugged his way to a ten round triumph over Frankie Misko, middleweight champion of Michigan, at Marigold Gardens last night. The veteran Palmyra, Wis., fighter, who weighed 164 pounds, five more than Misko, scored five knockdowns, two in the fifth round and one each in the seventh, eighth, and tenth sessions. However, the 23 year old Saginaw battler outboxed Battaglia at times and after each knockdown tore into his more experienced rival with both fists flying. Attendance was 1,200 and gross receipts were $1,067.

Pete Lello, Chicagoland Golden Gloves lightweight champion, defeated Bert Ardt of Detroit in the five round semi-final to record his tenth consecutive professional victory. Billy Gladstone, north side welterweight, and Tony Cianciola, Milwaukee, went four rounds to a draw in a slugging match. Emil Campagna knocked out Frank Pickens in the third round and Dave Rose, who was substituted for Duke Calloway, beat Babe La Varra in four sessions.

MICHIGAN NEXT; N. U. HOPES TO SWEEP SCHEDULE

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Northwestern university will purchase gold footballs this week for its undefeated squad which clinched the Western conference championship Saturday by defeating Wisconsin. In return, the Wildcats have pledged themselves to whip Michigan this week at Ann Arbor for their sixth Big Ten victory and seventh consecutive triumph of the season.

Northwestern now has won its first title which was not shared by another rival. But as friends and foes have pointed out, Northwestern's claim to greatness will be much stronger if the Wildcats defeat Michigan. The Wolverines have not won a conference game and their only victory was scored against Columbia.

Met Last in 1934.

Northwestern now is in the same position as was Michigan back in 1925 when the Wildcats, by their 3 to 2 victory, checked Michigan's advance to a national title. That game, in Soldiers' field, was fought in a quagmire. Northwestern's early field goal was sufficient to stem Michigan's advance through the mud, and Capt. Tim Lowry, winner of THE TRIBUNE'S silver football, made certain of victory by deliberately giving Michigan a safety near the end of the fourth period and thus retaining possession of the ball. The rule now has been changed to force the team scoring a safety to kick off at once from its 20 yard line.

This will be Northwestern's first game with Michigan in two seasons. In 1934 the Wildcats defeated the Wolverines, 13 to 6. This also was the first year after Michigan had concluded its four year span as champion or co-champion of the Big Ten. In two of these years, 1930 and 1931, Northwestern shared honors with the Wolverines.

Shared Title in 1931.

Northwestern would have been undefeated winners of the Big Ten championship in 1931 had it not been for the post-season charity games which the conference arranged and decided would be counted in the final standings. Northwestern lost to Purdue, 7 to 0, and since Michigan defeated Wisconsin, Northwestern was forced to share its title with Michigan and Purdue.

A championship may be an unusual event at Northwestern but they are common enough to Lynn Waldorf, Wildcat coach. This is the fourth title Waldorf's teams have won in the last five years. In 1932 and 1933 the Oklahoma A. & M. eleven, coached by Waldorf, won the Missouri Valley championship. In 1934, at Kansas State where he succeeded Bo McMillin, Waldorf's boys won the Big Six title. Last year, while not winning

PRO GOLFERS TO START ANNUAL MEETING TODAY

The Professional Golfers' Association of America will open its annual meeting, a three day session, at the Congress hotel today. Election of officers and disposition of regular organization business will occupy the group for three days. George R. Jacobus of Ridgewood, N. J., is president of the organization.

The P. G. A. will go after a total of more than $200,000 in tournament purses next year, according to Robert E. Harlow, manager of the tournament bureau. The 1936 campaign brought professional golfers an aggregate of $156,745, but the same schedule of events for 1937, together with several additions, including a $25,000 all star event, in which Lawson Little may compete, will bring the total well over the $200,000 mark.

MOVE TO RESCIND SCHOLARSHIP RULE IS DOOMED

Richmond, Va., Nov. 9.—(AP)—The movement to strike the Graham plan, intended to guard against professionalism, from the Southern conference by-laws apparently is doomed, a poll indicates.

Eight of the sixteen members tonight were on record as favoring retention of the plan which Forest Fletcher, president of the conference, has termed "impractical."

Discussion of the regulations, which became effective Sept. 1, is expected at the annual meeting of conference officials, in Richmond, on Dec. 11-12.

The Graham plan places athletes on an equal basis with nonathletes in the awarding of financial aid and sets up faculty committees to enforce the regulations.

CALL OFF DRILLS AT BUTLER FOR COSTAS SERVICES

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 9.—(AP)—The football practice field at Butler university was deserted today—all practice sessions for today and tomorrow being called off as a result of the two automobile accidents Saturday night which took the life of Spero Costas, football captain, and caused serious injuries to his brother, George, and to Arthur Cosgrove, captain of the basketball team.

Hospital attachés here and at Crawfordsville reported little change in the condition of Cosgrove, George Costas, and H. Wayne Truelock of Indianapolis, who also was hurt seriously.

The Costas boys and Truelock were hurt in an accident at Crawfordsville while en route to Canton, Ill., while Cosgrove was injured here.

Funeral services for Spero Costas will be held at his home in Canton at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and the entire Butler football squad of forty men and coaches will attend.

Cosgrove, George Costas, and Truelock all have fractured skulls and Cosgrove had not yet regained consciousness today. Bulletins on his condition were posted at the university at half hour intervals today.

Leader—Yates.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Kilian and Vopel, those German lads who have been so unethical as to win the last nine six-day bike races in which they have been entered here and abroad, including the last two Chicago races, last night at the stroke of 12 found themselves 14 laps back of the race leaders at the Stadium, Jerry Rodman and Cecil Yates of Chicago.

Shortly before 1 o'clock this morning Referee Frank Kramer fined Kilian, Emile Ignat, Henry O'Brien, and Tino Reboli $10 each for refusing to chase other riders in a jam. Kramer became indignant when the midnight standings showed the most talented riders a mile and a half back of less famous performers in the competition and said the nominal fines were only the beginning.

Gus and Heinz, to use the front names of the Teuton athletes, were becoming very cross as the night went on and were said to be muttering complaints of conspiracy. Earlier in the evening they had coöperated with other racers in several protests but by midnight they were convinced that they were riding against the whole field.

Look Out, You Fellows.

Kilian and Vopel made no threats to take their wheels and go home. They simply said they would proceed on the theory that they are a couple of lone wolves and from now on will view the field as enemies rather than brother artists in the great pedaling fraternity.

The Germans weren't altogether wrong in the assumption that all riders are eager to lick them. Regardless of what one may think of the competitive phases of six day racing, it is an obvious fact that the rank and file of the trade can't keep drawing high fees for looking at the numbers on Kilian's and Vopel's backs, as they have in the last nine major six day races. The promoters of the whirl say they want to see the best team win, and all that sort of thing, but they also are said to have told some of the challengers to do something about the German monotony, or else—

Rodman and Yates rode into the lead during the 9 o'clock sprints, supplanting O'Brien-Cohen and Ignat-Diot, who were leading the bunch as the contest went into the second night. Georgetti-Reboli were hopping around in the top flights and seemed in shape to pop in front with the slightest encouragement.

Hill-Miller Team Put Off.

The early evening was marked by two unusual episodes. At 6 o'clock Referee Frank Kramer ordered the veteran Norman Hill and his partner, Eddie Miller, off the track for indifferent riding. Hill, who wore Reggie McNamara's No. 1, is the all-around champion of America, and in recent races Kramer is said to have entertained a rising suspicion that the big Californian was relying upon his championship prestige as a license to take it easy in six day races, showing just enough to draw down seven nights' sugar, while demanding a high fee for his services.

When Hill and Miller dropped 14 laps back in the first 21 hours Kramer bounced them out, an almost unprecedented action so early in a race.

The other unusual episode involved the matter of sleep, an almost unheard of matter in connection with a six day bike race. Kilian led a protesting group of riders who said that the bunkroom contained much to remind one that the rodeo, with its oxen, cayuses, and cowboys, had but recently vacated the premises.

Flies Prevent Sleep.

The riders charged that the rooms were in a filthy condition and full of flies. The flies, so the protestants averred, apparently subscribed to the theory that no bike rider should sleep at all and have set out to see to it there is no slumber in the bunkrooms during the week.

Under sanitary conditions, the riders pointed out, each member of a team while his partner is on the track, is able to get one stretch of three hours sleep out of every 24 hours.

Results of 1 o'clock sprints:

1—Yaccino, W. Peden, Cohen, Diot.
2—Wissel, Rodman, Georgetti, Sima.
3—Yates, Winter, W. Peden, Diot.
4—Malatesta, Georgetti, Rodman, O'Brien.
5—Vopel, Audy, Yates, Yaccino.
6—Thomas, Rodman, Georgetti, D. Peden.
7—Diot, Ligman, Winter, Yates.
8—Thomas, Georgetti, Letourner, Ignat.
9—Yates, Diot, Winter, Debaets.

RADIO SECOND GUESSERS WILL BE RESTRAINED

American League Plans New Broadcast Rules.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The boys who perform as broadcasters of American league games next season will have to be cautious in their use of words or risk the loss of their radio franchise. This action, according to President William Harridge, probably will be taken Thursday when club owners gather in a special meeting. At the same session the club owners will decide whether to accept the prospective new owners of the St. Louis Browns as business associates.

The hobble on radio broadcasters, if adopted, will be in the form of contracts between the stations and the clubs of cities in which the air accounts originate. The contracts will stipulate, among other clauses, that broadcasters cannot second guess managers or official scorers or mention to their invisible audience that the umpires are just so many blind mice. The contracts would be turned into league headquarters, leaving the league president free to act on violations.

Bottle Throwing Motive.

The move to eliminate the evil of broadcasters expressing their judgment on touchy matters started as the result of the bottle tossing episode in which Umpire Bill Summers was wounded by a missil at Comiskey park late last season. In a broadcast the day previous at least one announcer, in explaining a decision by Umpire Johnston, termed the gentleman incompetent. The trouble the next day was attributed to this by President Harridge and the offender, in the absence of a contract covering the offense, escaped with nothing more than censure.

Broadcasting now is permitted in all American league parks with the exception of New York and Washington. Except for Chicago the local clubs have their own separate agreements with the stations. The Chicago club also is the only member of the league which grants broadcast rights gratis. Fees paid annually by stations range from $8,000 to in excess of $25,000, the latter being the total at Detroit. Whether the league will vote to demand a fee in every city of the circuit is doubtful.

Check Up on Browns.

The Thursday meeting also will develop some discussion of the effect of big league broadcasts on the minor league cities. The clubs in the latter class raised such a howl last summer that Commissioner K. M. Landis ordered no additional stations be permitted to enter any of the parks. The minors' contention is that they can stand the big league broadcasts which drift into their cities direct from the major parks, but they don't want stations in their own towns broadcasting accounts obtained by telegraph. Final action on this angle will not be taken until the two majors hold their joint session next month.

When the representatives of the group purchasing the Browns appear before the league notables Thursday they will have to furnish proof that they have no entangling alliances with the St. Louis Cardinals of the National league. This suspicion has arisen over the fact that one of the prospective purchasers is William O. De Witt, now vice president and treasurer of the Cardinals. The American league constitution provides that no franchise can be disposed of without the seven other club owners being agreeable.

Silvers Will Meet Thomas at Marigold

Pal Silvers, Brooklyn heavyweight, who put a crimp in Leo Lomaski's comeback aspirations by beating the old Aberdeen Assassin a few weeks ago, and Harry Thomas, Eagle Bend, Minn., slugger, yesterday were matched for ten rounds at Marigold Gardens next Monday. . . . Harold Ryan, former gymnasium inspector of the Illinois boxing commission, who became ill about three weeks ago, has been transferred to a sanitarium near Aurora, Ill. The malady has physicians puzzled. . . . Charley Peterson, veteran heavyweight wrestler, has been matched with Chief Wurham in a supporting bout to the main event involving Walter Roxy and Stan Buresch at Arcadia Gardens tomorrow. Ernie Peterson, Marquette, Wis., youngster, who denies reports that Charley is his father, will wrestle Rudy Kay.

Secretary Tom Tuite of the state athletic commission yesterday received a $500 forfeit check from Everett Marshall and another from Ali Baba for their heavyweight wrestling championship encounter at Chicago Stadium Nov 20. A week ago the commission ordered each to post $1,000 as assurance that the winner will defend the crown against Jim McMillen in a subsequent engagement. Whether or not the smaller checks will be satisfactory will be decided by Chairman Joe Triner at today's meeting of the board.

Sailor Freedman, lightweight contender about 15 years ago, now weighing 185 pounds, yesterday tried to interest handlers of Frankie Battaglia into having the Palmyra, Wis., middleweight fight at Philadelphia late this month under the auspices of Max [Boo Boo] Hoff. The offer was declined on account of Battaglia's scheduled meeting with Harry Balsamo at the New York Hippodrome Nov. 25. . . . Davey Day, lightweight stablemate of Barney Ross, will leave Saturday for Ferndale, N. Y., where Ross is preparing for a welterweight title defense against Izzy Jannazzo at Madison Square Garden Nov. 23. Hunters Find Many Ducks Along Illinois

BY BOB BECKER.

The largest flocks of mallards and pintails that we have seen in the upper Illinois river for many years have been keeping Chicagoland sportsmen excited this season. The birds began to concentrate in the small ponds and fields along the Illinois river bottoms several weeks ago.

When we visited the upper Illinois river a few days ago to spend a day with Frank Collins of Morris, Ill., in one of his blinds at the edge of a small pond we could hardly believe our eyes. The number of mallards and pintails as well as teal was so large that it reminded us of the good old days when we used to hunt regularly between Channahon and Morris.

Ponds Are Filled.

The fall rains have filled every prairie pond and pothole in that territory, so the birds can take their choice this season. In addition to ducks, flocks of blue and snow geese are using one of the potholes for their nightly meeting place.

Of all the spots where one may shoot mallards and pintails, a prarie pond such as one finds on a tract of 1,400 acres on the Collins shooting reserve is about the most perfect hunting location because it is so easy to locate cripples. If a mallard does not drop on the water in front of you or in the grass near by it goes down on the open prairie. Inasmuch as the grass and weeds are not high a dog can work the prairie very easily and as a rule strike the trail of the running bird in a hurry.

Puppy Grows Up.

The other day when we were crouching with Collins in a grass blind at the edge of one of the prairie ponds he called out a little cocker spaniel to do the bird work on the prairie. This little dog, a black and white, weighing about 25 pounds, was a pup just a few weeks old when we hunted at Morris last season. This year the dog, appropriately named Noodles because of its fondness for chicken noodles, is a chunky little cocker eager to work.

Huddled in our blind about 8:30 in the morning, our eyes upon thousands of mallards milling around in the sky to the north of us, we were rushed by a small flock of teal that provided Noodles with the first chance to work. One of the green wings dropped a good 200 yards from our blind out on the prairie. Frank walked over with the cocker. We stood in the blind to watch the dog work.

Dog Finds Teal.

Once out near the spot where we had marked the teal down Noodles put his nose to the ground and started to hunt. In about two minutes he had the teal. Later in the day we had the cocker help us on another teal and also a baldpate, the only one we saw that day. The dog hit the scent of the baldpate that had headed out on the prairie and ran it down in no time, again demonstrating how a dog can find the cripples and save game.

The upland game hunting season opens this morning in Illinois. Federal law permits the shooting of pheasants and rabbits at sunrise, which is 7:34 Chicago daylight time.

Leukemia Is Fatal to Young Jocky, Elbert Willhite

Rock Island, Ill., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Elbert Willhite, 18 year old jocky who rode more than 50 winners at Texas, New Orleans, and Chicago tracks, died here early today from leukemia following an illness of two months. He was injured in New York in 1934 when trampled by a horse, but had recovered and was planning to attend school in Chicago when stricken on Labor day. He wore the silks of the O. L. Foster stable of Texas.

RACING BOARD HEARS MORE ON HARVEY G. O. CASE

Members of the Illinois racing commission heard further evidence yesterday in the Harvey G. O. case which developed at the recent Sportsman's Park turf meeting.

The stewards at Sportsman's Park had recommended that the horse Harvey G. O. and his trainer, Tom Crist, be barred from racing as a result of the inconsistent running of the horse. A betting cleanup was alleged to have been made on the horse in the race he won at Sportsman's Park in which the betting odds dropped from 12 to 1 to 2 to 1 at post time.

Trainer Crist and R. Morgan under whose name Harvey G. O. ran in that particular race both denied to the members of the commission that they knew anything about a betting cleanup and they testified that Harvey G. O. was a very bad race horse which would lose when they expected him to win and then win when they believed he would be beaten.

PRO TEAMS OF WEST DIVISION SWEEP 4 GAMES

Bears Run Attendance to Total of 190,000.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Any lingering doubt about western division supremacy was trampled in the mire of National league gridirons Sunday as four eastern clubs were defeated and the Bears and Green Bay moved a step nearer a play-off for the sectional championship. It was the first time this season that either section had swept a day's play.

Detroit and the Bears scored the most convincing victories. Bouncing back after stunning defeats the previous week, they beat the eastern division leaders, Pittsburgh and New York, while the Cardinals made a more or less private occasion auspicious by winning their first game of the season at the expense of Philadelphia and the Packers scored a victory over the Redskins at Boston, 7 to 3.

Bears Back in Form.

The Bears' triumph was notable on three counts. It indicated a return to the form which piled up six consecutive victories. It was achieved under the most adverse conditions in the history of the league, flood lights having been necessary to finish the contest played in a driving rain. And it brought the Bears a new record for attendance, raising to 190,000 the number of spectators before whom the Chicagoans have played in eight league games.

Having preserved their record of not losing a regular league game in New York since 1929, the Bears moved on to Boston last night to open practice at Fenway park for Sunday's game against the Redskins, a game that may result in their return to the undisputed league leadership. Green Bay will be playing in New York while the Bears are engaged with Wayne Millner, Riley Smith, Cliff Battles, and associated Redskins and there is little assurance that they can whip the Giants unless they snap out of the lethargy that engulfed them at Boston.

Nolting Is Hurt.

The Bears survived Sunday's game in excellent shape, Ray Nolting being the only casualty. Nolting suffered a leg injury. It is expected, however, that he will be available at Boston.

The possibility of a sectional playoff in Chicago was enhanced by Sunday's games, but the Bears and Packers, who are tied for the division lead, have yet to meet Detroit. The Lions displayed usual strength against the Giants a week ago, although losing, 14 to 7, and in whipping the Pirates, 28 to 3, Sunday and are pointing for the Packers and Bears with revenge in their minds.

The Cardinals, in opening their home stand with a 13 to 0 victory over Philadelphia, finally resembled the club that went into the final game last year with a chance to tie for the championship. Paying strict attention to fundamentals, they were able to make one long march and get George Grosvenor off on an 88 yard return of a punt, while holding the Eagles' offense, Dave Smukler, in check.

Pirates Are Next.

Their next assignment is against the air minded Pittsburgh eleven, which comes to Wrigley field for the second time in a month on Sunday. The squad escaped the Philadelphia game without injury and expects to be in superb physical condition by the end of the week. Pittsburgh, like Philadelphia which plays in Los Angeles Sunday, will hop from here to the coast for one game. The Cardinals go west to meet the Los Angeles eleven, coached by Gloomy Gus Henderson, on Dec. 13, after the National league season. Philadelphia must hurry back to meet the Bears in the east after Sunday's game and the Pirates are scheduled at Boston a week after their Los Angeles appearance.

LIONS, GIANTS LEAD.

New York, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Detroit has gained more yardage by rushing and the New York Giants more by passing than any other teams in the National league, figures on the season's games revealed today.

Detroit gained 447 yards against Pittsburgh Sunday and brought its average for seven games up to 300 yards. Green Bay is second with 270.

Leading passers in the league last year, the Giants have overtaken Pittsburgh for the lead in this department. The Giants have completed 50 out of 110 passes for an average of 45 per cent. Pittsburgh and Detroit have averages of 43 per cent.

With only 178 yards scored through its line, Boston stands out as the leading defensive team. Brooklyn is next with 184 and Detroit third with 186.

Matsuyama Takes Lead in Three-Cushion Match

Kinrey Matsuyama took a 15 point lead over Jake Schaefer at the end of the first two blocks of their three cushion billiard match at Bensinger's, 131 South Wabash avenue, last night. Matsuyama won the afternoon block, 50 to 20, in 27 innings with a high run of 10. Schaefer won the evening block, 69 to 50, in 58 innings. He had a high run of eight. They will play afternoon and evening blocks for the remainder of the week.

Maroons Get No Rest; Next Foe Indiana

Home to stay, after two forays on foreign fields, Chicago's Maroons spent most of yesterday's practice getting their ears unpinned after the 44 to 0 drubbing they took at the hands of Ohio State Saturday. They face another dark prospect in Indiana at Stagg field this week.

Coach Clark Shaughnessy was not disconcerted by the outcome of the Buckeye contest. "It was one of those days when everything Ohio tried clicked," Shaughnessy said. "When that team clicks it looks like the best in the country."

As for Indiana, Shaughnessy's estimate is "they've probably got too many heavy guns for us." Maroon scouts have been particularly impressed by the wealth of Hoosier backfield material.

A blackboard analysis of errors made against Ohio was followed yesterday by a light offensive and defensive workout. Defense will be today's program.

HOOSIERS WORK OUT.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Cancelling the usual Monday vacation for regulars, Coach Bo McMillin sent the entire Indiana university football squad through a stiff workout on fundamentals this afternoon as preparation for the Chicago game at the Midway Saturday got under way.

Cautioning the Crimson players that they will have to be at top form if they expect to remain in the race for runner-up honors in Big Ten competition, McMillin declared that a letdown would probably result in defeat. Capt. Dal Sasso, tackle, who has been on the side lines since he received a leg injury in the Ohio State contest two weeks ago, went through a light workout but it is doubtful if he will be ready for the Chicago game.

BADGERS TAKE A REST.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Coach Harry Stuhldreher gave the Wisconsin football team a rest today as a reward for the fine showing against Northwestern. The Badgers will resume practice tomorrow in preparation for the Cincinnati game here Saturday, but there will be no scrimmage. The Minnesota battle here a week later will end the season.

The squad, one of the smallest in the conference, came through the slashing Northwestern game in good shape. Stan Haukedahl, right end, and Eddie Jankowski, full back, who played despite minor injuries, and Fred Benz, regular left end, who was kept out of the game, will be ready for the Cincinnati invasion.

Benz suffered two broken bones in his hand in the Chicago game, but, with the aid of a special brace will be available for the remaining two games.

PUTTING IT UP TO SCHURZ

Coin Toss Puts Schurz in Prep Semi-Finals

Schurz High school yesterday won the toss which decided representation of the north section of the City league in the semi-final playoffs leading up to the league championship game.

The flip of a coin was necessitated by the fact that Schurz and Steinmetz finished their sectional schedules Saturday neck and neck, each having won five games and having been tied twice. Saturday's game between the two teams which was to have decided the north side race ended in a 6 to 6 tie.

Wants Place in Title Game.

Schurz is now bidding for the City league title and also representation in the city championship prep game to be played at Soldiers' field Nov. 28 under the sponsorship of Chicago's Own Christmas Benefit committee, headed by Mayor Kelly. Proceeds of the game will be used to provide clothing and shoes for Chicago's underprivileged children.

The coin which decided the north side's representation in the semi-final games was flipped by A. H. Pritzlaff, director of physical education of the public schools. Representing the teams in Pritzlaff's office were Coach Herbert Thompson of Steinmetz and Otto Harz, director of athletics at Schurz.

Schurz Meets Austin.

Schurz will meet Austin next Saturday to determine which will battle it out for the championship of the league with the winner of the Tilden-Fenger game, which will be played Friday night at the 124th Field Artillery armory.

It was pointed out yesterday that Steinmetz and Schurz are tied for the north side championship. The toss was to decide representation of that section. The schools will share equally in honors and finances in the games to be played.

Purdue Returns Home; Launches Iowa Game Work

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Purdue resumed preparation for a continuation of the Big Ten drive against Iowa Saturday with a light conditioning drill this afternoon. The Boilermakers, who made a stop-off in Washington yesterday, returned here early this morning from the Fordham game in New York.

The Boilermakers apparently suffered no injuries of consequence against Fordham, and Coach Noble Kizer expects to be able to start the same combination against the Hawkeyes at Iowa City.

IOWA IN GOOD SHAPE.

Iowa, City, Ia., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Coach Ossie Solem resumed attempts to build up an adequate offensive at Iowa today as preparation started for the final Big Ten game with Purdue here Saturday. The Hawkeyes came through the Minnesota game without serious injuries. Nelson, a guard, may be lost for the Purdue game because of a badly pulled tendon.

BUCK, CARROLL BACK, HAS WIDE SCORING LEAD

New York, Nov. 9.—(AP)—It's going to take a lot of catching up by any other ambitious touchdown makers to take the nation's scoring football honors away from Art Buck, Carroll College of Wisconsin quarter back. Buck has made 102 points. Records of the leaders:

Buckeyes Take Easy Drill for Illini Game

All members of the squad were included in the workout inasmuch as 44 players of the 50 on the squad saw service in the game with Chicago Saturday.

Only Joe Williams and Pete Gales were not in uniform. Williams, in making a run of 17 yards against the Maroons, suffered recurrence of a shoulder injury and will be kept from practice most of the week. Gales has not been in uniform for more than a week.

ILLINI SCRIMMAGE.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Illinois started the second week of its preparation for the Dad's day game with Ohio State here Saturday with a brisk scrimmage this afternoon. A freshmen eleven equipped with Ohio State plays drilled against the varsity.

The Illini first team opened with Nelson and Castelo, ends; Stoltz and Morris, tackles; Fay and Kuhn, guards; Sayre, center; Strong, quarter; Wardley and Spurgeon, halves, and Wilson, full.

Berner replaced Stotz at left tackle and Phil Pezzoli, Chicago sophomore, and Ken Zimmerman were given considerable attention at full back. Pezzoli is the third ranking player at this position since the loss of Jack Broady through ineligibility and of Frank Burns because of a practice injury.

MICHIGAN COMES HOME FROM PENN WITH CRIPPLES

Smithers, Passer, Has a Sprained Wrist.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Michigan, without a Big Ten victory, turned to the apparently hopeless task today of preparing for the new Western conference champion, Northwestern.

The Wildcats, heavy pre-game favorites, bring Michigan's home season to a close next Saturday. The Wolverines end one of their leanest campaigns in history on Nov. 21 against Ohio State at Columbus.

Coach Harry G. Kipke indicated workouts this week would be light. Not even a scrimmage is planned for the first two teams.

Penn Uses Up Boys.

The game last Saturday with Pennsylvania, which terminated Michigan's 10-year intersectional reign over eastern teams, left the Wolverines crippled. Capt. Matt Patanelli, end, is out with an injured ankle. Johnny Smithers, who does most of the passing, has a sprained wrist. Stark Ritchie reported today with a bruised shoulder and a charley horse.

Kipke indicated Smithers and Ritchie, both half backs, would be ready by Saturday, but he was uncertain about Patanelli. There is also no likelihood that Bob Cooper, injured in the Columbia game, will be ready.

Michigan's passing attack was stopped by Penn. The Wolverines attempted 13 passes, completed none, and had six intercepted.

TEXAS NEXT FOR GOPHERS.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Satisfied with a starting line-up that had Bob Johnson at tackle, Charlie Schultz at guard, and Larry Buhler at full back, Coach Bernie Bierman said today that he would retain that new alignment when the Minnesota Gophers square off against the University of Texas Longhorns at Memorial field Saturday.

The Gophers today contented themselves with looking at the pictures of the Iowa game and listening to a chalk talk by Bierman.

If it is necessary to dispell any signs of overconfidence after the defeat by Northwestern, Bierman will use that upset to assure the boys that they cannot take the Longhorns lightly. Then there is Wisconsin to be disposed of.

The Gophers will be in shape for the last two games. Bob Weld, guard, has a lacerated hand and Francis Twedell, guard, did not play at all Saturday because of a leg injury. Both will be available Saturday, however.

Erratic Irish Eleven Opens Drill for Army

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Notre Dame skipped its customary Monday rest today and reported at nearly full strength for a brief drill in preparation for Saturday's game with Army at New York.

Despite the pounding the Irish have taken in their last three games, with Pitt, Ohio State, and Navy, every member of the squad reported this afternoon, and it is likely that all will be able to play Saturday.

The Cadets, tied by Notre Dame in the closing minutes of play last year, 6 to 6, and defeated the previous three years, are favored to win Saturday. They have won five of their six games, losing only to Colgate, 14 to 7. Notre Dame has won four out of six and was held scoreless in its defeats by Pitt, 26 to 0, and Navy, 3 to 0.

So far this season Notre Dame has been marked definitly by inexperience, reflected in its streakiness. The Irish were up for their opening game with Carnegie Tech, which they won, 21 to 7, and down the next week, when they defeated Washington U., 14 to 6. They were up for Wisconsin, down for Pitt, up for Ohio State, and down for Navy. They won from both Wisconsin and Ohio State. Continuing at the same regular fluctuation, they should be up this week.

Approximately five hundred Notre Dame students and the ninety-five piece Notre Dame band will make the trip to New York for the game.

LOYOLA PLANS FATHERS-SONS BASEBALL GAME

The annual Loyola academy fathers and sons' baseball game will be played next Sunday evening at the academy gymnasium. Last year the papas won, 2 to 1, but the kids claim they were robbed and this year have engaged Gabby Hartnett and Stan Hack of the Cubs to do the umpiring.

The game is part of a party for the academy boys and their mothers and fathers.

Stapulis Lost to Pitt for Remainder of Season

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Jock Sutherland, coach of the University of Pittsburgh's football team, said Bill Stapulis, first string full back from California, Pa., is lost to the Panthers for the remainder of the season. Sutherland said Stapulis' loss was severe blow, coming as it does just a few days before the Panthers entrain for what he believes will be one of the hardest games of the schedule, the meeting with Nebraska Saturday at Lincoln. Stapulis came out of the Penn State game with a shoulder injury.

DODGE AND DICK HORSES WIN IN NATIONAL SHOW

Midwest Entries Feature Blue Ribbon Competition

MISS FRANCIS DODGE.

After Highland Cora had won earlier in the day the Dicksfield horses came back to take two blue ribbons and the lead tonight, but Society Barrymore from Miss Dodge's barn chalked up a victory over the large field of three gaited saddle mares over 14.2 hands in the final event on the day's program to deadlock the count.

Shalimar Is Winner.

The most important of Miss Dodge's triumphs was scored by Shalimar in taking the coveted Warham Whitney Memeorial trophy for harness horses over 14.2 hands. Opposing Miss King's Knight Bachelor, Champion harness horse and winner of the event last year, the chestnut gelding from the mid-west paraded to the head of the small field under the fine handling of Reed Bridgford.

Shalimar's triumph came after Braishfield Debonair, and Potentilla had beaten the Knight and his teammate, Dunbreck Princess, in the class for teams of harness horses over 14.2 and not exceeding 15.2 hands. The success of Miss Dodge's pair brought the four way tie for first place, but an hour later Highland Cora, 4 year old daughter of the Rochester sportwoman's King of the Plain, accounted for Dickfield's seventh blue, again deadlocking the competition. The Illinois stable had nothing to match Shalimar's victory, however.

Whitney Horses Win.

Mrs. John Hay Whitney, showing seven of her famous jumpers from the Llangollen stables of Upperville, Va., Elsie B. Holdsworth of Seekonk, Mass., and Audrey's choice stables of Providence, R. I., also came in for a major share of today's honors.

Mrs. Whitney retired the Henry H. Dickson Memorial Challenge trophy for green or unqualified hunters when Nobody's Fool, ridden by Deborah Rood, took the measure of a large field, judged over the jumps and on conformation. The victory marked the third time a horse from Mrs. Whitney's extensive stable had won the event.

Mountain Romance Double Victor.

Miss Elsie Holdsworth scored twice with her fine three-gaited saddle horse, Mountain Romance. After winning the Theodore Relinghuysen Memorial Challenge cup for horses over 14.2 hands, the six year old chestnut gelding came back late in the afternoon to take the blue in the class for three-gaiters over 14.2 hands. Miss Dodge's Manhattan Serenade was runner-up in the Challenge cup while Silberman's Gay Highway took the red award in the latter class.

The honor of winning the first championship went to Audrey's choice stables' Peggy Dhu, which was judged the best of the junior five-gaited horses. Other blue ribbons were won by Mrs. W. P. Roth of San Francisco, a big winner three years ago; Frederick A. Fry of Greenwich, Conn., Capt. E. L. Andrews of Fort Sill, Oklahoma, and Elmina Brewster of Durham, Conn.

Seven Nations Represented.

In a close duel, Lieut. J. A. Talbot-Ponsonby, young British army officer, won the international individual military jumping title after being carried through four jump-offs by Capt. Eduardo Yanez, leader of the Chilean team. Mounted on Kineton, giant bay gelding, Lieut. Talbot-Ponsonby cleared 40 difficult jumps without a mishap to win one of the most exciting military events in the long history of the show.

Twenty other officers from seven nations started the competition but it was Capt. Yanez, riding Toqui, inches shorter than his rival, who forced the British officer to the limit.

N. U. Points for Michigan; Seeks Sweep

the Big Ten, of course, Northwestern won from Notre Dame and thus was the only team to whip the Irish.

This also brings to mind that after the Michigan game, Northwestern faces Notre Dame in the climactic football game of the midwest.

Northwestern's running attack has improved steadily. It never appeared better than against Wisconsin when the Wildcats marched to a first touchdown and then, after the Badgers had scored, took a two touchdown lead. This does not detract from Wisconsin's spectacular passing attack. Tommerson's short passes had Northwestern completely confused although they did cover the receivers. Wisconsin completed 19 passes in 30 attempts, which is ample example for Michigan and Notre Dame.

Waldorf's boys can throw passes, too, when they must as Ohio State found out, but the team's best offense is based on the fundamentals of blocking for Don Heap, Bernard Jefferson, Ollie Adelman, Don Geyer and Steve Toth.

C. Y. O. Boxers Fight Tonight on North Side

Beginning tonight north side fans will have a chance to see Catholic Youth organization boxers in action at Loyola university gym, Sheridan road and Loyola avenue, where north section qualifying trials will be held. Competition will continue tomorrow and will end Thursday night with the naming of the 32 north side qualifiers for the tournament quarter-finals Nov. 17, 18, 19, and 20.

The north side, which in past C. Y. O. tournaments has produced such outstanding fighters as Jimmy Christy, Oscar O'Hanlon, George Haberski, and Mike Adler, this fall is again expected to qualify three or four formidable boys in the finals of the C. Y. O. tourney Dec. 2. Winners of the qualifying matches tonight, tomorrow, and Thursday will advance to the quarter-final round of the meet starting next Tuesday.

Close followers of the annual C. Y. O. tourney predict that this year the north side representatives will be stronger than they have been in the last two years, during which only one north side boy won a C. Y. O. championship. In 1931, 1932, and 1933 north side boys won ten C. Y. O. championships. In the following two years only one title went to the north side.

Fighting tonight will be in the lighter weights—112, 118, 126, and 135 pounds. About 40 bouts will be run off, the first starting at 7:30 p. m. Among the boys who will be seen in action at Loyola gym are Charles Alicoate, Al Oddo, Bob Crowley, Tony Catalano, Sammy David, Naxareth D'Augustina, and Walter Cavaleri. Parishes having strong representations includes St. Fidelis, St. Alphonsus, Queen of Angels, Lady of Lourdes, St. Hedwig, Holy Rosary, and St. Aloysius.

Brydson Joins Blackhawks; Weight Down

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Glenn Brydson right wing of the Chicago Blackhawks, joined the team today. Brydson, who had difficulty in getting down to his playing weight throughout the long practice grind at the Blackhawks training camp, was pronounced fit by Physical Director Iverson to take his regular place on one of the Hawk's lines for their second game of the season, which takes place at Madison Square Garden, New York, Thursday. The Americans again will be their opponents.

Brydson's return to playing weight was highly gratifying to Manager Loughlin. The chunky and aggressive forward made 25 points last season as a member of the New York Rangers and the Blackhawks. Manager Loughlin in today's practice had young Harold Jackson at right wing alongside of Gottselig and Blair. The former St. Michaels college amateur defense star is improving daily under the tutoring of Loughlin. After today's workout Loughlin stated, "I'm certain that young Jackson has the stuff that goes to make a hocky star. He has as much natural ability as any newcomer I have ever seen. If he continues to improve in his forward line work he may see action in Thursday's game. In that event I will play Brydson at center."

After tomorrow night's game at Montreal where the Maroons open against the New York Rangers all teams in the National Hocky league will have started competition.

Parochial School Football Player Dies in Peoria

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—William Harney, 14 years old, died yesterday as a result of injuries sustained in a parochial school football game. Harney, full back on St. Patricks' team, suffered a kidney injury a week ago while playing St. Marks. Uremic poisoning developed.

JOCKY ANDERSON RIDES TRIPLE AT PIMLICO TRACK

The main event of the afternoon was the Class A handicap in which Anderson brought home the Chicago flyer, Our Reigh, owned by Mrs. John D. Hertz. In the Halethope purse, Merry Maker, carrying the silks of Mrs. Myrtle Shea, won by a nose after Anderson's powerful ride. Before that Anderson piloted Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Easiest Way to take the Corsica purse.

Anderson as yet has no weight worries, and he made the 110 pounds, which was Our Reigh's impost, without any difficulty. He won the race with almost as much ease. The margin was four lengths at the end of the mile and a sixteenth which was run in 1:47 flat. Two Bob landed the place a length before Silent Shot.

With Easiest Way Anderson was up on a supposed nonmudder, but the charm that Trainer Hirsch Jacobs has on the game set the footing at naught. Anderson brought his mount through a knothole at the top of the stretch, the sides of the hole being the rail on one side and Toby Tyler on the other. Anderson got through and won easily.

Steeplechase Jocky George Smoot suffered painful cuts about the face when he was unseated from Perfect Liar in the jumping race. P. D. Reid, the amateur, also fell, but escaped injury.

IOWA STORE TAX HELD ILLEGAL BY SUPREME COURT

Bars Levy on Gross Receipts of Chains.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—With Justices Brandeis and Cordozo dissenting, the United States Supreme court today held unconstitutional a section of the Iowa chain store tax law which is based upon gross receipts.

In affirming decisions of the lower courts respecting the gross receipts section of the statute the court was not required to pass on provisions of the statute which levy a sliding scale license tax on each store of a chain. These provisions, which had been upheld by the lower courts, are similar to those in West Virginia, Kentucky, and other states which the Supreme court has upheld.

The section of the Iowa statute involved in today's ruling levied a graduated tax on the gross receipts of chain stores ranging from $25 on all under $50,000 to $1,000 on each $10,000 in excess of $9,000,000.

Sliding Scale Not Affected.

The sliding scale license tax not affected ranges from $5 on each store in excess of 2 up to $155 on each store in excess of 50.

The decision of the court was announced in a one paragraph "per curiam" order, upholding the lower court rulings that the gross receipts tax was invalid under the equal protection clause of the 14th amendment to the constitution since it created arbitarary discrimination. Justices Cardozo and Brandeis wrote no dissenting opinion.

In other business decisions today the Supreme court upheld an importers' license tax levied by the state of California upon beer shipped from Wisconsin, Missouri, and other states; upheld a Texas law imposing an oil production tax upon both the lessor and the lessee, and ordered refunded to the federal receiver a $42,761 check paid by the Manufacturers' National Bank and Trust company of Rockford, Ill., one day before its closing.

Deposit Drawn Down.

The check on the Rockford bank was drawn by President Ekstrom of the Mechanics' Universal Joint company, who also was a director of the bank. This company had a balance of $65,224 in the bank on June 12, 1931, the day before it closed, and Ekstrom executed the check transferring $42,761 to the Third National Bank of Rockford, where it had a general checking account.

The Supreme court's opinion, written by Justice Brandeis, said that Ekstrom knew "the precarious condition" of the Manufacturers' bank; that he had examined the reports of the national bank examiner, and that on June 12, the day the check was drawn, he attended a meeting of the bank's directors called by the bank examiner.

The judgment of the Supreme court, as well as of the courts below, was based on the statute providing that payments made by national banks "in contemplation" of the commission of an act of insolvency "shall be null and void."

Other Decisions Made.

In other final rulings today the tribunal decided that:

The three Neidecker brothers—D. Coles, George W., and Aubrey—who fled from Paris when their Travelers' bank closed, cannot be extradited to France to face charges of larceny and other crimes. Chief Justice Hughes said, "however regrettable such a lack of authority may be," the President had no authority to take that action under a treaty with France. The "remedy lies with the congress," Hughes added.

The Second Circuit Court of Appeals was correct in refusing to permit William Fox, movie pioneer, to appeal from an order of the Southern New York federal district court imposing a $235,082 judgment and directing his imprisonment until he paid that amount or submitted to examination.

The Tennessee Publishing company, publisher of the morning and afternoon Nashville Tennessean, cannot reorganize under section 77-B of the federal bankruptcy act, providing for reduction of indebtedness through agreements with creditors.

Refuse to Pass on Tax.

The court refused to pass on litigation challenging the constitutionality of the processing tax of 3 cents per pound imposed by the 1934 revenue act on coconut oil imported from the Philippine Islands. The court also declined to review a ruling by the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia refusing to enjoin the government from giving the funds to the Philippine Islands. The lower court held this was a suit against the United States, which had not consented to be sued.

The court declined to intervene in the plan for reorganization of the 620 Church Street Building corporation of Evanston under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy act. The high court affirmed a ruling of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals which denied the right of the corporation to appeal from the reorganization order.

CHIEF FOREIGN MONEYS FIRMER AGAINST DOLLAR

Leading foreign currencies were mostly higher against the dollar in New York yesterday. Trading was light in New York, London, and Paris, apparently being little affected by the boost in silver prices at New York and London, and the Spanish developments.

The pound sterling rose 1-16 of a cent at New York to close at $4.87 11-16 and the French franc gained .00⅝ cent to 4.63⅝ cents.

Belgian belgas advanced .00½ cent to 16.92½ cents, while Swiss francs were unchanged at 22.98½ cents. The Dutch guilder moved counter to the general trend by losing .02 cent to 53.64 cents.

Engagement of gold abroad yesterday for shipment to the United States aggregated $5,322,000, including $3,806,000 in Canada, $666,000 in India, and $850,000 in England.

SANITARY BOARD DRAWS BONDS FOR JAN. 1 REDEMPTION

The Chicago sanitary district on Jan. 1 will redeem $6,623,000 in refunding bonds, representing the first redemption under its $140,000,000 refunding program, Ross A. Woodhull, president, announced yesterday. There were drawn by lot yesterday for redemption $1,997,000 of 4 per cent bonds, from the $4,874,000 in bonds of that interest rate which may be redeemed at the option of the district on Jan. 1.

The district in addition will redeem $520,000 in 5 per cent bonds, $1,527,500 in 4½ per cent bonds and $2,579,000 in 4¼ per cent bonds.

A total of $9,541,500 bonds may be retired optionally at the start of the new year, but in addition to the remainder of the 4 per cent bonds which are not being retired because of lack of funds, $41,000 of the bonds never were issued under the refunding program.

Appeals Court Upholds Labor Board Activity

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—Without deciding on constitutionality of the national labor relations act, the United States Court of Appeals today denied injunctions against the labor board in seven cases, holding that dissatisfied employers should adopt the means provided in the act itself for judicial review.

The injunctions were withheld solely on the ground that there were insufficient allegations to show irreparable damage. The court declared:

"The threatened damage is that the proposed activities of the board under the provisions of the act must inevitably result in friction, discord, loss of efficiency, and destruction of morale among employés.

Hearings May Disrupt Harmony.

"In other words, that the hearings and elections proposed to be had would result in disturbing the harmonious relations of the appellates and appellants' employés, and in addition will require the attendance of officers and employés at hearings, the employment of counsel, and like matters.

"We think that these annoying incidents are not enough of themselves to establish a case for equitable relief.

"The act itself provides for judicial review at the instance of the employer, and every order of the board which is not voluntarily obeyed is subject—before it is final and conclusive—to judicial scrutiny. What the board does is primarily investigatory—it is the order of the court of competent jurisdiction which gives vitality to its acts and proceedings.

"The act also provides an easy access to the court whenever there is believed to be an arbitrary exercise by the board of any of the powers conferred by the act. It is clear, therefore, that no irreparable injury will ordinarily result from the procedure authorized by the act, and no special or unusual damage is charged in any of the bills.

Recognize Defects.

"In saying this we are no means unmindful that the threatened proceedings of the board in any one or all of the cases may result in creating inharmonious relations between the employer and employé. Nor have we any doubt that the employers' participation in the proposed proceedings will involve some expense of time to the officials of all of the appellates.

"If the cast should subsequently be held to be unconstitutional in a proper case these losses will have to be borne without redress. But—as was said by Judge Sibley in a similar case in the Fifth circuit—these things are incident to every sort of trial and are part of the social burden of living under government. They are not the irreparable damage as to which equity will interfere to prevent."

MEATS TO COST MORE, BE SCARCE IN 1937, FEDERAL EXPERTS SAY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Folks who relish pork chops, ham, or juicy beefsteaks were warned by experts at the agricultural department today that these meats will cost more and be scarce next year.

The smallest supply of meats in more than 15 years was forecast officially in a report on "Meat Animals and Meats in 1937." Drouth, which reduced feed supplies for meat animals and forced much breeding stock to market, was blamed by the government spokesmen for the expected trends.

"The reduction will be most pronounced in pork and in the better grades of beef," the survey said. Another report made public by the agriculture department today predicted "some rise" in dairy prices in 1937. Still another disclosed that southern states were challenging the leadership of the western corn belt in hog production.

Discussing the fact that southern states last year produced 2,000,000 more hogs than in 1930 while the corn belt turned out 20,000,000 less than in that year, the department said the hog reducing program of the Agricultural Adjustment administration had been a contributing factor.

The trend was attributed "very largely," however, to recent drouth years that hit hardest in the corn belt. Also, the AAA program in the south, shifting much acreage from cotton and tobacco to feed crops, was described as an aid to pig production.

GENERAL MOTORS SALES THIS YEAR CLOSE TO RECORD

The General Motors corporation yesterday announced sales to consumers in the United States in the first ten months were the second highest on record. In the first ten months sales to consumers in the United States totaled 1,391,189 units, compared with 1,396,612 in the same period of 1928, which was the record year.

Sales of cars to consumers in this country in October totaled 44,274, compared with 85,210 in September and 68,566 in October a year ago. It was explained new models were a little later in getting into hands of dealers and the public this year, which accounted for less favorable comparisons.

October sales to dealers in the United States and Canada, together with shipments overseas, totaled 90,764, compared with 19,288 in September and 127,054 in October a year ago.

MORE CONCERNS TAKE FAVORABLE DIVIDEND ACTION

Additional corporations yesterday announced favorable dividend actions. Directors of the Motor Wheel corporation increased the regular quarterly rate from 25 to 40 cents. The company has paid or declared $1.10 this year, compared with 42½ cents last year.

Outlet company voted an extra of $2 a share on common, bringing the total paid or declared for 1936 to $6.50, against $2 in 1935. Action on the next regular quarterly dividend is not due until Jan. 3, 1937.

SILVER CLIMBS; SENATE BLOC TO SEEK NEW LAWS

Western Leaders to Meet Saturday.

Boomed by a sudden burst of speculative enthusiasm silver prices rose more than two cents an ounce in London and New York yesterday, while from Washington came an announcement that members of the senate silver bloc would meet on Saturday in Reno, Nev., to consider proposals for still more legislation to "do something" for silver producers.

SENATOR PITTMAN.

Saturday's conference was called by Chairman Key Pittman [Dem., Nev.] of the senate silver committee, for years the leading protagonist in the upper house of schemes to subsidize silver interests. The silver group includes Senators Thomas [Dem., Okla.], McNary [Rep., Ore.], Borah [Rep., Idaho], and King [Dem., Utah].

New York Price 47½ Cents.

In New York the price of the white metal was boosted yesterday to 47½ cents an ounce after being held at 44¾ cents since May 20, 1936.

In Montreal the price of the metal shot up 3 9-16 cents to 49 5-32 cents an ounce for November delivery. Contracts for December, March and May delivery advanced 3 cents an ounce each.

Handy & Harman, leading New York silver brokers, the treasury department's "official" silver market representatives, issued the following statement:

"We are quoting 47½ cents today as the New York official price for so-called foreign silver which is mined outside of the United States. Since May 19, 1936, our quotation has been 44¾ cents, based on the price of 45 cents paid by the United States treasury. Today's advance in the local market is a reflection of the rise in the London silver price."

Buying Source Not Disclosed.

Whether the United States treasury department engineered the rise in the quotations in London, which preceded the New York boost, was not disclosed. In the past the treasury has manipulated the market not only in London but in other world markets by purchasing large quantities of the metal at prices higher than other buyers were willing to offer.

Such treasury purchases were made in accordance with provisions of the silver purchase act of 1934 which directed the treasury not only to pay a pegged price for output of United States mines but that it also attempt to elevate silver quotations in world markets by a vast international buying operation.

Price Higher in London.

The price yesterday in London was the equivalent of approximately 47.97 cents an ounce, or 2¼ cents higher than on Saturday. Silver quotations have been rising steadily in London since the New Deal election victory in the United States, with gains shown daily. Yesterday's London price of 21⅞ pence compared with the price of 20 pence before the upturn of the last few days.

According to trade reports the buying in London was largely speculative.

Per Capita Circulation of Money Rises to $49.35

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Money in circulation at the end of October amounted to $6,351,265,033, the treasury announced today. This was an increase of $84,725,587 over the total as of Sept. 30, and of $138,668,103 over Oct. 31, 1935. The average per capita circulation was $49.35, compared with $48.72 Sept. 30, and $44.69 a year ago.

Steel Workers Accept Wage Boost; Other Raises Granted

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—A majority of employé representatives of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation have accepted the management's offer of a 10 per cent increase in wages, a spokesman for the company announced today.

Workers at four large plants, however, have asked more time to consider the proposal. One of these is the Gary [Ind.] sheet and tin mill. Employés at the other three plants—Youngstown, O., Duquesne, Pa., and Braddock, near Pittsburgh—plan to put the matter before a district council of employé representatives being organized by delegates from a number of mills. The four plants employ 25,000 men.

Some Withhold Approval.

Of those accepting the pay increase, workers at five mills have withheld their approval of the principle of regulating wages in relation to cost of living. This has been challenged as unfair by certain labor groups in that it would shut the door to workers sharing in increased profits of the steel companies.

Two tin plants at New Castle and mills at Monessen, Vandergrift, and Farrel-Mercer are the five Pennsylvania units withholding approval of the "living cost" provision of the wage boost.

Others Accept Plan.

Acceptance of the company proposal was reported from the Chicago south works and the Gary steel works, each employing about 15,000 men, in addition to 11 other major plants employing almost 30,000 more.

Worker representatives were reported to be discussing formation of a council to represent all Carnegie-Illinois mills in collective bargaining negotiations.

It was estimated that the wage boosts in the steel industry have added $10,000,000 to the Christmas budgets of the workers, and an increase in prices of finished steel products is expected early in 1937 to meet the pay roll enlargements.

Youngstown Boosts Wages.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—The Youngstown Sheet and Tube company this morning announced wage increases of approximately 10 per cent for the 14,000 workers in the Youngstown plant and the 11,000 men in the Indiana Harbor plant south of Chicago.

The National Tube company of Lorain, O., a subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, also joined in the general wage increases by granting a boost of 10 per cent.

Store Increases Pay.

Rockford, Ill., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—A Rockford department store, Owens, Inc., today placed in effect a 10 per cent wage increase for its 70 employés. The management said its sales for 1936 will exceed figures for any previous year in its history.

Mining Firm Orders Raise.

Duluth, Minn., Nov. 9.—(AP)—A wage increase of approximately 10 per cent, affecting more than 5,000 employés of the Oliver Iron Mining company, was announced today by Le Roy Salsich, president. The increase will be effective Nov. 16.

BELL TELEPHONE WILL KEEP PENSION SYSTEM DESPITE FEDERAL ACT

New York, Nov. 9.—[Special.]—The 270,000 employés of the Bell System companies were notified today that the companies, while complying with the pension provisions of the federal social security act, would continue to maintain the telephone system's company financed retirement plan in such manner that, should the federal program remain unchanged until 1942, workers will receive an amount equal to the full company pension and one-half the government pension.

As originally drawn, the company plan provided that any federal pension was to be deducted from the sum to which the employé would be entitled under the private retirement system. The Bell System, which includes the Western Electric company, has total pension funds of more than $195,000,000, making it the largest private pension fund in the nation. Employés make no contribution to this fund.

The federal social security board today informed member banks of the federal reserve system that their employés were not covered by the government program of old age benefits, taxes for which will be collected beginning Jan. 1.

Commercial banks affiliated with the federal reserve are regarded as "instrumentalities of the United States" within the meaning of the section of the act which bars federal employés from participation in the security fund.

REPUBLIC STEEL BONDS WILL BE OFFERED TODAY

Representing to a large extent bond financing for new capital funds, public offering will be made today by a banking group headed by Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and Field, Glore & Co., of a new issue of $25,000,000 of Republic Steel corporation general mortgage 4½ per cent bonds, series C, due Nov. 1, 1956. The bonds will be priced at 98 and accrued interest, to yield more than 4.65 per cent to maturity.

The estimated net proceeds to the corporation, after deducting estimated expenses, will be $23,707,800, exclusive of interest. Of such, $23,300,000 will be used to reimburse the company for capital expenditures such as the construction or acquisition of additions, betterments and improvements to plants and properties of the corporation or its subsidiaries.

The Floyd D. Cerf company, Chicago, and J. Hathaway Pope, New York, yesterday offered 80,000 shares of $1 par common stock of the Duro-Test corporation at $6 a share. The corporation manufactures several hundred types of incandescent lamps.

Steel Operating Rate Drops Slightly to 74 Pct.

New York, Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Operations of the steel industry this week declined .7 point to 74 per cent of capacity, compared with 74.7 last week, the American Iron and Steel Institute estimated today.

STOCKS CLIMB UNEVENLY IN BROAD MARKET

Rail, Packer, Silver Issues Buoyant.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 9.—The stock market began a new week today in irregular fashion. The majority of issues closed higher, although the final table contained a generous supply of minus signs. However, the market was the second broadest on record with 980 issues traded. Sales totaled 3,139,080 shares.

Early dealings were spirited as orders accumulated over the week-end sent brokers scurrying about the floor and caused the ticker to fall a few minutes behind actual operations. Prices at the opening were generally higher, but later realizing sent most of the leaders under their previous close.

Quieter at Midday.

By mid-day the market had quieted down considerably and speculative enthusiasm diminished as the session progressed, but observers could find no evidence of bearish sentiment. Toward the close prices hardened, bringing a majority of gains.

Only three groups stood out consistently during the day—rails, silvers and packers. Leading steel shares and copper issues dropped under the weight of profit-taking and the utilities also lost ground.

Corporate earnings, sales and dividend news continued to supply the market with bullish ammunition. Speculators were keenly interested in the reports of merchandising companies, the Montgomery Ward statement being fully up to expectations.

Strength was shown in the carrier 2 points. Substantial gains were scored by Great Northern, Delaware, and Hudson, New York Central, and Illinois Central. Union Pacific turned decidedly weak, dropping 4⅝ points.

Silver Issues Rise.

Motor stocks opened with a splurge, new high prices being paid for General Motors and Chrysler. The former managed to finish with a gain but the latter sank below its previous closing level.

Merchandising shares found ready buyers in anticipation of a lively Christmas trade. Montgomery Ward moved up $1.50, Arnold Constable registered a new top, Best climbed 2 points, Spiegel, May, Stern rose 2 points, and Macy's leaped into new high territory on a markup in excess of 3 points.

LARGEST COTTON CROP IN THREE YEARS FORECAST

U. S. Estimates 12,400,000 Bales; Prices Decline

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—(AP)—The largest cotton crop in three years was forecast by the federal crop reporting board today. It estimated a yield of 12,400,000 bales for this season, or 791,000 bales more than it predicted one month ago.

The crop now forecast would be 1,762,000 bales above last year's and 2,764,000 above the 1934 production, but still 2,267,000 below the average production for the five years ending in 1932. The estimated average yield for the country of 199.7 pounds of lint cotton per acre was the highest for three years, comparing with 186.3 pounds last year and a ten year average of 169.9 for 1923-'32.

Report Causes Price Decline.

Immediately after publication of the government estimate, which was 400,000 to 500,000 bales higher than most private calculations, cotton for future delivery fell $1 to $1.25 a bale at New York and options dipped $1.25 to $1.50 a bale at New Orleans. The declines were considered small by traders, however, who were of the opinion the large crop figures were offset by textile activity and the general industrial situation.

Spokesmen for the farm administration commented that any downturn in prices would have little effect on farmers, who already have been paid for the bulk of the crop. They added about 10,000,000 bales had been ginned prior to today's report.

Weather Favorable to Crop.

The big increase in the government estimate was attributed by the federal experts to "fall weather that has been almost ideal for the maturing and picking of the cotton crop."

They reported there had been almost no loss of cotton this fall from damage to open bolls and that delay in arrival of frost had permitted the late crop in the northern parts of the belt to mature.

Ginnings of this season's crop to the start of this month were well ahead of the last two years, with 9,880,068 bales ginned this season, against 7,743,612 last season and 7,917,671 in 1934.

SPOT COTTON PRICES LOWER.

Spot cotton closed 10 to 15 points lower with New Orleans at 12.20 cents, New York 12.25 cents, and Houston 12.05 cents a pound. Prices follow:

REPUBLIC BANK STOCKHOLDERS TO FIGHT LEVY

Plan Appeal from Double Assessment Ruling.

Stockholders of the defunct Central Republic Bank and Trust company yesterday prepared for a prolonged fight to appeal the decision of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson Saturday in holding them liable for the payment of about $14,000,000 to the Reconstruction Finance corporation in stock assessments.

A number of attorneys for stockholders announced in open court that the case will be taken to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, and if necessary to the United States Supreme court.

Entering of a formal decree ordering the assessment will be delayed until after Dec. 10 when Judge Wilkerson will hear arguments on the motion by O. John Rogge and other counsel for the RFC that stockholders also pay interest on the assessment at the rate of 5 per cent yearly since the RFC filed suit Nov. 19, 1934.

Doubts Item Allowable.

Judge Wilkerson expressed doubt that the interest item is allowable, but gave Rogge until Nov. 24 to file his suggestions on the matter. Attorneys for the stockholders were allowed until Dec. 8 to file their reply.

Rogge said yesterday that the assessment decree will be drafted but not presented to the court for approval until the interest question is settled. The interest would amount to approximately $1,400,000.

On the motion of RFC counsel, Judge Wilkerson indicated he would appoint Charles H. Albers as receiver for any amounts that may be paid by stockholders.

Signing of the order was delayed because of disagreement of attorneys over one clause in the petition for Albers' appointment which said that "a large number of stockholders are willing and able" to pay the 100 per cent assessment on stock held by them at the time the RFC made its 90 million dollar loan to the bank headed by former Vice President Charles G. Dawes. Judge Wilkerson indicated he would study the petition before signing the order.

Albers New Receiver.

Albers recently succeeded the late William L. O'Connell as state receiver for the bank. The court set his bond at $100,000, remarking that "nobody is likely to pay right away."

Judge Wilkerson also indicated he will refer to a master in chancery any special defenses already raised or to be raised by stockholders in regard to disputed ownership of stock and other incidental pleadings in the case.

Of particular interest was the stand to be taken by Dawes Brothers, Inc., the Dawes family trust which held 9,786 shares, the heaviest investor in the bank. The family stands to lose more than any other group through its liability for $978,600.

Dawes Brothers was organized many years ago to concentrate the family's security holdings, and maintains an office on the twelfth floor of the 208 South La Salle street building. The company has never published a financial statement because it is almost entirely a family concern, although a few scattered shares are held by outsiders.

Rufus C. Dawes, one of the four brothers and president of A Century of Progress Exposition, said yesterday, however, that the family concern is ready to meet the assessment if necessary.

KRAFT DENIES IT VIOLATED PRICE FIXING ACT

Denial that it violated price fixing and other provisions of the Robinson-Patman act was made yesterday by the Kraft-Phenix Cheese corporation in a brief filed with the federal trade commission, which is charged with the enforcement of the act. The Kraft-Phenix company and several other large corporations recently were cited by the federal trade commission for alleged violations of the act.

The cheese company, whose headquarters are in Chicago, outlined the methods it employs in carrying on its business. Denying that it has made any systematic discrimination in prices, it declared that certain price differentials and discounts form an integral part of the company's sales policy which has resulted in a constantly increasing number of retail outlets.

The result of this policy, the company contends, has built up a constantly expanding demand for the company's cheese and salad products, the net results of which have been to foster competition among retailers as well as among the competitors of the company.

STOCKHOLDERS OF UTAH COPPER APPROVE MERGER

New York, Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Stockholders of the Utah Copper company today approved the merger of that company with the Copper Corporation of Utah. The terms of the consolidation provide that stockholders of Utah Copper receive three shares of the new company's stock for each old share held. Approximately 99 per cent of the outstanding stock of Utah Copper is owned by the Kennecott Copper corporation.

Following the merger of these two companies, stockholders of the Copper Corporation of Utah will be asked to exchange their stock for that of the Kennecott Copper corporation on a share for share basis. When this [illegible] properties of the old Utah Copper company will be sold to Kennecott and the Utah Copper corporation will probably be dissolved.

Bank Law Revision Urged; Double Liability Criticized

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Several hundred bankers from Illinois and adjoining states gathered here today for the opening session of the second annual conference on banking sponsored by the college of commerce at the University of Illinois today.

Urging changes in the state banking laws, Frank C. Rathje, vice president of the Chicago City Bank and Trust company, Chicago, and president of the Illinois Bankers' association, asserted state laws pertaining to banks need to be modernized so that they will be similar to those regulating national banks.

Criticizes Double Liability.

"Our state constitution providing for double liability was adopted in the original constitution of the state," he said. "It has continued in that form until the present time. It was reincorporated in the constitution in 1870, and has remained unamended. At the same time, national banking laws have been modernized, so that on July 1, 1937, all liability on national bank stock will cease.

"The state banking laws must be modernized so that the powers and duties of the state banks will be similar to those of national banks. It is only by this procedure that the dual system of banking in the state can be maintained.

Praises State Banks.

"It is my opinion that state banks have served the people of Illinois in a competent way. Maintenance of this service can be continued only through a system of laws that will invite capital and competent management. That is the only way we can hope to continue the benefits of the state banks."

Future maintenance of high standards in corporate trusteeships, such as banks, lies in the character and training of junior trust officers, H. O. Edmonds, vice president of the Northern Trust company, Chicago, said at the round table on trust departments and the management of trusts.

Business Bits

Elgin E. Narrin and Raymond C. Lundquist have joined the investment counsel staf of Moody's Investors Service, William G. Brown, resident manager of the organization, announced yesterday. Narrin has for eight years been engaged in newspaper work in Chicago. Lundquist has been in investment counsel work here for several years.

Publication of a new semi-monthly review to be known as the MBA News Review has been inaugurated by the Mortgage Bankers' Association of America, George H. Patterson, secretary-treasurer, announced. The publication is an outgrowth of a bulletin service established some time ago. Patterson will be editor.

Dr. J. O. Perrine of the American Telephone and Telegraph company will give a demonstration of sound transmission before members of the Bond Club of Chicago at a luncheon today at the Palmer house. Dr. Perrine will use a 1,500 mile telephone cable circuit, a radio broadcasting hookup, and new radio equipment in the demonstration. Music and voices in the luncheon room will be sent over the telephone circuit and by radio to Terre Haute, St. Louis, Columbus, and Cleveland and back to Chicago to be compared with tones issuing from the loud speakers in the room.

The usual fall dinner meeting of the La Salle street cashiers will be held tonight in the Louis XVI. room of the Hotel Sherman. Thaddeus R. Benson, president of the Chicago Stock exchange, and Joseph A. Rushton, chairman of the Chicago Association of Stock Exchange Firms, will head the list of speakers.

Continental Illinois Bank Stock Rises; Others Steady

Stock of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company yesterday rose 2 points to 172 bid, 174 asked, in over the counter trading here. Other shares were mostly unchanged.

LEHMAN FIRM'S FEES FROM TRUST PROBED BY SEC

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—Lehman Brothers, well known New York investment banking house, stands to receive more than $1,800,000 in fees this year for managing the Lehman corporation, an investment trust, it was disclosed today at a public hearing before the Securities and Exchange commission. This was in contrast to $432,000 paid from September, 1929, to June, this year.

Attorney L. M. C. Smith, counsel for the SEC, brought out the management fees during a questioning of officials of the corporation in the commission's investigation into the investment trust field for possible remedial legislation. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York was formerly a moving spirit in the house of Lehman. His cousin, Philip, is chairman, and the latter's son, Robert, is president of the firm.

The fees so far this year for handling the investment trust amount to $596,000, and on the basis of current market values additional fees of $1,275,000 will accrue by the end of the year, it was estimated.

The sudden jump in fees was caused by a shift in the management contract. Previously the Lehman corporation paid 6 per cent of the profits each year to stockholders before paying 12½ per cent of the remaining profits to Lehman Brothers. Under the new contract the shareholders will get 4 per cent and Lehman Brothers will take 8⅓ per cent.

It was also revealed that Lehman Brothers obtained 25 per cent of all its brokerage business from handling stock for its own trust. Brokerage commissions paid by the trust to its sponsoring house amounted to $170,000 last year.

DEPOSIT CLAIMS OF 5½ MILLIONS PAID OUT BY FDIC

89% Returned in 1935; 24 Banks Affected.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Claims totaling $5,447,000 were paid by the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation to depositors in 24 closed banks during 1935, according to the annual report of the agency made public today by Chairman Leo T. Crowley.

LEO T. CROWLEY.

The preparation of nearly 100 pages of tables and detailed analyses of the 17,237 insured banks and branches delayer publication of the report, it was June of last year.

Payments to depositors during 1935 constituted 89 per cent of the insured deposits in the 24 suspended banks. Insured deposits of $666,000 remained unpaid at the end of the year. Of the 31,811 depositors in the 24 banks, 31,598 were fully protected by federal insurance, preferred claims, pledge of security or offsetting claims.

21,195 Deposit Claims Paid.

Deposit claims of 21,195 were paid by the corporation or were settled by the allowance of their preferment or by the sale of pledged security. Claims of 1,951 depositors had been fully settled by the offsetting of counter claims which the bank held against these depositors. Claims of 8,665 depositors had not been presented so the corporation was unable to make payment on them.

Assets of the FDIC were reported at $337,209,795 at the end of 1935, an increase of $3,936,443 over 1934. The assets were listed as follows:

Cash on hand and on deposit, $33,477,860; United States government securities, $298,258,349; assets acquired through bank suspensions and mergers, $5,418,101; deferred charges and miscellaneous assets, $55,483.

Chief changes in the condition of insured banks during the year, the report said, were an increase in deposits of 5 billion 100 million dollars, a decrease in other liabilities of 700 million, and an increase in assets of 4 billion 500 million.

Warn of Over Expansion.

Detecting an increase in the proportion of total banking offices consisting of branches from 16.7 to 17.4 per cent of the total number of banks during 1935, the FDIC issued a mild warning against overexpansion of the banking structure. Although the argument for branch banking was economy there was "relatively little information" available regarding the comparative costs of operating branches and of operating independent unit banks, according to the FDIC.

Unnecessary and unprofitable banking offices may result from the establishment of numerous branches as well as from the chartering of numerous unit banks," said the report.

The FDIC also declared that one of the major problems in the preservation of a sound banking structure was the maintenance of an adequate capital cushion.

One feature of the report was the revelation that the corporation had reduced its staf by 110 employés, a phenomenon for a government agency. At the end of the year there were 738 officers and employés, 237 in Washington and the remainder in the field and regional offices.

Botany Consolidated Mills Plan Approved by Referee

Paterson, N. J., Nov. 9.—(AP)—A bondholders' protective committee plan for reorganization of Botany Consolidated Mills, Inc., holding company for the Botany Worsted Mills of Passaic, had the approval today of Federal Bankruptcy Referee John Grimshaw Jr. The recommendation of approval was forwarded to Federal Judge Guy L. Fake in Trenton. Under the plan, selected from several proposed under section 77-B of the federal bankruptcy act, the holding company would be merged with the Botany Worsted Mills and a new board of fifteen directors would be chosen.

UTILITIES POWER BANKRUPT CASE TO BE HEARD HERE

U. S. Judge Shifts Suit After Clash.

Freeport, Ill., Nov. 9.—[Special.]—Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward today on his own motion ordered transfer of the involuntary bankruptcy case of the Utilities Power and Light corporation from this jurisdiction to that of the eastern division in Chicago, but not until he rebuked a would-be petitioner and prevented him from filing such a motion.

The case will be reassigned at Chicago for hearing before one of the sitting federal judges.

Judge Woodward interrupted a motion by counsel for Irwin T. Gilruth, Chicago, co-trustee for the Public Utilities Security corporation, owner of 42 per cent of the defendant company's voting stock.

Judge Criticizes Attorney.

"In other words, you do not want me to try this case. You think this court is not capable of caring for its business," the judge remarked. "Well, why don't you say so?"

He then denied the attorney's motion and upon his own motion entered the order transferring the case. Gilruth previously had indicated that he wanted the case transferred to Federal Judge William H. Holly, saying that Judge Holly for more than a year and a half has had jurisdiction over the affairs of two associated companies and therefore was familiar with the situation.

Transferring of action to Chicago gives it the status of an entirely new case. The original case was filed here several weeks ago by four persons claiming to be creditors of the corporation through their holdings of $8,500 in unsecured 20 year gold debentures of Utilities Power and Light.

Charge Company Is Insolvent.

The petition asserted that the 400 million dollar concern was insolvent, that the court should appoint a trustee or trustees and that the company should be reorganized under section 77B of the federal bankruptcy act.

The allegations of these petitioners were denied by the company last month through its attorneys, Dwight H. Green and Walter Brewer, of Chicago, in a formal answer which said the petitioners knew that the company was solvent.

Harley L. Clarke, who founded Utilities Power and Light more than twenty years ago, recently resigned as its president. His retirement followed reports that the Atlas corporation, New York investment concern, had obtained control and forced his resignation.

OIL MEN CHARGE MOUNTING TAXES GOUGE AUTOISTS

Urges Revisions of State and Federal Levies.

Asserting that users of petroleum have long been victims of tax levying bodies, Baird H. Markham, director of the American petroleum industries' committee, yesterday asserted that his organization will lead a fight to protect motorists from future excessive levies and to bring about reductions where possible.

B. H. MARKHAM.

The petroleum industries' committee is one of the activities of the American Petroleum institute, which yesterday opened its seventeenth annual meeting at the Stevens hotel. Approximately 2,500 delegates, comprising most of the leading petroleum men in the country, devoted most of their attention to preliminary committee work.

Seek to Protect Customers.

"We in the petroleum industry believe we are morally obligated to protect our customers from overtaxation, overregulation, and all other abuses," Markham said. "We also feel justified in protecting our industry from strangulation by taxation and from exploitation by selfish groups wishing to escape their own obligations."

Markham asserted the petroleum industry and users of its products are more heavily taxed than any other group, paying 201 different taxes. He said that in 1935 the industry and its products were taxed $1,222,000,000, or nearly seven times net earnings of $173,000,000.

"The oil industry is frequently regarded as the first target when new taxes are proposed," Markham continued, "and there is every indication that if the industry does not fully organize for its own protection, government will through taxation impose such staggering burdens upon it as to make reasonable profits impossible.

Plans for Cutting Tax.

Markham outlined the policies which the petroleum industries' committee will follow in its efforts to reduce the tax burden on petroleum users. Among these were the following:

1. Helping to strengthen state gasoline tax laws so that evasion of taxes and substitutions may be prevented.
2. Opposition to further increases in gasoline taxes. It was explained that many tax bodies are endeavoring to escape their own tax obligations by saddling additional burdens on the petroleum industry.
3. Advocating reduction of gasoline taxes where they are disproportionately high.
4. Opposing unreasonable restrictions upon operation of motor vehicles.
5. Urging taxation on petroleum products be left solely to the states.
6. Maintaining the principle that gasoline taxes be used only for highway construction and maintenance.

NOTICE TO OWNERS OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST THE CITY OF CHICAGO

Owners of judgments rendered against the City of Chicago prior to April 1, 1931, hereby are notified that money for payment of such judgments and interest thereon will be available from sale of Chicago Judgment Bonds.

Transcripts of each judgment and deeds in condemnation proceedings must be transmitted not later than November 20, 1936, to R. B. Upham, City Comptroller, Room 501, City Hall. The City Comptroller will issue his official receipt therefor and agree to hold such transcripts and deeds for the benefit of the judgment creditor subject to payment of the judgment.

This is absolutely necessary to identify the person or corporation authorized to receive payment and sign satisfaction of judgments. Identification of judgment creditors and computing accrued interest will involve considerable time and labor, hence the urgency of prompt action.

At a later date notice will be given relating to the date of payment of judgments rendered subsequent to April 1, 1931. Owners of such judgments should advise the City Comptroller of their names and present addresses.

R. B. UPHAM,

HOG RECEIPTS SOAR, BUT PRICES CLOSE STEADY

Early Decline Recovered in Later Dealings.

The largest hog receipts since Dec. 18, 1934, arrived at Chicago yesterday, sending prices lower for a time although the losses were regained. The total at 35,000 head was above any corresponding day in five years, comparing with 18,658 last Monday and with 13,205 a year ago. Eleven leading markets received 116,000 head, an increase of 47,000 over the previous Monday and an increase of 76,000 over a year ago.

Prices declined 10 cents at the start of trading, but demand expanded rapidly on the break and losses were quickly recovered. Smaller packers whose supply late last week was small continued to bid for volume and bought a big share of the best grade young hogs at steady prices.

Top Sale Is $9.75.

The top quotation of $9.75 compared with $9.80 paid sparingly at the close of last week. The average price for the session remained unchanged at $9.60, only 15 cents under the top.

Hogs weighing from 217 to 355 pounds reached yesterday's peak. A feature of the day was the sale of 205 head from one farm averaging 355 pounds at $9.75, returning a gross of $7,095. Farmers sold about 4,000 pigs here yesterday, the bulk consisting of medium to good killing stock weighing 80 to 110 pounds at $6.00 to $6.90. Best 120 to 135 pound pigs brought $8 to $8.75, and bulk of the best 140 to 160 pound under weights brought $8.85 to $9.25.

More than 350 steers sold at yesterday's $12 peak, the largest number to reach the top of the list on any day in many months. Loads at the peak averaged from 979 to 1,325 pounds.

Light and Medium Favored.

Demand favored best light and medium weight steers under 1,200 pounds at strong rates, but the heaviest cattle, especially stock over 1,400 pounds in weight, were neglected at steady to slightly lower prices. Offerings of grassy and low priced shortfeds were smaller and these were steady.

Cows sold weak to 25 cents lower, while hefers brought strong to 25 cents higher rates. Calves were about steady.

Lambs tumbled 25 to 50 cents, natives to city butchers bringing $9.15 and to packers $9. Fed westerns bulked at $8.25 to $8.75 and most fat range stock cashed at $8 to $8.25. Yearling wethers reached $8 and yearling ewes went for slaughter at $7. Old ewes brought $4.25.

SUGAR

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was firm and unchanged today at 3.70c per lb for spots. Local refiners were interested at this level for this year's sugar, but there was nothing available below 3.75c and the only sale confirmed was to an operator of 1,000 tons of sugar from sstore, either Cubas or duty free, sellers' discretion, at the 3.75c level. New crop sugars, however, were available at 3.70c.

Futures were firmer again with some positions at new high levels on increased trade and outside buying promoted by the continued strength in the spot market. Realizing and hedge selling checked the upward movement after active positions advaced 3 points to 5 points and there were partial reactions with the market closing 5 points higher on November and 1 point to 2 points higher on new crops. Sales, 20,050 tons.

DECEMBER CORN HITS NEW PEAK, BUT BUYING LAGS

Price Changes Small; Other Grains Mixed.

Aggressive buying of December corn futures which featured trading last week disappeared yesterday and price changes were confined to small fractions. The December delivery closed ⅝ cent higher at $1.03¼ a bushel. Deferred futures finished unchanged to ⅜ cent lower. The December delivery touched a new high for the year at $1.04¼.

Wheat futures closed unchanged to ½ cent a bushel lower after advancing a cent in early trading. Rye gained a major fraction on the active deliveries. December barley advanced 1¼ cents to 83½ cents a bushel, a new high for the season. Oats closed unchanged. Soy bean futures declined ¾ to 1¼ cents a bushel.

Profit Taking Checks Rise.

Profit taking was the main influence in checking the sensational advance in December corn futures. Cash corn in the sample market was unchanged to 2 cents a bushel higher, with no sales reported below $1 a bushel. Current prices for cash corn are the highest at this season of the year since 1929.

Commercial demand for cash corn at Chicago has been materially curtailed as the result of the advance of 10 cents a bushel last week. The bureau of agricultural economics yesterday announced that imports last week of Argentine corn at United States ports aggregated 1,500,000 bushels. The steamship Winona arrived at Chicago late Saturday with 121,000 bushels of Argentine corn which graded No. 2 yellow flint and contained only 14.5 per cent moisture. It will be unloaded at the Calumet elevator, operated by Rosenbaum Brothers. The steamship Swinebourne arrived at New York yesterday with 180,000 bushels of Argentine corn.

Closing Prices Compared.

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Wk.ago.
Wheat	$1.15⅛	$1.15¼	$1.14
Corn	1.03¼	1.02⅞	.94⅞
Oats	.43	.43	.41¼
Rye	.86⅝	.85⅝	.82¾

American wheat markets continue to be dominated by the action of Liverpool and Winnipeg. The English market closed 1⅛ to 2⅛ cents a bushel higher on reports of unwanted rains in northern Argentina, where harvesting of new wheat is under way. Frost was reported in the province of Buenos Aires and the pampas territory in Argentina. It is feared the new wheat crop may have been damaged. Winnipeg advanced a cent early, but reacted later and closed unchanged.

LARD DECLINES ON BREAK IN COTTONSEED OIL PRICES

Lard futures yesterday closed 5 to 12½ cents lower. Commission houses with eastern connections bought early, but a sharp break in the price of cottonseed oil futures led to increased pressure on lard, which closed at the bottom. Clear bellies [salt pork] advanced 25 to 30 cents.

Cash lard was quoted at $11.85; loose, $11.32½; leaf, $11.12½, and clear bellies at $15.12½ per 100 pounds. Prices follow:

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

Soil Liming Plan

November 9, 1936.

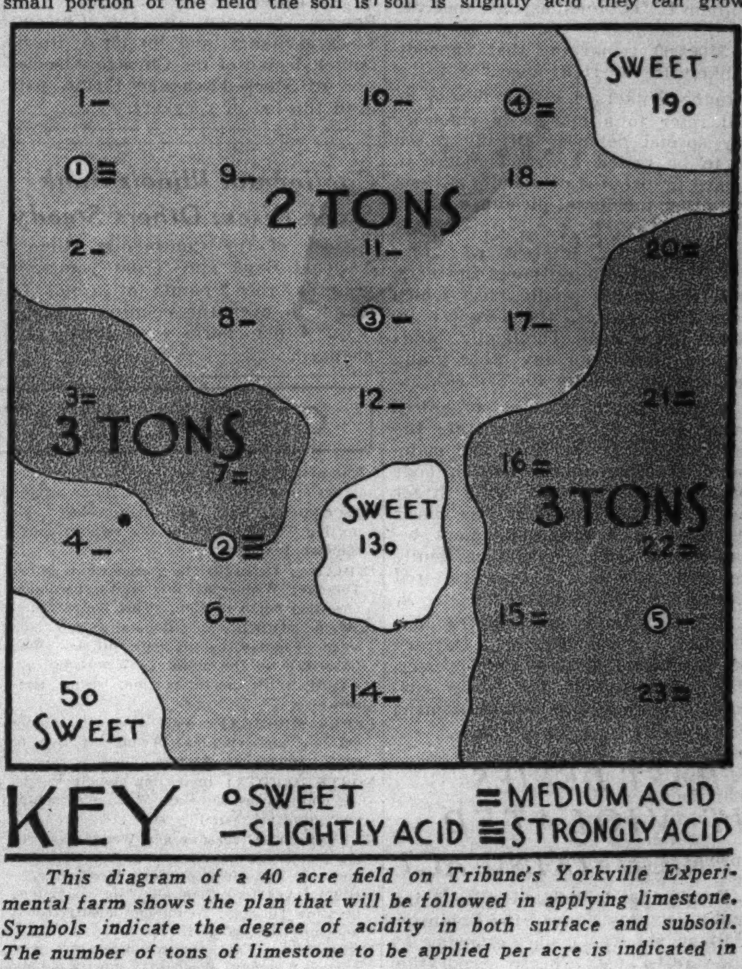
Limestone will be applied this winter on field No. 8 at the Tribune's Yorkville Experimental farm, where a systematic soil rebuilding program was launched this fall. Reports of soil samples taken from the field of 85 acres and analyzed by experts at the University of Illinois have just been received. Recommendations of the experts will be followed in applying the plant food elements that are needed in the soil.

The analysis revealed that on a small portion of the field the soil is sweet, containing a sufficient amount of lime for the vigorous growth of common legume crops, particularly clover and alfalfa. A large part of the field was found to be slightly acid and needing about two tons of the limestone per acre. In still other parts of the same field the soil fell in the "medium acid" class, needing about three tons per acre.

The accompanying diagram of 40 acres of the field shows exactly where the soil is sweet and sour. It also shows where it needs lime and the tons of limestone to be applied per acre. The numbers outside the circles indicate where surface samples of soil were taken, while the numbers inside the circles show where subsoil samples were taken. The symbols near the numbers indicate the degree of acidity of the soil.

On sweet soil experts have found that farmers can grow alfalfa, sweet clover, and other legumes without adding limestone. Where the surface soil is slightly acid they can grow red clover, alsike, and soy beans, but only fair alfalfa and probably no sweet clover. If the surface soil is medium acid it will grow alsike and soy beans, but will probably not grow a good crop of red clover. But soil that falls in the "strong acidity" class will not produce good crops of any commonly grown legumes.

The plan of applying phosphate will be given in this column later.



This diagram of a 40 acre field on Tribune's Yorkville Experimental farm shows the plan that will be followed in applying limestone. Symbols indicate the degree of acidity in both surface and subsoil. The number of tons of limestone to be applied per acre is indicated in the different areas.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 9.—Although the general advance in bond prices lost some of its momentum over the week-end, high grade issues including United States government loans, extended their gains today on the New York Stock exchange in somewhat less active trading.

Transactions in all bonds amounted to $15,795,000, compared with $18,765,000 Friday.

The persistent demand for United States treasury bonds and guaranteed obligations carried sixteen of those issues to the highest levels since their issuance. Net gains of 1-32 to 12-32 of a point ruled throughout the list on a turnover of only $1,268,500, against sales of $4,040,100 on Friday.

Institutions Buying.

Heavy institutional buying on the theory of continued low money rates remains, according to traders, as the fundamental influence behind the recent sharp advance in the federal loans.

Some irregularity developed in the market for domestic corporation bonds today, but the main trend continued upward. Better grade railroad liens were in good demand at higher levels, while most of the recently favored convertible industrial issues scored good sized gains.

Foundry Issues Climb.

Central Foundry convertible 6s and 5s continued to climb, the former adding 3⅛ points and the latter 1⅛ points, both touching new high marks.

A sharp advance in French dollar bonds featured otherwise routine trading in the market for foreign bonds. French government stamped 7s rose 8 points and the stamped 7½s gained 2½ points. Nord Railway 6½s, Paris Orleans Railway 5½s, and Soissons 6s scored sharp gains. South American bonds were firm to moderately higher.

Murray Corporation.

Investors' Guide: Can you give me some information on Murray corporation? Do you consider this a good investment?—L. J. C.

Answer: One of the important manufacturers of automobile bodies and body parts, the Murray Corporation of America also produces cushion springs and upholstery padding and a line of sheet metal products, including chassis frames, hoods, and fenders.

Ford Motor company has been Murray's largest customer for years, and has ordered truck frames as well as bodies in the last two years. Chrysler buys Dodge truck frames from Murray and is reported to have placed a substantial order for frames and bodies of the 1937 Plymouth, thus improving the outlook for Murray and making it less dependent on Ford. Fenders and chassis parts are furnished for General Motors trucks and Studebaker; some bodies are sold to Packard, and parts are supplied for Lincoln and Pierce-Arrow cars.

Plants, which are centered in the Detroit area, have been reorganized for efficiency and expanded to handle increased production during the last two years.

Funded debt of $1,750,000 was erased late in 1935 through retirement of bonds or their conversion into common stock. Common stock outstanding thus was increased 162,000 shares to a total of 930,615 shares. These shares constitute the company's whole capitalization.

Reflecting the sharp increase in automobile production, particularly that of Ford, the company reported 1935 net income of $1,430,000, or $1.54 a share on the basis of present capitalization. This was the first profit since 1930 and is exceeded only by that of $1,795,000 in 1928.

For the first six months of 1936 net income was $1,130,000, or $1.21 a share, compared with $1,203,000, or $1.29 a share, in the first half of 1935. The decrease this year was caused by a small first quarter business as a result of moving up introduction of 1936 models to November, 1935.

The company sustained losses of $798,000 in 1934, $793,000 in 1933, $1,897,000 in 1932, and $1,258,000 in 1931, but has maintained a good financial position.

No dividends have been paid since a stock distribution in 1930, but directors are scheduled to meet Nov. 14 for consideration of dividend action. With the automobile industry continuing to flourish, the stock should rise to a fairly good rating when it is placed on a regular dividend basis.
